

Shop Topics Back Safety (002-T)

Quiz / Test

According to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, approximately how many eye injuries occur in the workplace daily in the United States?

What are three negative outcomes that can result from workers failing to wear proper eye protection?

Which organization sets the requirements for eye and face protection, including standards for impact resistance and

Workplace hazards like metal shavings, wood chips, and dust that can strike or scrape the eye belong to which category of injury causes?

What category of eye injury is caused by exposure to industrial chemicals, cleaning agents, or welding sparks?

An eye injury caused by a direct impact from a larger object or a tool is classified as what type of trauma?

Damage to vision over time from UV rays from welding or lasers is categorized as what type of hazard?

What type of eye hazard can result from blood splashes, coughing, or touching the eyes with dirty hands?

For general protection against flying debris, what specific type of safety glasses should be chosen?

To protect against chemical splash hazards, workers should elect to use _____.

What type of personal protective equipment is recommended for high-impact tasks such as grinding or welding?

To prevent UV exposure during welding, what piece of specialized equipment with proper shading must be used?

What is a key requirement for the proper fit of protective eyewear?

What maintenance practice should be performed regularly on protective eyewear?

Under what condition must protective eyewear be replaced?

Why is it crucial to replace scratched or damaged protective lenses?

Employers must ensure compliance with OSHA's General Industry Standard ____, which mandates adequate eye and face protection.

Protective eyewear must meet ____ standards to ensure impact resistance, optical clarity, and durability.

What is a critical rule regarding the use of safety glasses in designated hazardous areas?

To prevent infections, what behavior involving hands and eyes should workers always avoid?

When working with chemicals, what measure should be used to prevent irritating fumes from reaching the eyes?

What is the primary goal of conducting frequent safety briefings and hands-on demonstrations?

The final thoughts of the document state that eye and face injuries are ____ with the right precautions, training, and