READING SKILLS [20 Marks]

Q1. Read the passage given below:

[10 marks]

1. One of the greatest challenges in today's world is managing our attention. In an age of constant notifications, endless entertainment, and instant communication, the ability to concentrate has become rarer than ever. Yet, concentration is the key that unlocks true learning, meaningful work, and creative success. The difference between individuals who excel and those who struggle often lies not in intelligence or resources but in their ability to focus their minds deeply on one task without distraction.

2. Our mind, by nature, is restless. It jumps from one thought to another, drawn by curiosity or temptation. However, when it finds something meaningful or loved, it becomes absorbed. Consider a reader lost in a novel—hours may pass unnoticed. Similarly, an artist may forget hunger or fatigue while painting. Such examples remind us that concentration flourishes when love and interest fuel it.

3. Interestingly, the things we love differ from person to person. A child may delight in games but feel weary of textbooks, while a scientist may spend sleepless nights in a laboratory, immersed in experiments. Music illustrates this well: one person may be moved by the complexity of classical ragas, while another finds joy in the simplicity of folk tunes. The object of concentration may change, but the principle remains: love gives power to focus.

4. Yet, there is a hidden danger. Sometimes concentration is not chosen but forced upon us. A catchy advertisement jingle may play endlessly in our heads. A troubling thought may hold the mind captive, no matter how much we try to push it away. In such cases, the mind controls us rather than the other way round. True mastery lies in directing our attention, not surrendering it.

5. If we learn to train our minds, concentration becomes our greatest strength. Students who focus on studies grasp concepts quickly. Professionals who give their full attention to tasks achieve excellence. On the other hand, scattered attention leads to wasted energy and mediocrity. The art of living well, therefore, lies in choosing what deserves our focus and then holding it steadily, instead of allowing every distraction to steal it away.

Based on your understanding of the passage, answer the questions given below:

I. What does the phrase “the difference between individuals who excel and those who struggle” emphasise? (paragraph 1) [1]

II. Complete the following with the correct option from those given. [1]

Concentration is essential in achieving success in any area of life because—

Options: (Paragraph 1)

- (A) it makes individuals highly intelligent.
- (B) it allows individuals to focus their minds entirely on a task, leading to growth and achievement.
- (C) it ensures that everyone enjoys music and art.
- (D) it prevents distractions from occurring altogether.

III. Fill in the blank with the correct option from those given. (Paragraph 2) [1]

In the phrase “when it finds something meaningful or loved, it becomes absorbed,” the word ‘absorbed’ refers to—

Options:

- (A) a deep involvement and focus that blocks distractions.
- (B) a temporary liking without dedication.
- (C) a social approval gained from others.
- (D) an outward attraction influenced by appearance.

IV. Support the writer’s idea that a person’s ability to concentrate shapes their achievements. [2]

V. Select the option that best reflects the concept of concentration’s impact on music preferences. (Paragraph 3) [1]

Options:

- (A) A child enjoys lively songs because they stop the mind from wandering.

(B) A lover of classical music may struggle with folk songs as the simplicity challenges deep focus.

(C) A person enjoys only one type of music because concentration destroys interest.

(D) Music prevents people from working because it distracts them.

VI. State whether the following statement is True or False. [1]

The writer suggests that the mind often controls us, rather than us controlling it. (Paragraph 4)

VII. The writer mentions “absorbed in something loved” in paragraph 2. Which of the following is an example of this? [1]

Options:

(A) A reader forgets time while finishing a novel.

(B) A painter dislikes an art exhibition because it is crowded.

(C) A student dislikes mathematics due to its complexity.

(D) A worker feels restless in a noisy environment.

VIII. List any two ways uncontrolled concentration affects individuals.

(Paragraph 4) [2]

Q2. Read the passage given below: [10 marks]

1. A recent study conducted in a metropolitan city revealed that students who use digital devices for more than six hours a day show signs of reduced attention span and sleep disturbances. The study observed that excessive screen time is directly linked to reduced academic performance and increased stress. Interestingly, students who limited screen exposure and engaged in outdoor activities reported better concentration and emotional well-being.

2. The researchers further found that the type of screen usage matters. Students using devices for educational purposes—such as online classes, research, and skill-building—performed better than those who spent long hours on social media and gaming. It highlighted that the quality of screen time is as important as the quantity.

3. The report concluded that balanced use of technology can enhance learning, but over-dependence on it reduces productivity. It recommended that schools and parents encourage digital discipline, promote hobbies, and ensure students spend adequate time in physical activities to maintain both health and focus.

Based on your understanding of the passage, answer the questions given below: [10 Marks]

I. Complete the given sentence. (Paragraph 1) [1]
