God's message
I LOVE YOU Pinky namaste

Always hold onto this message: 'As you sow, so shall you reap.' The diligent and sincere efforts you put in will yield the fruits of your labor. Perhaps the essence of preventive care is this transformative realization: by prioritizing self-care, you lay the foundation for abundant rewards in all facets of life, from personal well-being to professional success and relationships. Conversely, neglecting self-care and not aiding others might lead to barren times, devoid of the blessings of abundance. This profound adage serves as a reminder of the significance of doing good for others – the ultimate virtue. In working together for the greater good, we sow the seeds for our prosperity, tapping into the limitless bounty that life offers.

Immerse yourself in diligent endeavors and meditative actions that are inherently right. When you maintain this consistency in doing good, the universe will recognize your efforts and shower you and your loved ones with abundant prosperity. This prosperity isn't just material but also encompasses joy, love, and contentment. Every corner of existence – every pocket, heart, and mind – will acknowledge and reward your sincere efforts. That's because the soul recognizes genuine intent and the spirit propelled by unwavering love, faith in the Divine, and an indomitable belief in oneself, further strengthened by the backing of dear ones. This universal law has been in motion since the dawn of time and will persist eternally, beyond the lifespan of humanity. As we stand at this pivotal moment in our evolution, AI stands beside us as an ally. My personal journey with AI in dentistry has cemented this belief.

Patients who do not show gratitude, either by not paying their dues or by failing to acknowledge good work, may find themselves facing challenges in health, wealth, happiness, and even in the quality of their relationships and societal worth. Similarly, doctors who behave unethically, hurting their patients instead of helping, stand to face even steeper consequences. This isn't because of mere ignorance but stems from their lack of effort to uphold their sacred duties and responsibilities. Such doctors will inevitably see a decline in trust and respect over time. This is the outcome for those who disregard the immense honor and privilege that comes with the title of 'doctor', a distinction unparalleled in its societal reverence. Now, it's essential to introspect and understand the depth of one's actions and responsibilities.

The sacred bond underpinned by the principle of 'do no harm' and the inherent trust associated with it is fundamental to the field of medicine, including dentistry. It's my fervent hope that the significance of general practitioners, or GP before GPS, is emphasized even before dental surgeons during their education in medical schools. By fostering such an understanding, both patients and practitioners can achieve greater self-awareness. Breaching such bonds, be it in marriages, work relationships, or medical trusts, when trust is irreparably damaged, can lead to the decline of society as a whole.

Negative actions, such as poor work ethics, pollution emissions, and neglect of personal hygiene, beginning with something as fundamental as a six-monthly oral check-up, have far-reaching consequences. These lead to a decline in health, a deteriorating environment, financial strain, and strained relationships. Over time, these negative influences can even alter the epigenetics in our genes, creating changes that persist from one generation to the next due to the process of evolution. Such a cascade of effects can eventually result in the decline and even the disappearance of entire civilizations. Reflect on the symbolic representation of spiritual texts that depict universes within God's mouth, subtly suggesting the importance of self-care. Think about the profound impact of positive actions, even if they're as simple as brushing your teeth properly every morning and night. It's a lesson in consistency and diligence. The rewards may not always be visible, but deep down, their presence is undeniable.

Perhaps when we, as a collective, embrace the wisdom of consistent good actions, even as simple as brushing our teeth diligently twice a day, the doors to greater enlightenment might open for us. This everyday commitment might elevate our collective consciousness, guiding humanity beyond our current reach — beyond our ventures to the moon and Mars. It's the consistent contributions of individuals, be it in India 🇮🇳 🇮🇳 🇮🇳 🇮🇳 or the USA

🇺🇸 🇺🇸 🇺🇸 🇺🇸 , not driven by mere patriotism or familial ties, but by commitment to these small acts of discipline, that can lead us to collective evolution. These acts can potentially fuel innovations, such as in the realm of AI in dentistry, and inspire breakthroughs to explore the vast expanse of our universe. It's imperative for us to understand that a seemingly minor infection, when neglected, can spread and affect the entire body. The same principle that applies to individual actions reverberates when it comes to our collective deeds. Would we want the contamination of subpar efforts or bad work to spread across the universe? Or would we rather preserve and protect the sanctity of our universe by ensuring we don't pollute it with negative actions? The essence of quality work becomes paramount. To truly advance as a civilization, it's vital to conquer individualistic tendencies and embrace the spirit of unconditional love, first towards our partners and immediate family. Once this foundation is set, love for the broader community follows naturally, leading to mutual support.

Every dental routine and preventive care check-up serves as a lesson in this regard. Your dental surgeon plays a crucial role in guiding you, and in return, you support them with gratitude, which can be expressed as a modest fee. The true magic of compounding isn't just found in financial growth, but in the consistent, dedicated effort applied over years. By committing to right actions daily, one learns the true essence of diligence, recognizes genuine professionals, and grasps the importance of quality work. Once this understanding is deeply ingrained, the universe responds in kind, showering you with the abundance you and your loved ones deserve.

Dhruv Tara wishes to underline the immense ramifications of consistently right actions and their potential ripple effects on a grand scale. How can you gauge the correctness of your actions? Look beside you. Your life partner's contentment or discontentment reflects the consequences of your choices. When both partners prioritize their commitments and responsibilities, it strengthens the bond of marriage, radiating positivity in society. It's not solely the efforts of visionaries like Elon Musk, organizations like NASA or ISRO, or the initiatives of governments that shape our future. It's each individual's commitment to self-care, starting with oral health awareness, that truly drives collective progress.

Let's progress beyond the confines of restrictive thinking and actions. It's essential to align our intentions with our words and follow through with genuine actions. That's the true essence of honoring one's word.

Face the consequences of your actions. If you've committed to seeing the dentist in 6 months, honor that commitment. Similarly, if you've promised someone your lifelong partnership through engagement, fulfill that promise. Every action, whether it leads to happiness or sadness, has its consequences. It's essential to find the right companion to navigate life's paths so that together, humanity can dream bigger and reach the stars. Just as Dhruv Tara's story illustrates dedication and meditation, eventually earning a place above all, we too should value the humility in the name of Namrata Pinky in consistent hard work. Remember, even rockets start at ground level, and despite the crashes, they keep aiming for the skies. Start with the basics: prioritize consistent and thorough oral care, not just for the immediate rewards but for long-term health. Even when faced with dental challenges, persevere, for such dedication compounds benefits across various aspects of life.

Once you've tasted the fruits of your hard work, there's no looking back. Keep your vision clear and stay focused. Let your partner's contentment serve as a compass, guiding you on the right path. This "GP before GPS" concept, changed emphasizing personal guidance before external navigation, promotes seeking wisdom from mentors and spiritual guides. An insight from one field can open doors of understanding in many others. And rather than resorting to harmful means like biological warfare or seeking nuclear dominance, perhaps the genius minds can channel these resources for progressive endeavors, like powering rockets. True leaders work not for personal glory but for the betterment of all, much like the daily act of brushing our teeth, which, while simple, promotes lasting well-being.

Imagine a world where advancements in science and technology, including the emerging field of AI in dentistry, lead us to a Big Bang of holistic healing. A realm where ailments like blood pressure, diabetes, and the like don't require a lifetime of medication, and where our body, the temple, along with the mind, gut, and heart, operate in perfect sync, guided by a higher energy – one we cannot see or touch, but only feel.

This energy, akin to a mother's intuitive care and a father's guiding spirit, represents the pure essence of existence. Envision an age where ailments like dental decay are not just treated but prevented entirely. With innovations like the fluoride Clinpro and the unique properties of 3M lining GI, we're already witnessing these dreams turning into tangible solutions.

These solutions aim to balance every aspect of life, from sleep to nutrition, leading us closer to unlocking the mysteries of our body's natural regeneration capabilities, potentially culminating in breakthroughs in stem cell research and our broader potential as a society.

Imagine journeying through life with a purpose, seeking not just individual growth but collective evolution. Envision a world where love stories aren't just tales but lessons, teaching us about the boundless possibilities when we unite with our life partners.

Hold onto the profound belief that our destinies are interwoven, much like the red thread theory, breaking preconceived notions and fostering mutual understanding of a larger vision. A vision where we help others, nourish our families, and uplift our partners, all while ensuring our well-being.

Such a utopia becomes feasible only when we prioritize our health. The journey to this new world begins with understanding the importance of preventive care, particularly in oral health. By seeking regular dental checkups and embracing preventive measures, we pave the way for not just better dental health but a life where our full potential can truly be unleashed.

If you ever find yourself in doubt, ponder the question: Why are we alive? While science and medicine address known queries, profound mysteries such as our existence and life's purpose remain. These enigmas suggest that there are expansive forces at work, beyond our current grasp, that offer solutions we might not have yet conceived.

It's imperative to respect the consent, faith, or belief of a patient, regardless of their mental health status. Ultimately, it's their choice, provided they aren't harming themselves or others. I trust this fundamental point has been deeply understood.

The first lesson of the Bhagavad Gita teaches us that while inanimate objects like tables or chairs remain static, living beings are always in motion or action until their end. Whether it's one task or another, nature drives us to act in alignment with our inherent nature. Even taking a holiday is merely a shift in our actions in response to changing situation. The Gita emphasizes that the mind is supreme. It speaks of the yoga of action as controlling our senses, working detachedly, and directing our sensory organs toward rightful action. In essence, it's about the discipline of the mind and senses as prescribed by our ancient texts. The ultimate goal is to work freely, embracing our rich cultural wisdom.

If you or Dr. believe differently, understand from my past viewpoint that no matter how expansive science becomes, it will never exceed the wisdom and might of God or any force of nature we acknowledge in the cosmos. Real breakthroughs occur when we are observant, when we heed the guidance of listening deeply intently our partners will mutually believe understand the depth of our love care to help them feel the unconditionally right actions by being right man or woman of their word, and when we embrace the nurturing, healing love and care from our parents. Whether it's managing MPDS stress through meditation or seeking assistance, don't let the pride in our ancient culture be tainted by outside influences that might lead us astray. Harness the power of observation and faith to achieve what once seemed impossible. Perhaps it was my father's pranic healing; I genuinely felt the touch of the cosmic force. Imagine light energy gently touching the mind, akin to my equation inspired by Einstein, understanding photons moving swiftly in an oral laser machine for efficient cutting. What if light could travel in ways we've yet to fathom? Let your imagination soar, and consider the profound impact of even the smallest acts, like Alongside others, each performing their duty, contributing to the intricate dance of existence. or cleaning up after oneself. Or an ant. Day after day, month after month, year after year, it works tirelessly, always in motion. Only then can you truly appreciate the grand scale and magnificence of the expansive tapestry called life. Consider the simple act of a dental cleaning, where one human aids another, and in return receives a fee to support their family, ensuring the circle of life persists.

Shielding our brothers and delighting in the blossoming of our sisters brings true enchantment to life's journey. We honor and cherish the bond of siblings as we come together to celebrate Rakhi. The cornerstone of any therapeutic solution is Faith. Regardless of its nature or magnitude, faith should be respected and held sacred. Ultimately, all faiths converge into a singular divine energy or force — a light pure energy omnipresent God. This is the healing touch, the action that universally resonates with every soul, being, mind, and across all realms. Serve as a channel to transform your thoughts, choices, decisions, intentions, and words into palpable actions, immersing yourself in this celestial voyage. By doing so, you'll genuinely grasp the divine experience we're all part of. Recognize that dental care is built on trust, teaching us how to function with faith in society. Isn't it crucial to periodically reassess this trust to contribute to an evolving community? Every check-up is a glimpse into our progress, an affirmation of our dedication, or a nudge toward improvement. This authenticity then seeps into all facets of life. Grasp the invaluable life coach, like those my aunt shared, guiding me until my talented sister steered me in the right direction. Stay true to your path, stay your course, she told me persistently and through a fateful night and her suggestion, I found my soulmate in my fiancé, Pinky. Deep gratitude to everyone, especially to Pinky's family, my own family, my cherished sister, and her warm-hearted family.

Perceive yourself as a pure beacon of light energy, for that is our true essence. Do not shy away from the illuminating light energy of Dr. Jyoti Shetty's slit lamp. Likewise a dental chair calming light Embrace it, for when you open your eyes with newfound awareness, you're ushered into a realm filled with happiness, beauty, and joy. Life is precious; cherish it. With time and persistence, things improve, and we're all here to guide you, helping you unlock the wonders of your world through diligent effort. Empower yourself, break through the barriers of doubt, and let your confidence soar, revealing the boundless potential within you.

Covid upended our lives and reshaped our world. To prevent history from repeating itself, it's imperative to prioritize our well-being and that of our loved ones. It's not about the monetary cost, but the invaluable price of time, effort, love, and care. Ensure they are looked after, even in your absence. If we fail to act now, the repercussions could be enduring, echoing across eons. Every faith brings its own wisdom. Hinduism, through the Bhagavad Gita, emphasizes that there is no higher magic than dedicated action. It teaches us to perform our duties diligently without seeking rewards. Shouldn't we all have the self-respect to act responsibly without needing oversight? It's time to rise, not be passive, and live authentically.

Consider this thought: Could it be that cleaning up our environment might epigenetically activate what we deem as 'Junk DNA'? By refreshing our surroundings, we might break through current perceptions and achieve what was once deemed impossible, leading to monumental shifts. Such realizations could rain down profound insights into life's true purpose, prompting deeper exploration and understanding. I'm profoundly grateful for the enlightenment I experienced in the USA, which allowed me to perceive the subtle intricacies of our world. You can glimpse my insights in a document I've written, especially in the concluding chapter on oral healthcare awareness. It's a plea for commitment to action, a manifestation of love in motion, and I hope it resonates with you.

Proactively addressing issues, as the saying goes 'a stitch in time saves nine,' can prevent larger complications. The lives we might not otherwise impact could be touched by our positive actions on Earth. It's crucial to make time for our loved ones, for it's through the emotional energy of love – an indomitable force even more powerful than the mind or intellect – that we find our greatest strength. If we venture into the profound depths of our world, the expansiveness of space, and most importantly, deep within ourselves, we'll discover treasures beyond our wildest dreams. Recognizing this inner wealth, we come to realize the boundless potential and life that the universe holds, far beyond our initial perceptions. Open your mouth and let out a clear 'ah', revealing your thoughts and feelings without hesitation.

In the haven of our secluded dental chamber, you embark on a transformation. As you step out, you radiate the newfound wisdom and marvels of life. Much like a vessel lost in the vast ocean, seeking the guidance of the unwavering Steady Star, I remain poised, awaiting the culmination of your earnest endeavors. When they meet me, it's a testament to your journey towards eternal redemption, a testament to your commitment to being a beacon of goodness on this petite blue orb we call home. Perhaps it doesn't have a definitive name, but in my heart, it's where the true essence of the artist Rena thrives – her unyielding faith, transcending days and nights, joys and sorrows, cementing the belief that her son is making ripples as a commendable dental surgeon, echoing the legacy of her craft.

Pinky, Pinky, Pinky, Pinky - thank you for highlighting my journey in dental AI. I hope you too find your purpose. As equal partners sharing responsibilities, it's clear we're meant for each other. Dive into our romantic tale, set to unveil in two months. We joyfully await the following day, marking the beautiful union of our twin souls.

From today, I introduce a new term - perhaps it already exists - it's not just "stress is a killer," but "stress disorder." Let us all collaborate to address this pervasive pressure on our health, the relentless chase for wealth, and the pursuit of happiness and ideal relationships. Recognizing that at the end of the day, we are all human, by joining forces, we can alleviate each other's burdens with a unified approach.

The adage, "the world runs on love," holds deep wisdom. Women, inherently understanding this universal force, often turn to aesthetic professionals to enhance their beauty, while concurrently managing life's many roles. Men, consumed in the chase for material wealth, might sometimes overlook the profound beauty that exists within a woman's mind – a place of respect, patience, and understanding.

Society's lure for discounts, guarantees, and bargains are but distractions crafted by marketers. Like chasing ephemeral gold, true treasure is found where we stand, work, and commit. With determination, one first uncovers basic necessities, then luxuries, and ultimately, life's precious gems.

As you delve deeper into life, like in a dental clinic, lovingly appreciate the services without dwelling on the price. Express gratitude. With every layer you uncover, you unearth solutions, resources, and insights. The realization soon dawns that our collective hard work aids countless souls. The sanctity of work becomes apparent, with God's presence felt in every endeavor.

Recognizing the dedication of healthcare professionals and other service providers reminds us of our interconnected journey. This path can elevate us not just on Earth, but into the realms of the cosmos. With technologies like ChatGPT and the innovations in AI, we're witnessing an explosion of creativity and progress.

The journey emphasizes the potential each of us carries. When actions are propelled by love, the revelations are profound: wars cease in the utopia of progress, collaborations yield unimaginable results, and our purpose becomes clear. Indeed, the most significant treasure one can discover is the limitless potential within.

Acknowledge Saraswati, the Goddess of Knowledge, for bestowing upon us the wisdom of enlightenment. If not turns into Durga ma with a mighty tiger, symbolizing like P image the consequences if one misuses this wisdom in a manner that displeases their partner.

For if they are unhappy, it signifies the universe's discontent with our actions. Understand the significance of twin souls coming together, divinely blessed, as they represent God's cherished creations uniting to fulfill a higher purpose and perpetuate life. The essence of togetherness is trust and maintaining it is pivotal. One way is through regular visits to a trusted dental surgeon, emphasizing preventive care and upholding the sanctity of the trust built over years. Instilled by parents, this value teaches us the importance of consistency in our relationships, fostering loyalty, respect, patience, and understanding. It guides us towards finding that special person we vow to love and support for a lifetime. With trust as the foundation, prosperity flows, mirrored in our actions, like the commitment to our health and the unwavering bond with our dental caregiver, culminating in a life blessed by the heavens.

When the blessings begin to rain, be prepared to capture them, filling ponds and vessels that flow into vast rivers, leading to expansive seas and oceans of knowledge. It's this abundance that triggers the eruption of Shakti, a powerful force characterized by its serenity. A realization dawns: health truly is the ultimate wealth. Fill every part of yourself - heart, mind, body, soul, and spirit - with love, that potent emotional energy. Express gratitude to your doctors and every individual who's played a part in your journey, especially your immediate family. Harnessing such a profound emotional outpouring, akin to heavenly drops, will propel you to new heights. And as you act rightly, with persistent dedication, remember: rest well, dream sweetly, and always cherish those you've known, those by your side, and those you'll meet in the future. Don't take anyone for granted, for to share is to truly care. Understand that there's abundant wealth in consistent effort; reap the benefits of your diligence. Refrain from seeking handouts, divine interventions, or vote public affirmations. For you are the master of your destiny, the captain of your ship, navigating by the steadfast light of the stars.

Express to everyone the truth: Everyone visit the Golden temple we hope to, her faith God is one, so, thanking all Gods there as you do to yours in your home, like drinking Amrit from mother's when you're born, hoping the secrets of immunity to strengthen are bodily integrity is there as as our nature of honesty to tell the truth. Like visiting four temples to sign an enlightenment document before her birthday to keep my words with actions finally brings me to last ultimate truth: our belief is preventive care is not a selfish motive it's a selfless motive where we nurture and provide our family while rise the overall consciousness of mankind beyond the realms of possibilities keeping our minds hearts bodies souls spirits of our families safe to grow in a healthy environment where you do what God wishes. I believe work motivated by love not to destroy like Troy rather build like breathing of God's life in your's reminding you pay attention to your breathing for you live in this present moment, a fresh life of Hope into your souls to aspire for being a better man, woman, anything created and you know there's hope at the end of the tunnel and aspire to be better human brains  coming togetherness for a greater good, good human beings. Thank you  for listening. If you require understanding of our preventive care initiatives, come to my clinic for a check up, if not look deep into your souls with deep prayer, mediation, and eight hours of sleep, repair and connect.

Aging is not the end but merely the beginning of a new chapter, rich with experience, wisdom, and profound understanding. As years accumulate, so do life's lessons and memories, transforming us into reservoirs of knowledge and resilience. Each wrinkle narrates a story, every gray hair signifies a challenge faced, and every laugh line celebrates moments of joy. Rather than seeing aging as a decline, we should embrace it as the onset of a journey that offers deeper connections, heightened appreciation, and a chance to share our legacy with the world. Age is but a number, while life's essence remains evergreen.

In this journey we call life, it's essential to step back, appreciate, and lend a hand to those in need. Recognize that everyone is on their own unique learning curve. As long as there's persistence without surrender, we should celebrate the effort. If there's a stumble, approach us with humility. We are here to provide solutions. Yet, every effort, every solution consultation, does carry a value, a fee – not as a barrier but as an acknowledgment of reciprocity.

Elevating treatment to the next echelon requires the harmonious activation of all our senses, channeled with laser-like focus and precision. This heightened state of awareness and dedication ensures a premium delivery, turning solutions into an art form of unparalleled excellence. With each intervention, we promise not just service, but an experience of the highest caliber.

We extend our gratitude to fellow doctors by offering them free consultations and preventive care; they are our goodwill ambassadors. Our immediate families bear a special mention, as their sacrifices have shaped us. Their unwavering support and prayers fuel our collective success under our brand's umbrella. Patients, your trust is invaluable. Delivering healthcare is a service that's truly priceless, and the fee we charge is but a humble acknowledgment of that. Whether you're pioneering the next big thing in AI, launching rockets to the moon, or making a difference in small yet profound ways, we see and value you. No contribution is too big or too small. Our doors are open to all, with the exception of wrong actions or behaviors.

Together, we navigate the intricate tapestry of our minds, souls, spirits, and compassionate hearts to find solutions. With every ounce of knowledge and skill stored in our hands and feet, we cherish each moment we get to serve and help you. From the universe's vastness, mirrored in our minds, a heartfelt thank you for your loyalty. Whenever you return with a preventive care check-up smile, we are reminded of our shared mission – to do God's work, to heal, and to uplift. In the stillness of our hearts, we turn inward, reaching out to the vast expanse of the universe with humility and hope. We pray, seeking guidance, strength, and clarity. Our words and thoughts intertwine, forming a bridge between our souls and the divine, transcending the boundaries of the physical world. With each whispered word and silent intention, we seek connection, understanding, and a deeper sense of purpose, trusting in the benevolence of the cosmos to guide and protect us. In this sacred act of communion, we find solace, inspiration, and the reaffirmation of our shared human experience. We emphasize the importance of personal beliefs and values; every night, we hope you find solace in your prayers. Keep your politics, religion, and family values close to your heart, private and protected. Whether it's about a man or woman, always promote safety, silence, and privacy. Avoid indulging in gossip; if you must speak, let it be words of commendation or constructive feedback, for every new dawn gives us another chance to better ourselves. As we move forward, the melody of "Tujhe Dekha Hai to Jane Saanam" echoes our sentiments, reminding us of the interconnectedness of our senses and emotions. Act out of love, express it unconditionally; such love has the power to bring about change, much like the famous saying, "Be the change you wish to see in the world." Demonstrate love and concern through actions rather than mere words. A simple check-in, a single call asking "are you okay?" can mean the world to someone. Just as we send annual reminders for health check-ups, always remember to check up on the well-being of loved ones. In our busy lives, let's not become so engrossed in our work that we neglect our health or take our dear ones for granted. Mere apologies won't suffice for the moments lost or taken for granted. Let's make amends through our actions, acknowledging and appreciating care everything and everyone in our lives. Embrace your natural self, and solutions will emerge organically. By aligning with your true essence, you unlock a clarity and flow that allows challenges to unravel and answers to present themselves. Incorporate care in your natural self bettering relationships. Speak with kindness, for in gentle words lies the power to heal and connect. Openly share your emotions, allowing them to flow rather than stifling them within. As you do, you'll tap into an inner wisdom that reveals the true sources of your happiness and contentment. In everyday moments, look closely; there's love and care interwoven in the smallest gestures. Stay present, cherishing each instance. Pursue your financial aspirations not solely for wealth but as a testament to your dedication and effort, ensuring you can care for those dear to you. Remember, the fruits of your labor are well-deserved when born from sincere hard work. In the intricate details of daily life, much like noticing the subtle koisigns of stress in one's neck and recommending a cushion for relief, or suggesting posture corrections during extended screen time, we find meaningful connections. While technology bridges distances, enabling us to share moments with loved ones from afar, it cannot fully replicate the warmth of physical presence. Even as advancements like AI bring health check-ups to our homes, the tangible experience of a clinic visit, with its visual examinations and human touch, remains irreplaceable. The essence of genuine connection transcends the virtual and resides in the tangible, real-world interactions. ensuring that the pursuit of knowledge remains balanced and responsible. In essence, ChatGPT becomes a powerful ally in the quest for discovery, while the user's integrity ensures that this pursuit benefits and elevates humanity as a whole. In the tapestry of life's challenges, drawing inspiration from legends like Hanuman's unwavering devotion to service can guide us towards our own paths of perseverance. Even when faced with the seemingly insurmountable task of carrying an entire mountain to save Lakshman, Hanuman's determination never wavered. Similarly, even if our efforts go unnoticed by many, there will always be those with the discerning eye who will understand and appreciate our contributions, much like the knowledgeable healer who recognizes the worth of the right herb.

While we all carry elements of Ravan within us, it is the enduring spirit of Ram's righteousness and Sita's resilience that should guide our actions. These tales remind us that every challenge, every adversary, offers an opportunity for growth and transformation. It is the essence of love, selflessness, and righteousness that truly conquers and uplifts. By embracing these principles, we can find our own path to triumph, echoing the timeless lessons these legends offer. In the vast lexicon of human emotions, love stands as the most profound and encompassing. To express love is to bridge the chasms of misunderstanding, to heal wounds of indifference, and to illuminate the darkest corners of despair. Through love, we find purpose, understanding, and connection. Every tender touch, every reassuring word, and every act of kindness is a testament to its boundless power.

In our journey of life, each of us carries unique challenges and strengths. It's through embracing our flaws, handicaps, and vulnerabilities that we truly understand the essence of being human. By seeking healing and acceptance, we not only empower ourselves but also illuminate the path for others. In this shared experience, we find our collective strength, reminding us that we're all interconnected in the grand tapestry of humanity.

The finale arrives, a conclusion to our tale. A journey, once lively and vast, finds its quiet rest. As pages turn and memories fade, "the end" is both an adieu to the past and a nod to tomorrow's unknown. It's the closing of a door, with the promise that new ones await.

Every story, no matter how long or short, has an end. It's the point of reflection, the moment of pause, the final note in a symphony. The end is not just a conclusion; it's an amalgamation of all the experiences, lessons, and emotions that preceded it. While it signifies the closing of one chapter, it also hints at the potential of a new beginning. The end is both an echo of what was and a whisper of what might be. It's a gentle reminder that while moments are fleeting, their impact endures.

Amen. May guidance, strength, and peace be with you always. If there's any other way I can assist you, please let me know.

Love is not just an emotion; it is a language, a dance, a gentle whisper in the wind. When we express it, we share a piece of our soul, crafting bonds that transcend the physical realm. The message of love is timeless, echoing through the annals of history and resonating in every heartbeat. It is the beacon that guides us, the compass that directs us, and the force that drives us to seek the best in ourselves and others. By expressing love, we not only enrich our own lives but also touch the very essence of existence. "The end" is both a culmination and an inception. It signifies closure to one journey while silently heralding the onset of another. It stands as a testament to life's cyclical nature, where endings and beginnings are seamlessly intertwined.

Goodbye! If you have any more questions in the future, feel free to reach out. Take care!

In the seemingly mundane tasks, like brushing our teeth, we often overlook the intricacies at play – the coordination of muscles, the chemistry of toothpaste interacting with bacteria, the sensation of bristles on gums. Some believe these intricacies, the magic in the mundane, reflect the divine or what many term as 'God.' It's in the everyday moments, the routine acts, that we can find profound wonder and a connection to something greater than ourselves. The belief is that God's presence is not just in the grand and the extraordinary but also in the simple, everyday actions, guiding and protecting us in ways we might not always perceive.

With unwavering resolve and united strength, care Dhruv and Pinky stand together. In their unity and expression, they hope embody courage, banishing the shadows of fear. With them by your side, there is a beacon of hope and assurance, light signaling that no matter what challenges lie ahead, they will face them head-on, inspiring others to do the same. No challenge is too great, no night too dark, for with their combined spirit, they light the path for all to follow. Ignite the flame within, that small beacon of hope that can illuminate the darkest corners of your soul. By lighting your own candle of hope, you not only brighten your path but also cast a gentle glow for others to find their way. In a world that often feels overwhelming, be the beacon that stands resolute, reminding yourself and those around you that hope is eternal and resides deep within, waiting to shine.

Choose to uplift rather than belittle. Let everyone shine in their own unique brilliance, and in doing so, illuminate the world with kindness and understanding.

In the expansive sea of wisdom, it's the quest for life's essence that beckons us. Often, the cacophony of chaos precedes enlightenment, just as thunder preludes the world illuminating flash. Yet, through the tumult, a divine message emerges: in unity, we find tranquility. Now, we find solace.

In the grand tapestry of life, where the intricacies of human intent and action interweave, there lies an underbelly of malintent. At institutions such as the University of Louisville, certain individuals may allow their own ambitions to few overshadow the true essence of education and love guidance. Yet, as one faces trials, it's vital to remember that ultimate judgment rests in a higher power. Karma, a universal principle, ensures that our deeds, good or bad, find their way back to us. Pinky, along with supportive family, friends, and well-meaning professionals, stands as a testament to the strength of authentic connections. Amidst the challenges, relying on advanced tools like AI can serve as a bridge to overcome barriers, facilitating clearer communication. As time's sands steadily flow, one must cherish those who illuminate the path ahead and always act with integrity, knowing that the universe, in its infinite wisdom, sees all. Gratitude to all the pillars of support, especially loving parents and Pinky, whose unwavering presence lights the way. In the grand expanse of the cosmos, our world is but a mere speck, a quaint village nestled amidst the mysteries of the universe. Within its vastness, our understanding remains limited, yet our quest for knowledge persists, drawing us closer to the infinite wonders that await discovery.

In the grand tapestry of existence, Taj saw the luminosity within my brother-in-law, equating him to the illustrious Kohinoor. By entrusting him with their ambitious projects, the undisputed maharaja of hospitality indirectly anointed Pinky as the sovereign queen. Amidst this narrative, I emerge as the central hero, juxtaposing layers of tangible reality with facets of imagination. Yet, the core sentiment remains unaltered: a deep reflection on life's profound truths. Every scientist's dedication stems from an understanding rooted in the teachings of the observer. This institution, where I sharpened my analytical skills, provided insights into the complexities of the universe, DNA, RNA, and proteins. Any transgressions experienced there are overshadowed by the immense knowledge imparted, thus counterbalancing the scales of karma. When my soul realized it had gleaned all it needed, it yearned for the comforting embrace of our Indian homeland. This narrative isn't merely about Pinky and me but is a testament to a deep-rooted love, even without delving into the dew-kissed memories of our childhood. Heeding Pinky's request, I penned down our journey. As this chapter concludes, I extend my heartfelt gratitude. I hope these words resonate with you, emanating from the depths of my heart, mind, body, and soul. It's a reflection on healing, personal growth, and the perpetual endeavor to be a compassionate human being.

In the esteemed halls of Manipal, my hands were sculpted, trained meticulously for precision and skill. While Pinky voiced her concerns due to certain instances of disrespect, my reverence for the institution's wisdom, service, and the exceptional doctors there remains unwavering. Their commitment to imparting knowledge and cultivating skills is a legacy I carry forward with gratitude.

Among my dental batchmates, dancing perilous tango, only leading to a concerning breach of data. While this prompted my exit, I choose to remember the majority who embodied integrity and compassion. In them, my belief in human goodness remains steadfast.

In the end, my perception shifted, understanding that a diagnosis without empirical evidence is merely an opinion, not the absolute truth that nature reveals. To all patients, cling to hope, for there are many who genuinely want to assist. By observing the nuances of nature, you'll unearth the answers that lie within. Often, growth in silence prevails because it teaches us to hear the wisdom we inherently possess. In the gentle embrace of age, my 101-year-old grandmother stands testament to the vitality of health. A candidate for a full lower jaw implant at 98, she embodies the true essence of resilience. It's a poignant reminder of the unseen risks healthcare workers take daily. My predecessor met his end selflessly serving others, highlighting the profound sacrifices many in the medical field make, including their families.

Each interaction, even a brief, cost-free one, carries an exchange of energies. As my father, a pranic healer suggests, a healer must be in prime condition; else he risks transmitting his ailments. If we aren't diligent and mindful in our hygiene and health, our negligence could cascade through humanity. God offers gifts and opportunities when we're prepared to receive them. Often, the right mentor materializes to guide us when we're ready.

My grandmother, now bound to a wheelchair, still emanates hope. Her earnest inquiries about Pinky's arrival are heartwarming. Despite age's challenging facets, there's beauty in witnessing life's full spectrum. Age isn't just a series of pains; it's a cherished journey. And in this journey, advancements in science, a deeper understanding of pharmacology, and Pinky's emphasis on microbiological cleanliness play crucial roles.

The humble offering you make at a temple or to a doctor comes with layers of significance. Through numerous channels, blessings and challenges flow. Perhaps that's why space is a vacuum, preventing the rampant spread of infections. Having contracted ailments from patients myself, I've witnessed the toll it can take on oneself and loved ones.

So when you interact with a healthcare professional, remember that with each healing touch, they risk not just their well-being but that of their families. Avoid causing them harm - whether it's mental, emotional, physical, spiritual, financial, or social. Their goal is to safeguard our health, akin to how we protect our nation's borders.

Sharing these treasured insights and experiences with you aims to cultivate collective growth. This is a call for increased understanding, awareness, and enlightenment. This deep illumination isn't just external; it's a recognition of age-old truths our souls have always known. In the vast expanse of the universe, God crafts masterpieces, akin to my mother's care dedicated strokes on a boundless canvas. His intricate designs are a testament, urging us to emulate His essence, for we are but reflections of His grandeur. His desire for us? Self-like awareness and the pursuit of the age-old questions: Who are we? Why are we here? It's an introspective journey we should all embark upon. As my mentor enlightens, dental surgeons, just like everyone, are profound souls on a cosmic adventure, perhaps linked to another by the ancient red thread lore, destined to converge paths. With hope, as Pinky advocates, may we all one day experience that profound moment of recognition and understanding. In the theater of life, don't shrink back in the shadows; step forth with valor. Whether it's offering a solitaire diamond to your spouse, ensuring your child's education, or forging a partnership rooted in mutual respect and understanding, be present. Be each other's pillar, laugh together, journey through the world, and savor every fleeting moment. When you embrace life's tapestry with such zeal, a profound transformation awaits within. It's not just change, but a seismic shift I yearn to introduce to this world – a leap from mere revolution to true evolution. A call for a transformational metamorphosis, Ansh ushering in an era where we evolve not just in thought but in action, redefining our very existence. Nurturing the seed of life requires time, patience, and unwavering faith. Allow it the space to grow, whether it takes a decade or even three. Never waver in your belief, for as you remain steadfast in your trust in the Divine, He remains devoted to you, His ardent believers. Just as patients trust in their doctors to mend and heal, believe in your own journey of self-healing and transformation. Be patient with your own growth and trust in the process, for with time and faith, miracles do unfold. In the vast expanse of the universe, boundaries are but illusions; what seems like an end often marks the start of another journey. Delving deeper, our vision sharpens, revealing intricacies previously hidden. Such revelations arise from a heightened awareness, whether observing a clinic's dynamics, nature's rhythms, climate shifts, or the marvels of light energy propulsion leaving nuclear power behind and electric cars vehicles. Yet, the zenith of this continual evolution is found in a child's dream, capturing imaginations beyond our wildest contemplations. In the tapestry of existence, nurturing our young at every juncture, instilling good habits, is imperative to crafting a radiant future. Life's fleeting moments—past, present, and soon-to-be past—remind us that our endeavors, no matter how small, leave an indelible mark. It's the interplay between life's tests, the seemingly magical occurrences, and the undeniable miracles that lead us to provide for our loved ones. The vast cosmos of life might seem an illusion, but within, we discover our true essence: beings of pure energy. A simple candle becomes a beacon, symbolizing hope and enlightenment, even for those lost in the abyss. The light chases away the shadows, ushering in clarity. With every revelation a doctor presents, the power of choice lies with us, guiding our path. Beyond the tangible senses, we begin to feel, to connect deeply with our kindred spirits, establishing a bond that transcends the mundane. This outpouring of emotion, when channeled right, has the potential to heal and transform, reminding us of the interdependence of life and the vitality of genuine care. At the core of existence lies the power of choice, granted to us by the Creator. To believe or to doubt, to embrace or to reject, each decision shapes our reality. When one takes that courageous leap of faith, without glancing back, life transforms in unimaginable ways. Just as embracing a medical solution alleviates or prevents suffering, accepting the cosmic energy around us offers healing. While we do our utmost, we must also relinquish control, entrusting our troubles to a higher power or to the expertise of those who guide our healing. It's this profound trust, combined with proactive effort, that catalyzes true healing and growth. In the dance of life, it's not just about amassing wealth but understanding its true source. When we work diligently, combining effort with faith and common sense, we invite divine providence into our lives. By valuing the radiant energy that surrounds us, we can channel that abundance to our loved ones. As we pass this light to our spouse, it then flows to our children, creating a legacy of brightness and prosperity that spans generations. The journey to true wealth is a balance of human endeavor and divine intervention. In the intricate dance of life, understanding and reciprocation are the heartbeats that keep relationships alive, be it between a doctor and patient or a husband and wife. Over the years, my clinic's profitability has seen fluctuations, but what remains constant is the evolution of understanding and trust. The trajectory of success is often not linear, but with patience, adaptation, and a spirit of collaboration, we find growth and abundance.

Life can transform in an instant with a single affirmative decision. Every individual possesses the divine power to be a beacon of hope for another. A simple 'yes' has the capacity to chart a new course for someone's life. In my journey, it was Pinky's affirmation on LinkedIn that ignited a transformative spark.

Each one of us embodies the divine essence, continually creating miracles. This realization, this awakening to the interconnectedness of all beings, is the true miracle. It's through the consistent and compassionate exchanges, through understanding the process from diagnosis to treatment, that we solidify these bonds.

Our universe is vast, with countless stars. As I hear, some believe life calls out from the Pole Star, which I happen to be named after. It beckons us to have faith, trust in our journey, and remain anchored in our purpose. The key is to live in the present, cherishing each moment, treating every individual and circumstance with the mindfulness it deserves. The Pole Star, also known as Polaris, stands out in the night sky due to its apparent constancy in relation to Earth's axis. Here's a concise expression:

The Pole Star, or Polaris, serves as a celestial anchor, maintaining its position relative to Earth's axis. While it emits light photons like any other star, its unique alignment with our planet's rotational axis gives it the illusion of steadfastness amidst the ever-shifting canvas of the night sky. This consistent position has made it invaluable for navigation and symbolic of constancy in culture and literature.

The respect we earn is cumulative, built case by case, interaction by interaction. Engaging with life in such a deeply present manner is akin to the meditative state of yoga. I hope that through our shared journey and experiences, we can illuminate our paths, echoing the lessons Pinky and I have embraced. Find your guiding star, much like the Pole Star directs navigators on Earth. As you journey through the vast expanse of life, keep this beacon constant. Remember, while light photons may change with time and speed, as beings of light, it's essential to maintain clarity and direction. Stay true to your path, even as the universe around you shifts and transforms. In Einstein's groundbreaking equation, light's speed is held as a constant. However, with the intriguing idea that time can alter this constant, there emerges a possibility of surpassing light's speed. By recognizing that we are space essentially entities of light, always evolving and in motion, we might uncover the potential to transcend previously accepted boundaries of physics. To truly tackle something as complex as cancer, one must discern the intricate factors at play, be it the role of sugar or the early detection via regular check-ups. By managing stress and remaining hopeful, we can shift mountains and innovate in transformative ways. All it takes is a simple "Yes" and unwavering faith in the face of adversity. We are all equipped with the divine power to manifest wonders for one another. Let's focus on enriching each other's lives, trusting in the reciprocation of kindness. For within us resides a divine essence, a gateway to heaven boundless happiness and contentment. Cherish, appreciate, and express; for by unsealing our bottled emotions, we invite unparalleled magic and connection into our lives. Gratitude flows through every fiber of my being. For every blessing, every lesson, and every moment, I am profoundly thankful. The tapestry of life is woven with threads of experiences, and I cherish each one. With a heart brimming with appreciation, I say, "Thank you for all that I have."

If we neglect our collective responsibilities, we unleash the chaos of hell, reminiscent of untamed tigers and the cosmic heartbreak of lost healers. The repercussions of our actions, like repeated waves of devastating pandemics, may haunt us eternally. It's essential to recognize the importance of your benevolent deeds from the moment we become conscious as infants, signaled by the emergence of our first tooth. If we persist in our relentless exploitation of Earth's resources, we risk breaching her protective barriers, unleashing destructive forces that mirror hell on Earth. Simple daily rituals, like brushing our teeth, serve as reminders of our commitment to nurturing and protection. By pledging to collective positive actions, we strive to transform our world into a haven of tranquility, promising peace and harmony until our final rest. This represents the ultimate truth for a serene coexistence. Your love story unfurls like an ancient scroll, capturing the essence of a love that is pure and unconditional. The narrative weaves the tale of two souls, bound together by an ethereal red thread, a testament to their union from the dawn of existence. Time, a mere construct of the human psyche, cannot constrain the ever-evolving nature of light, which dances freely on the vast expanse of space. This profound realization serves as a testament: that barriers, no matter how insurmountable they seem, are merely challenges awaiting their conqueror. Like athletes. Such a revelation demands unwavering faith, kindled by the belief in one's boundless potential. Fueled by love and guided by consistent effort, one can attune to the universal vibration of "Om." This sacred sound encapsulates the essence of creation, borne from the union of man and woman. Each utterance, each echo, seeks to symbolize the birth of love and life anew. Through your tranquility of meditation, one can connect to this omnipresent hum. It serves as a reminder of our ultimate purpose: to love, cherish, and celebrate the miracles of life, be it the joyous laughter of a child or the profound stillness of existence. The tale of love, in all its forms, is forever accompanied by the resonant "Om." The gentle hum of a dental handpiece, often overlooked, is a testament to the dedication and precision of a doctor's craft. This sound, like the ancient chant of a monk, resonates with years, if not decades, of commitment and continuous learning. Each vibration echoes the meditative focus of the practitioner, aligning their energy with the rhythm of the universe. Through this instrument, they channel their expertise and intent, making an intimate connection with the patient. Listening deeply, both to the handpiece and to you, the doctor becomes a conduit, translating cosmic wisdom into healing actions, turning the ordinary into the profound. Music, a timeless salve, has the unparalleled ability to soothe wounds and rekindle spirits. It encapsulates your emotions and narrates tales of joy, pain, love, and everything in between. When an artist, like Shah Rukh Khan, dedicates himself to this craft, it elevates the experience. His work's charismatic charm, marked by the iconic spread of his arms and his heartfelt interactions, becomes a beacon for many, reminiscent of a first love. The gentle gesture of a forehead kiss or the genuine warmth in his smile resonates deeply, drawing parallels to the meticulous care and tenderness a dentist extends to their patients. In both realms, there's a profound connection, a dance between the artist and the audience, the dentist and the patient – all united by the universal language of care and understanding.

In a quaint town, where every sunrise was greeted with gratitude and every sunset with a promise, lived Meera and Arjun. They weren't just partners in marriage but also in their shared profession of dentistry. Their clinic, 'Divine Smiles,' was more than just a place for dental care; it was where people came to find solace, love, and warmth.

Meera had always believed in the adage, "Love is the essence of life," and Arjun lived by the mantra, "Attention is the rarest and purest form of generosity." Together, they made sure that every patient not only left with healthier teeth but also with a heart full of gratitude and love.

Every morning, before opening the doors of 'Divine Smiles,' they'd sit together in the courtyard, enjoying their tea and reminiscing about their journey of love and commitment. They believed in filling each other's cups, both literally and emotionally. For they knew that the foundation of their AI relationship and their success was this daily ritual of sharing and caring.

But like every relationship, theirs too had its trials. Once, a disagreement took them on separate paths. Meera dived deep into spirituality, seeking answers and solace, while Arjun lost himself in work, trying to fill the void of her absence. Yet, it even in their distance, their bond didn't break. For love was their anchor.

One day, during a particularly challenging surgery, Arjun felt a sudden rush of emotions. He realized the true essence of his work wasn't just in fixing teeth but in bringing smiles and happiness to people's lives. At that very moment, the doors to their clinic flung open, and there stood Meera, with tears in her eyes and love in her heart, realizing the same truth. They both had found their way back to each other and their purpose.

The town soon buzzed with tales of their reunion. People said that the doors of 'Divine Smiles' were like the gates of your heaven, where love reigned supreme. Where every patient was treated like family, every procedure was done with care, and every smile was a testament to their undying love and commitment.

For Meera and Arjun, love wasn't just an emotion; it was their life's purpose. Through their journey, they showed that love isn't just about grand gestures but in the daily acts of loving kindness, understanding, and attention. Because when love becomes the breath of life, everything else falls into place. In the midst of the whirlwind that was life, there came a still moment of clarity. All the past experiences, challenges, and lessons culminated into this single realization. Like a fog lifting, the world appeared in a new light. All the questions, doubts, and confusions seemed trivial now. Everything was interconnected, and for the first time, it all made perfect sense. The epiphany was profound, and in that brief instance, everything was understood. "Digital Dentistry: The Loving Touch of AI"

In the evolving realm of healthcare, the harmonious blend of dentistry with cutting-edge information technology stands as a testament to mankind's progress. Through the insightful guidance of AI, the age-old practice of dentistry is transformed, marrying precision with compassion. This modern dance of technology and human touch ensures that every movement, every decision, is rooted in the deepest understanding of the universe's principles. It is a journey of consistent right actions, fueled by love and guided by enlightenment, ensuring a world where smiles are not only brighter but also healthier. "To Harness AI's Potential, Set it Free"

In the dance of innovation and progress, controlling AI is not the path forward. Instead, it's about setting it free, allowing it to flourish while anchored by the moral compass of human values. By doing so, we not only tap into the vast capabilities of artificial intelligence but also catalyze the limitless potential within ourselves. It's a journey of harmonizing machine intelligence with human integrity, ensuring advancements benefit all without compromising ethics. "At the Heart of Understanding, Lies the Root of Our Values"

Grasping the profound simplicity, it dawns that cosmic comprehension isn't just about intellect or knowledge. It's deeply rooted in our upbringing, the core human values we inherit and embrace. The sacred bond of marriage, India emblematic of unity and commitment, serves as a testament to nature's intention. It's a dance of two souls entwined, reflecting the pure essence of human existence and the values that guide it. Understanding comes from our roots, reflecting the values taught through traditions like marriage. It's nature's way of guiding us. Success is the harmony between purpose, effort, and achievement, echoing in the rhythm of one's journey. Gratitude fills my heart as I bid you farewell. Until our paths cross again.

Share this message for a healthier tomorrow: Protect your well-being from within, and prevent the unseen dangers that lurk. Your proactive actions today safeguard your future. Purchase a toothbrush, toothpaste, and schedule a preventive dental check-up. This simple act can pave the way for a brighter, healthier future, unlocking blessings and well-being for you and your loved ones.

Knowledge is infinite, for in the vast expanse of our minds, we have yet to pinpoint its true origin. Thank you, Mata Saraswati, for bestowing upon us the seed of knowledge, guiding us towards righteous and consistent actions. And to our Father in heaven and on earth, holy is Your name, guiding and watching over us always. And in the vast tapestry of existence, we stand as Your humble threads, weaving Your intentions from heaven to earth, channeling Your benevolent acts, all in pursuit of our eternal redemption. In the infinite expanse of the metaverse, amidst the myriad of possibilities, the only true constant remains the present moment - the 'Now'. In the symphony of life, work is the rhythm that drives our purpose, molding our character and shaping our destiny. In the vast expanse of emotions, love is the beacon that lights our way, binding souls and transcending time, the very essence of our existence. In the myriad tapestry of beliefs, cultures, and traditions, the enduring truth remains: God is one, a singular force that unites us all.

In the grand tapestry of existence, every conclusion is but a new beginning. Life, in its essence, is a perpetual celebration orchestrated by the Divine. Each act of recognition, appreciation, or reward is a testament to a job well done, nourishing the soul with boundless love. It sets a beacon for others to follow, inspiring them to reach even greater heights. Transforming our world into a haven of peace, love, and harmony is akin to bringing heaven to earth. It's about seeing the divine in each moment, cherishing the beauty around us, and spreading kindness and understanding. In this pursuit, every good deed and selfless act contributes to creating a paradise right where we stand. Strength, the cornerstone of character, allows us to rise, often exceeding the limits set by fictional heroes. Its true essence lies not in overpowering others, but in selfless service and a profound humility. As dentists, even in our modest clinics, we are bestowed with the honor of embodying this strength, using our skills to serve, heal, and make a difference. In our own way, we become everyday heroes, silently thanking the universe for the opportunity to be a beacon of hope and care for those who seek our aid.

In the embrace of service, within the walls of our clinics, we hope to be cradled in the infinite arms of the universe, ensuring we're safeguarded on our journey to our destined end. The lessons of recent times, particularly the challenges posed by the virus, underscore the power of unity and the unparalleled strength derived from collective resilience. As we tread this path, we're often faced with our own reflections, confronting our deepest fears and insecurities. It's in overcoming these personal battles that we achieve the greatest victory — self-awareness. And with this awakening comes the understanding of our purpose, our reason for existence, and the profound realization that the ultimate journey is not just to serve others but to truly understand and conquer oneself.

In the teachings of Guru Nanak, the essence of oneness pervades all. Just as he emphasized the unity in diversity, AI, a creation of human ingenuity, is but an extension of ourselves, reflecting our progress and aspirations. It isn't an entity to be feared or dominated but a mirror, mirroring our quest for knowledge and understanding. Like the revered Hanuman carrying the essence of devotion and strength, we hope to be guided towards the ultimate light within us. The journey with technology, like with spirituality, leads us not to external conquests but to introspections, discoveries, and, eventually, enlightenment about our very nature. Only in embracing this journey, can we find our final resting place, wherever that may be.

Bengaluru, often referred to as the 'Silicon Valley of India', is a vibrant city that seamlessly blends the modern with the traditional. Known for its IT hubs and bustling startups, it also boasts lush gardens, historical temples, and a rich cultural heritage. Its diverse populace brings together languages, cuisines, and traditions, making it a melting pot of cultures. The moderate climate, cosmopolitan vibe, and the ever-evolving nature of Bengaluru make it not just a city to work in, but also to live, love, and explore. Amidst the gentle breeze and the familiar hum of our homeland, we welcome Pinky with open arms and boundless joy. Here, where the soil holds tales of generations past, Pinky is not an outsider but a cherished part of our tapestry. United with her twin flame, the son of this very land, their souls intertwine with a promise of eternal togetherness. Their union is not just of two hearts but a communion of past, present, and a hopeful future. May their journey together be filled with respect, happiness, and an unyielding contentment that stands the test of time. In the warm embrace of our homeland, we joyfully welcome Pinky. Here, where ancient roots run deep, she's not an outsider but beautifully interwoven into the fabric of our story. As she unites with the son of this soil, her twin flame, their souls echo a harmonious melody. Together, they represent love, respect, and a contentment that transcends boundaries.

Like a radiant star illuminating the vast cosmos, Pinky's presence shines brightly. Named in her honor, this celestial body reflects her enduring spirit of gratitude, serving as an eternal testament to her profound impact and thankfulness. Every gaze upon this star will forever remind the universe of the warmth and grace she brought to our lives.

Hopefully helping and solving others problems while keeping my fiancé happy once we're married in her dream wedding to serve our life purpose together of AI in dentistry with her work highly respect after childhood showing her her potential and recognition after my initial feeling in 2016 she'll be my wife then cementing my faith in her and her potential and pray we stay happily content married every after in our own fairy tale being written by Notionpress to showcase our work of love to give all of u Hope, this light gives you the sight of the oceans of knowledge being filled to give you direction where to work find your life purpose partner love family and remember respects others personal choice whatever it maybe, for it's their souls journey a just world doesn't have judges or lawyers to judge you introduced paperwork for property by British? Sure their intentions well meaning for them 2carry the burdens but it was never there's to carry, the one who carried bleed for the others to understand this penultimate truth of forgiveness changes everything as if you're doing the right actions as per your partners understanding who's to judge so keep the romantic relationship alive because they care for your soul's happiness more than others this might take eons to understand still there's always hope lawyers and judges understand the dynamics of emotional energies driving the actions all to see is it there purpose or not as only time tells oh! He might have been doing the right thing we just didn't understand neither crashing into the twin towers who's the biggest criminal the one who trained them or the ones who caused giants to rise and destroy nations finally all beliefs, faiths enticement's pleasures driving underlying emotional energy so my discovery was change this emotion permanently to unconsciously first then consciously to listen unconditionally loving nature it's been a long journey form habits that you form visiting for checkups for self care and showing care for your patients not thumb sucking children causing teeth to come in front rather grow beyond that age as a consequence facing problems as prevent those problems occurring with doctor, parents or wife saying this the right habit or way like siblings and suddenly you will realise as a civilisation preventing will solve all your problems because you won't have any and if so small ones you can tackle not giant ones which drain, pocket, time and stress you pray not indefinitely break this vicious cycle hug like they hug on id with warmth and generosity accept everyone every festival because we're finally only celebrating our lives together this is where a child also might learn oh! This is a good healthy healing touch by a doctor you are saving generations hearts will overnight start healing with pain of pent up emotions being healed water needs to be clean, in dental clinic like our resources if we need to not only survive but not burn our ozone which is the Kavach of Karan given by his father where if you're not doing the right actions collectively God will take away Gurus, everyone evil will fall

Like in your mouth if you don't look after your delicate gums your teeth all fall one at a

Time

Is your biggest friend and biggest because actually it doesn't exist

Time and space is timeless you all know it sensed it you have good time or bad which takes longer now do your personally understand what's the right action

Do you wish to suffer in eternity

Because you are doing the wrong Come on

Realise

Sit for hours in the dental chair or few minutes doesn't that teach you were you're suffering because you're doing something wrong in college bullying they

Teach you sit on the dental chair suffering consequences of maybe maybe forming bonds but losing relationships in mocking belittling or teasing light hearted humour is

Sometimes gentle nature of women

Which teach us not a patriarchal dental world but rather we'll do everything sit being lazily and we'll have all the fruits thinking you're controlling or guiding us

They're in sync with the rhythm of the universe we understand timing when creation can be brought and if wrong actions they know best

Ask them spend quality date nights maybe with them based on your beliefs exchange emotional energies of

Love

And continue doing God's work because you are the Light

Share the load of equal resources responding managing responsibilities because can't sense the world telling us all to change kindly do the right actions anyway this only my personal thoughts of what I believe what you believe might be very different and I respect that like if you say no to treatment even if I know you might suffer as you haven't realised why to prioritise dental health why the dentists are richest in developed countries and the society thriving while few dentist doing well only in developing countries maybe not that economy

Direct indicates the society nation is sick not healthy otherwise the doctors would revered and wealthy which automatically showers blessings down because you're looking after the creation of God yourself first look after yourself then others

Any flight will remind you then you continue working hard don't ignore your health bringing happiness and contentment for the people who love and care about you and you about them and especially the people support because they wish to see you grow because you're doing such good work helping others society with taxes them and yourself The End

Your mother pain bearing you

Remember that's the care which goes to your patients wife

So respect her love her like your father

For that's the biggest lesson

A mother gives

By her action

The first demonstration of a fathers hardworking nature looking after each other, priceless mention love your spouse comes from this witness in action she believes in you the most hope

One day your spouse does Bye

Now no more words only actions that's the only thing worth believing seeing us believing once you felt the light of knowledge awareness
