

Marshal Enterprises (ME) Will Print New Western Map For Heilsberg 1807

ME announced today, November 1, 2022, that it would be printing a new western map for its newest release, La Bataille d'Heilsberg 1807, within the next few weeks. The western map has a few glitches present which do not interfere with play; and, in order to improve the overall aesthetics of the playing experience, will issue a new map and send it free of charge to the purchasers of the Heilsberg 1807 game. Any purchases of the game after today will have the new map.

There was a trimming error to the western map which has led ME to issue a new map. Both the western and eastern map are still functional for the enjoyment of the game. The western map is used in all five of the scenarios. Scenarios 1 and 2 are played on a portion of the western map which is not at all affected by the changes. ME recommends if you are going to be receiving the new replacement map, the customer should be comfortable in playing the first two scenarios as presented in Heilsberg 1807 without a need for the replacement map.

Since its business rebirth in 2012, ME has designed and released 20 different La Bataille games. ME is the intellectual consortium composed of the original designers of the La Bataille system and dedicated to the study of the Age of Revolution and Age of the First French Empire.
