

Accessibility Statement

Last Updated: August 28, 2026

At EverydayAlonzo, I believe everyone should be able to access and enjoy the content shared on this website.

I am committed to improving the accessibility and usability of www.everydayalonzo.com and making the website as welcoming and accessible as possible for people with different abilities and ways of accessing the internet.

Our Commitment to Accessibility

EverydayAlonzo is continually working to improve the accessibility of the website and to align the site with recognized accessibility best practices, including the Web Content Accessibility Guidelines (WCAG).

Accessibility is an ongoing process, and I recognize that there may be areas of the website that could be improved.

As the website grows and changes, I will continue working to identify and address accessibility barriers.

Accessibility Features

Where reasonably possible, EverydayAlonzo works to incorporate accessibility practices such as:

- Providing alternative text for meaningful images.
- Using descriptive headings and page structure.
- Maintaining readable text and appropriate color contrast.
- Making links and navigation understandable.

- Providing labels and instructions for forms.
- Supporting keyboard navigation where possible.
- Including captions or other accessible features for video content when available.
- Avoiding the use of color as the only way to communicate important information.
- Designing content with both desktop and mobile users in mind.

Because EverydayAlonzo contains content created over time, some older content may not yet meet current accessibility best practices. I am continuing to review and improve existing content as time and resources allow.

Third-Party Content

Some portions of EverydayAlonzo may include content, features, links, advertisements, social media feeds, videos, or other services provided by third parties.

These third-party services may not be fully controlled by EverydayAlonzo, and their accessibility may depend on the accessibility features provided by the third party.

Where possible, I strive to work with services and platforms that support accessibility.

Feedback & Assistance

If you experience difficulty accessing any part of EverydayAlonzo, I would genuinely like to know.

If you encounter an accessibility barrier, please contact me and provide as much information as possible, including:

- The page or URL where you experienced the issue.

- A description of the accessibility barrier.
- The type of device or browser you were using, if relevant.
- Any other information that may help me understand the problem.

You can contact me at:

Christina Alonzo

EverydayAlonzo

Email: blog.everydayalonzo@gmail.com

I will make reasonable efforts to review accessibility concerns and determine whether an improvement or alternative way of accessing the information is available.

Ongoing Improvements

Accessibility is not a one-time project. I am committed to continuing to improve the accessibility of EverydayAlonzo as the website, technology, and accessibility standards evolve.

Thank you for helping me make EverydayAlonzo a more inclusive place for everyone.

© 2026 EverydayAlonzo. All rights reserved.