"Changed the system, I have a happy thought: Emotions play a part in our actions. Who are we? Find the diamond within; there your soul resides. It's pure and emits light, much like tooth jewelry. Other stones might shatter when eating well-cooked food, much like in the silver shop on 100 Feet Road. Hera gifted me the twin flame to offer to Sri Ganesha at the beginning of our dream wedding. I pray you hear our love story and find it inspiring. The final word of the day? We received family diamonds for our engagement at Diplomat, near the Kohinoor behind the Taj. Was it February 11th or the 11th of February? Always remember, love is timeless, and so are you." Love heals everything "Love heals everything":

- Love: Love is a complex emotion that encompasses various forms, such as romantic love, familial love, and platonic love. It involves deep affection, care, and compassion for someone or something.
- Healing: Healing refers to the process of recovering from physical, emotional, or psychological wounds or illnesses. It involves restoring balance and well-being.
- Everything: This word suggests that love has the potential to address a wide range of issues and challenges, including physical ailments, emotional pain, and social conflicts. Certainly, let's organize the information as if a blind person in the darkness is finding their way with love:

1. Darkness as the Unknown:

- The initial state represents darkness, symbolizing the unknown or uncertainty in life.

2. Love as a Guiding Light:

- Love is portrayed as a guiding light, offering direction and purpose in the midst of uncertainty.
- Love serves as a beacon of hope and positivity.

3. The Journey Begins:

- The blind person starts their journey in the darkness, much like embarking on life's journey.

4. Seeking Happiness and Positivity:

- The emphasis is on choosing happiness (love) as a way to navigate through life's challenges.

5. Overcoming Obstacles:

- The blind person encounters obstacles, representing life's difficulties and setbacks.

6. Persistence and Faith:

- The blind person's persistence and faith in love keep them moving forward despite the challenges.

7. Discovery and Growth:

- As the blind person continues, they discover new aspects of life and themselves.
- This mirrors personal growth and self-discovery through the power of love.

8. Interconnectedness and Unity:

- Love is seen as a unifying force that connects people and fosters a sense of unity.
- It encourages collaboration and empathy.

9. Spreading Love:

- The blind person's journey with love encourages them to share love with others, much like lighting candles in the darkness.

10. Illuminating the Path:

- Love is depicted as gradually illuminating the path, making it clearer and easier to navigate.

11. Finding Meaning and Purpose:

- Through love, the blind person finds meaning and purpose in their journey, representing the fulfillment and joy that love can bring.

12. Arrival at a Brighter Place:

- The blind person's journey with love ultimately leads to a brighter place, symbolizing a positive and fulfilling life.

In this metaphorical journey, love serves as the guiding light that leads the blind person through the darkness of life, helping them overcome obstacles, discover meaning, and find their way to a brighter and more fulfilling existence. The statement implies that love, in its various forms, has the power to bring about positive changes and promote healing in a broad spectrum of situations, both physical and emotional. Let me know if any other changes or feedbacks you'd like two way communication 'Be' truthful. finally, let nature take its own course

Builders need to see seawater outside sea limits instead of flushing money down the drain. Just as clients—or everyone for that matter—need to be willing to hear the truth instead of encryptions of what they are not ready to hear. The truth remains constant: it is better in life to know the truth. Therefore, we are all seekers for solutions to our problems. It's nature's way of guiding us. I wish for self-awareness and now seek it with the problems and solutions within me. Therefore, we are universally united in seeking truth and self-awareness. Who are you? The passage of:

"What I wish to show and appreciate, in both the original and edited versions of Book 2, is the creative energy that comes through us, the artists. This energy is inherent in us all by nature. Our drive is to find solutions, even with unconventional tools. A toothbrush, for instance, when used incorrectly, can cause ulcers and even cut your lips. Just like in my 2nd blog, I think AI tools (such as [<https://chat.openai.com>]) can massively accelerate research, fostering understanding between scientists, the community, and other fields such as dentistry, medicine, and technology. I recall the frustration I felt from over a decade of research publication—nobody seemed to understand. My dear wife, who I am set to marry in our own version like everyone happy ever after with us dream wedding on 29th October 9th November 2023 in 2021, enlightened me about the emerging AI tools just before the onslaught of the 'third wave style book tsunami.' Thanks to these advancements, the difference in communication and mutual understanding is evident. The truth is now a tangible reality."

The dental light shines down upon the client. Whether you're the one under the light or a dear loved one or guardian accompanying the client your choice or patient if not preventive, you might wonder about its significance. Can such a light aid in self-awareness? When you decide to give consent for preventive care, it's essential to have complete understanding and awareness. Any surgical procedures by a doctor generally occur under such illumination. It reminds one of the proverbial 'light at the end of the tunnel,' prompting some to whisper a prayer for comfort. Whether it's a simple gum poke during cleaning or a more thorough examination, it's comforting to think of a healing touch from the heavens, benefiting both the patient to become client and the practitioner. It seems like there's a lot of different topics and ideas. I'll try to provide a breakdown:

1. The Law of Happy Thought: The principle here seems to suggest that collaborative truth-seeking leads to wisdom and happiness. This is likened to Janaat heavenly wisdom.
2. Health and Physiology: There are mentions of menthol, cetirizine, and allegra for inflammation and other issues. The Potential of ours also touches on electric current for cell repair and brain stimulation.
3. Emotion and Memory: Remembering happy moments, like Peter Pan (played by Robin Williams) remembering his "happy thought", is crucial. Memories play a significant role in our emotional health.
4. Social Aspects: The importance of family, social bonding, and shared meals. This ties back to the Peter Pan reference, which emphasizes the importance of retaining childlike wonder and happiness.
5. Safety: Safety precautions, such as wearing helmets when riding motorbikes and using seatbelt in cars, are highlighted, avoid oral surgeon and emergency
6. Medical Interventions: Anti-thymocyte globulin (ATG) is mentioned as a treatment, and all from local doctors the Heimlich management, all small particles in current dentistry can pop out yourself be prepared don't swallow
7. Technology and Programming: The Potential delves into coding languages such as Python, hinting at the rise of artificial intelligence.

The "1-10 launch checks" and "G-force preparation" align with this theme, hinting at the intricate preparations required for space travel. "Space force" could refer to a military or exploration branch dedicated to outer space: Choose one
2. Dental Procedures: The space of "implants" and "bridge" can be related to dental procedures where teeth that are missing or damaged are replaced.
3. Genetics: References to "genetic code" and "start stop codon" touch upon genetics, specifically the coding sequences in DNA that dictate when protein synthesis should begin or end, dignity of exercise
4. Poetic Problem Solving: The ending seems to suggest that within every problem, there's an inherent solution, and it takes a perceptive or "ready" mind to uncover it. This concept is presented in a poetic and imaginative manner, here all over my writings

Hard core: not nuclear, within you resides

In molecular biology, the "start codon" signals the beginning of translation, the process by which the information encoded in mRNA is used to produce a protein. AUG is the most common start codon, which codes for the amino acid methionine in eukaryotes and a modified form of methionine (N-formylmethionine) in prokaryotes.

1. Eukaryotes (like humans):

- The primary start codon is AUG, which codes for methionine.
- In mitochondrial genomes, there are alternative start codons, as mentioned.

2. Prokaryotes:

- The primary start codon is AUG, which codes for N-formylmethionine.
- GUG and UUG can serve as alternative start codons in certain conditions.
- Your statistics for E. coli seem to be in the right ballpark, illustrating that while AUG is the predominant start codon, GUG and UUG are used a fraction of the time.

In summary, while AUG is the primary start codon for both eukaryotes and prokaryotes, both types of organisms can use alternative start codons under certain conditions or in specific genomic contexts.

Our statement is a good reflection of this diversity in codon usage across the living world.

In humans, as with other eukaryotes, the primary start codon is AUG. This codon codes for the amino acid methionine. When translation of the mRNA into a protein begins, AUG is recognized as the start codon, and the ribosome begins the process of protein synthesis by adding methionine as the first amino acid in the polypeptide chain.

It's worth noting that in eukaryotes, the AUG start codon codes for a standard methionine. In contrast, in prokaryotes like bacteria, the AUG start codon codes for a modified methionine called N-formylmethionine.

In addition to the nuclear genome, humans also have a mitochondrial genome. The mitochondrial genome has its own translational machinery, and while AUG is still a start codon in mitochondria, there can be variations in codon usage and the amino acids they code for compared to the nuclear genome. The term "central dogma" is primarily associated with molecular biology and not physics.

Why not physics?

E->P-L (to be revealed 1st January midnight 2024,

Central Dogma of Molecular Biology:

Formulated by Francis Crick in 1958, the central dogma of molecular biology describes the flow of genetic information within a biological system. It is succinctly summarized as:

- DNA → RNA → Protein

This means:

1. Replication: DNA is copied to produce more DNA.
2. Transcription: The genetic information in DNA is transcribed to produce RNA.
3. Translation: The RNA, specifically messenger RNA (mRNA), is then translated to produce proteins.

It's worth noting that while this flow describes the primary direction of genetic information, there are known exceptions and additional complexities, such as reverse transcription in retroviruses where RNA is reverse-transcribed to produce DNA.

As for physics, there isn't a concept termed "central dogma" analogous to that in molecular biology. Physics comprises various laws, principles, and theories that govern the universe's behaviour or, they aren't encapsulated by a singular "central dogma"?

The "God particle" is a colloquial term for the Higgs boson, a particle that plays a unique role in the Standard Model of particle physics. The Higgs boson is associated with the Higgs field, a field of energy that exists throughout the universe. Other particles gain mass by interacting with this field, with the Higgs boson being the particle manifestation of the field. The term "God particle" was popularized by the media, largely due to the title of the book "The God Particle: If the Universe Is the Answer, What Is the Question?" by physicist Leon Lederman. However, many scientists don't use or endorse this term, as they consider it sensationalistic.

Regarding the smallest known matter in physics, it's essential to define what we mean by "smallest." If by "smallest," we refer to subatomic particles that aren't made up of other particles, then elementary particles are the answer. Examples of elementary particles include:

- Quarks: These are the constituents of protons and neutrons. There are six types or "flavors" of quarks: up, down, charm, strange, top, and bottom.
- Leptons: This group includes the electron, muon, tau, and their associated neutrinos (electron neutrino, muon neutrino, and tau neutrino).
- Bosons: These are force-carrying particles. They include the photon (electromagnetic force), W and Z bosons (weak nuclear force), gluons (strong nuclear force), and the aforementioned Higgs boson.

No current experiments or theories till now suggest that these elementary particles are composed of smaller particles. However, research in physics is ongoing, and our understanding of the fundamental nature of the universe continues to evolve.

"Like the repeating patterns of the genetic code, I say to all of you: HHH - Honest, Happy, Help. Hold fast to your faith and beliefs. Strive to be healthy, wealthy, and wise. Pair these sentiments with rational actions of assistance."

4. Provide Consistent Value: I've attempted to organize and edit for grammar and coherence: Continuously delivering quality work, products, or services is crucial to maintaining and growing your income. Patients in hospitals may be considered 'sick,' but when they come to a dental doctor, they are clients seeking repair. Similarly, we are your global clients: we can either exchange services based on mutual understanding in a tax-free utopia, or compensate financially within our current taxed system. This phenomenon, which I believe I observed in neuroblastoma over a decade ago, might be attributed to cell-to-cell communication. There's still much to be understood and explored through observation, laboratory tests, and collaboration between human intelligence and artificial intelligence. it's crucial to always consult scientific literature or medical experts to ensure that the claims made are accurate and well-researched make a metaphorical comparison between various acts of charity and assistance. make it clearer:

"Seeking knowledge, in my understanding, is akin to begging for alms; it represents an insatiable thirst for enlightenment. Just as alms are generously provided by spiritual homes, NGOs, and government aid to uplift the impoverished, knowledge is a donation to elevate our intellectual wealth. With knowledge, we gain health, happiness, and contentment, enabling us to uplift and aid others in turn."

The ultimate enlightenment of society occurs when assisting one another becomes its own reward the idea that societal enlightenment is achieved when the act of helping is seen as its own form of compensation or reward.

"Enlightenment is not just the light of the truth seeker; it is also the radiant light from the Source shining within us. Thus, we become beacons, guiding others who are in search of truth. This journey leads to a wealth of happiness in our relationships. For, in our self-awareness, we come to recognize the oneness of God — a realization that might initially be met with fear but eventually transforms into pure, 2007 unconditional love. There are also electric vehicle batteries which can have varying lifespans, often more than 5 years but with some degradation in capacity over time.
5. "for a bad apple fallen can spoil others": A take on the proverb "one bad apple spoils the bunch," which means that a single negative entity or influence can ruin everything around it.
6. "good black salt Mahatma walked to say its mine": This references Mahatma Gandhi's historic Dandi March, where he protested the British salt tax by walking to the Arabian Sea and making salt himself. The "black salt" could symbolize the natural resources or rights that belonged to the Indian people, which Gandhi claimed as their own.

 5. Learning Lessons & Pain and Suffering: The idea that suffering is a result of not learning certain lessons is a recurring concept in many philosophical and religious traditions.
 6. God, Eve, and the Apple: The narrative of Adam, Eve, and the forbidden fruit is from the Bible. In Christian theology, the eating of the forbidden fruit is often considered the original sin which brought suffering into the world, bitten by an apple symbol
 7. Loyalty, Trillion Dollars, and Legal Consequences: Here, you seem to be touching on the tension between material gain and moral consequences. The question is: at what cost do we pursue wealth and success?
 8. Lifelong Operating System: This could be a metaphor for life or consciousness. Perhaps you're suggesting that life comes with both its benefits (immense value) and its limitations (a built-in clock).
 9. Telomerase: Telomerase is an enzyme that repairs and extends telomeres, which are the protective caps at the end of our chromosomes. Telomeres shorten as we age, and when they become too short, cells can no longer divide, leading to aging and disease. The mention here might be a reference to the inherent "expiration date" in life or perhaps the quest for immortality: epigenetic methylation

mum Subject: Condolences and Gratitude for Dr. Thomas Geoghegan

Dear Family,

I hope this message finds you well during this difficult time. I wanted to share some thoughts and express my condolences regarding the passing of Dr. Thomas Geoghegan.

I am deeply grateful to Dr. Geoghegan for the profound impact he had on my life. As his molecular biology student, I experienced not only his exceptional teaching but also his immense capacity for love and faith. He even went above and beyond by reteaching an entire class for me when I missed it, ultimately leading to my enrollment in the PhD program, a move that changed the course of my life, with first mentor Dr. Sven Ulrik Gorr book Watson and Crick

Though I regret not completing my journey under his guidance and not being able to save my beloved teacher, to continuing the battle he fought so valiantly. I pray that one day we will win the war he envisioned, a war aimed at benefiting others by potentially reversing cancer, just as he encouraged me to publish our theories first and guided me through the journal process. Thanks to his mentorship, our decade-long research has now been published in Asia's No.1 International medical and dental journal.

Dr. Geoghegan's guidance extended beyond academics. He shared an equation of Brownian motion with me, one that allowed him to find comfort with air conditioning at the perfect temperature for productivity and peace amidst chaos.

I am convinced that the message of "go to your father; he will heal you" was embodied by Dr. Geoghegan himself, a guiding light that illuminated our path. Pinky and I are diligently following that path. I encourage you to read my recent email on Yahoo, as it contains more insights and details.

Throughout this journey, my heart has been heavy, knowing that I couldn't save him. But in his final moments, he requested that we keep it private, and we will respect his wishes. We wish to convey our condolences and deepest gratitude to his family while we continue on our journey with a profound sense of appreciation for having been touched by his wisdom and kindness.

We extend an open invitation to Dr. Geoghegan's wife, whom I had the privilege of meeting once, and to his family to visit us whenever they are ready. Please convey our heartfelt thanks and warm regards to Bill Dean, whom I've always regarded as Dr. Geoghegan's best friend throughout our college, university, and department days.

With heartfelt condolences and unwavering gratitude, the day you go to heaven to give someone something you have taught them how to love thank you eternally to UNDERSTAND, Open email: Exciting Updates and Insights from Dhruv Subramanian

Dear Dr.,

I hope this message finds you well. I want to share some exciting updates and insights with you. Please take a moment to read through the following information:

Announcing the Preventive Care System:

As a Harvard dental alumnus in Kentucky, I am thrilled to inform you about our recent trial launch of the Preventive Care System. We have made our first public announcement, and you can expect further updates on the NamrataDhruv Love Brand Channel on WhatsApp. Get ready for our inaugural team video in the local language!

Exploring Light Speed Equation:

In a published article originally featured on my blog, I delve into the intriguing concept of the speed of light equation. I have also incorporated this material into my upcoming book, 'Oral Healthcare Awareness and Love Story with Enlightenment,' which is on being released on 28th October 2023 at the Sangeet on 6.30pm. This book carries a message of hope and signifies the completion of my journey from the USA back to India. It's a journey driven by a vision that has been privately nurtured for over a decade.

Unveiling Dental Electric Energy and Nerve Regeneration:

I invite you to explore my blog post about dental electric energy in nerve regeneration, where I delve into its multiple applications in the context of God's creation—a concept that ties into the video being produced at Navigational AI. While awaiting the arrival of my books, read all you may also find interest in this article. These blog posts provide valuable insights into the background of my research journey and my pursuit of knowledge and awareness, commencing with my collaboration with the late Professor Dr. Thomas Geoghegan, who was the first to believe in me, alongside my family, then Dr. Achuth M Baliga

Peer-Reviewed Recognition for Cancer-Related Publication:

I am delighted to share that one of my publications related to cancer research has received peer-reviewed recognition within the public scientific community, boasting an impressive impact factor of approximately 6.8. Each of these endeavors represents a small contribution to my lifelong mission of navigating the sea of dental AI technology.

Joining Our Journey:

I consider myself fortunate to share this incredible journey with my soon-to-be wife as we build a small family and home together. We earnestly hope for your good wishes as we embark on this shared life journey, commencing on October 29, 2023.

Now, addressing the emails you've received from me, I apologize for the multiple emails; my intention was to ensure you were well-informed about these important developments:

1. If you are considering joining our panel, not as entities curtail freedom of thought
2. Updates and information.
3. The original versions of Books 1 & 2 have been dispatched.
4. The edited version of Book 2 has not been sent yet.
5. I would like to invite you, as well as your circle of colleagues, to explore the information shared in these two books. The third book contains a secret that builds upon the content of the first two books.
6. I have also published an equation on the Docplexus Doctors website related to energy, after modification for dental industry feedback from Nature future journal The third book creatively explores the possibility of dark matter or dark energy that could potentially be harnessed for the benefit of our present and future generations. I refer to it as 'God's love,' as a source of creation terminology that ties into the final point.
7. The final word of the God's message series has already been completed and sent for publishing, scheduled for release on 11th February.

However, I believe the third book holds significant secrets, which I plan to reveal on 1st January. I currently have two copies, and my fiancée has one. Therefore, if you are interested, I can send you a copy before the official release so you can provide insights from your circle or your own expertise. I believe it has the potential to benefit everyone and everything, and I hope it brings about a sense of positivity.

Thank you for your consideration and understanding.

Best regards and with gratitude,

Dhruv Subramanian
