

Terms of Use for Global Security & Data, LLC

GLOBAL
Security & Data

Terms of Use Agreement

Please read over these terms of use before using Global Security & Data, LLC website. By accessing, viewing, or interacting with the Global Security & Data website, you hereby agree to be bound by the terms listed in this agreement. If you wish to disagree or decline any of these terms, you may not access, view, or interact with the Global Security & Data website.

For the use of this Terms of Use agreement alone, the following terms are accompanied by their definitions to be used at any point in this privacy policy.

- Company – This refers directly to and about Global Security & Data, LLC, or any reference to the word company from, not limited to but including “We”, “Us”, “Our”, and “This”.
- Global Security & Data Website – specifically <http://www.globalsecurity-data.com> and all web pages accessible under that domain.
- User – The person that is accessing any services or facilities on the Global Security & Data website.
- Personal Data – Any information that is collected by the Global Security & Data website or its host that is correlated with a specific user.
- Usage Data – Any information that is collected by the Global Security & Data website or its host that is not personal data, rather, information about any website interactions.
- Host – The website hosting platform company GoDaddy that is used to host and make accessible on the internet the Global Security & Data website. You can read about their legal agreements and policies on their website here.

User Guidelines

1. Access of any kind to the Global Security & Data website is a legally binding agreement to this Terms of Use document in its entirety.
2. Global Security & Data reserves the right to update this agreement at any time, and a notice will be posted on our website here.
3. Use of the Global Security & Data website to violate any local, state, or federal law(s) is strictly prohibited and could result in but not limited to, the user being blocked and a response from any law enforcement agency.
4. Where content is allowed to be uploaded or entered in by users of the Global Security & Data website, users are strictly prohibited from uploading or entering any content that is obscene, pornographic, malicious, or illegal. Global Security & Data has the right to report any uploaded content to any law enforcement agency under suspicion of being any content listed above.
5. Global Security & Data has sole control over what it as a company deems to be obscene, malicious, or otherwise unwarranted content.
6. Any content that is present on the Global Security & Data website, except for content that is either open licensed or otherwise copyrighted or protected, is property of Global Security & Data and is protected by the rights assigned to it and enforced by the laws that govern it.

Hyperlinks to other websites

Any hyperlink, whether it be an image or text, that connects the user to a third-party website or webpage is the responsibility of that third-party website. Global Security & Data assumes no responsibility for any liability for damage or loss associated with a linked third-party website. Third-party websites may have their own privacy policy and terms of use or similar agreements that we would recommend you, the user, carefully check over before further use of their website. Any user that connects to the Global Security & Data website acknowledges and agrees to this policy by the same agreement to the Terms of Use agreement as a whole.

Contact us

To contact Global Security & Data about any questions regarding this Terms of Use policy, either go to the link provided here, the “Contact Us” webpage on the Global Security & Data website, or send an email to support@globalsecurity-data.com.