Witness statement

"I had been drinking with Reggie, Scott and Damian at The Anchor. I was having more fun occasionally chatting to Pierre behind the bar than I was with the three of them, to be honest, so I left at around 9.30. They were drinking quite heavily. The chat kept going back to their friends from first year. I don't really know them so I excused myself and went home after two shandies.

Yeah, yeah, rock and roll, I know. But I didn't really feel that comfortable. Me and Scott were both running for Varsity Editor so there was a small competition between us. It felt a bit awkward and Scott was being quite boisterous about it at times. Eventually I had enough and made my excuses."
