With Dehydration as a significant driver of workplace injuries OSHA launched a Heat Stress NEP in April '22 due to.....

75

75% of workers being mildly to moderately dehydrated EVERYDAY¹

3%

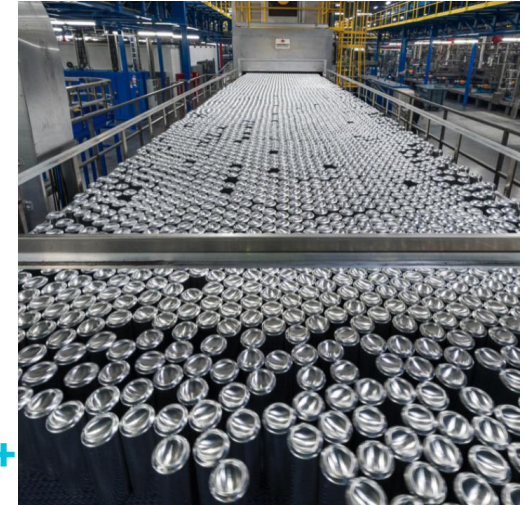

A 3% decrease in hydration slows workers' reaction times similarly to having a .08 blood alcohol level

- Impaired judgment
- Increased fatigue and drowsiness
- Delayed coordination and reaction times

$40k

Each dehydration - induced injury costs employers $40K+

As a result, OSHA has launched a Heat-Stress NEP (National Emphasis Program) in April '22 to help mitigate risks

DripDrop beats the competition in all key elements of a hydration product

Sodium Electrolytes
