The Olixfit project was born from a great vision:

Using the gifts that nature offers us and the elements that we find in our territory to transform them into well-being for all.

The creation of unique, natural products, capable of combining psychophysical well-being with the beneficial effects of the Mediterranean diet, is our commitment and our mission. For this reason, our products exploit the extraordinary effects of OLIXINA®, “the molecule that improves life”, which is found in olive leaves and which adds value to our being proudly Made in Italy - a guarantee of goodness and quality.

Olive oil, also called the Gold of the Mediterranean, has ancient origins that date back over 6,000 years and that have been passed down over the centuries with folk tales and religious texts. The Olive tree owes this interest to its extraordinary characteristics that allow it to live over the centuries without modern treatments and pesticides, making it unique and in some ways eternal.

The properties of OLIXINA® derive from a bitter glycoside called Oleuropein (Oleuropein) extracted from olive leaves and oil. Modern processing techniques, respecting nature, allow us to obtain a concentration of Oleuropein from 40% to 70% which we have registered with the trademark OLIXINA®.

Let's achieve well-being together, with small daily gestures

The Doctor answers

Dr. Luca Gelardi

An expert in the nutraceutical market of food supplements in Italy and Europe, he boasts over 22 years of career in the sector, collaborating with market-leading companies.

What is the Aikido line?

It is a range of natural supplements based on mushrooms and algae, inspired by oriental tradition to naturally support the balance and well-being of the body. "Aikido" means "the way of harmony of vital energy".

Mycotherapy and medicinal mushrooms

Used for millennia in traditional Chinese medicine, medicinal mushrooms are rich in bioactive substances with immunomodulatory, anti-inflammatory and adaptogenic properties. They improve metabolism, protect against free radicals and promote the balance of the microbiota.

Origins and historical value

Once reserved for emperors, medicinal mushrooms were considered the elixir of life. Today, they are grown sustainably to make them accessible to all.

Why are they important?

They contain beta-glucans and other bioactive compounds that stimulate the immune system, improve energy levels, promote recovery and increase resistance to stress.

Gluten free and safe

All Aikido products are gluten-free and formulated to ensure maximum safety and quality. For anyone with particular health conditions or taking medications, it is still advisable to consult a doctor before use.

Beta-glucans: What are they?

These are complex sugars that "train" the immune system, help reduce LDL cholesterol levels, regulate blood sugar levels and help strengthen general health.

Where to find them?

Beta-glucans are natural compounds found in various food sources, including oats. However, mushrooms contain significantly higher quantities. Thanks to a specific extraction, their bioavailability is significantly increased, ensuring better absorption and superior efficacy.

Mushrooms used in the Aikido line

Reishi: promotes relaxation and strengthens the immune system.

Shiitake: supports cardiovascular health.

Maitake: contributes to balanced metabolism and blood sugar control.

Hericium: supports the nervous system and improves concentration.

Cordyceps: Increases physical stamina and energy levels.

Why choose algae?

They are naturally rich in proteins, vitamins, minerals, Omega-3 and antioxidants, essential nutrients for general well-being. Algae support thyroid function, promote detoxification processes and contribute to the maintenance of cardiovascular health.

Valuable algae from the Aikido line

Spirulina: rich in proteins, iron and antioxidants.

Fucoxanthin (Wakame): supports weight management and lipid metabolism.

Quality and production

Raw materials selected from certified suppliers, with rigorous controls to guarantee efficacy and purity. The Aikido line combines tradition and innovation for daily well-being.
