USD 100 - 200

H. Hargrove Serigraph "Dr. Sully's Cough Cure". Signed by the artist. Numbered 043277 on the back. H. Hargrove was born in 1941, Nicolo Sturiano grew up in a small town just outside of Palermo, Italy. A graduate of the Wine Institute of Marsala, he came to the United States in 1964 to pursue his chosen profession. In love with America, Sturiano earned his citizenship; enchanted with Americana, he adopted an American pseudonym under which to paint by opening a phone book, H. Hargrove. As his reputation grew, he found himself much in demand for personal appearances (and autograph sessions) before large audiences of art lovers. Subsequently, Hargrove became the subject of numerous magazine and newspaper articles, which in turn led to interviews on radio and television programs both local and national. High-level dignitaries and celebrities now number among his following. Having begun his career by painting Americana, Hargrove has expanded his repertoire to include delicately-detailed still lifes, spectacular European landscapes, and privately-commissioned portraits. His work is collected across America and in Europe, and his collector base is constantly expanding.

113: Steel Sculpture "Qivi-Bot" by Denis Kulikov, 2017. Dimensions 38x33x27cm

USD 11,000 - 13,000

In the sculpture "Qivi-bot" Denis Kulikov combined living nature with cybernetic achievements, creating a cyborg bird. The narrative of alternative evolution with the human technology interference in the living nature has long been apocalyptic, as it is associated with the final conquest of nature by man. The artist offers a reflection on the reasonability of such intervention.

114: Steel Sculpture "The Overseer" by Denis Kulikov, 2016. Dimensions 37x65x32cm

USD 21,000 - 23,000

"The Overseer" whose head reminds us of Ridley Scott's classic film the "Alien" Is a lifelike sculpture of a sinister humanoid cyborg, who has the power to bring real threat to earth. The sculptor's sci-fi plot reveals the vulnerability of earthly existence.

115: Steel Sculpture "Shrimp" by Denis Kulikov, 2018. Dimensions 75x160x65cm

USD 31,000 - 33,000

The brutality of this work is emphasized by the belligerent pose of the aquatic fauna species. Adopting the features of terrestrial insects, the "Shrimp" becomes similar to a scorpion. Its traditional helplessness before the forces of the elements and predatory fish is transformed into a fierce resistance to the laws of nature.

116: Steel Sculpture "Leviathan 3" by Denis Kulikov, 2021. Dimensions 47x180x55cm

USD 31,000 - 33,000

In mythology, Leviathan was considered a symbol of the sea-a mighty and magnificent creature, unmatched in its element. Later, the word "Leviathan" became a nickname for something striking by its size and strength. The modern Leviathan in Denis Kulikov's interpretation is still the king of the sea depths, but his real strength is not in his size, but in his intelligence, his ability to adapt to any living conditions and make right and useful decisions.

117: Steel Sculpture Series of sculptures "Garlic" by Denis Kulikov, 2021. Dimensions 41x40x22cm

118: Steel Sculpture Series of sculptures "Bonsai" by Denis Kulikov, 2021. Dimensions 50x60x40cm USD 7,000 - 9,000

The "Bonsai" series is based on the Asian art of growing trees in miniature. Growing trees in Japan is a separate kind of leisure activity, associated with skill, that also requires the art of admiring these trees upon completion. In Denis Kulikov's space flora, the branches and leaves of the "Bonsai" tree take on a new form, that according to the artist, corresponds to the universe around them.

119: Steel Sculpture Series of sculptures "Metalozoid" by Denis Kulikov, 2021. Dimensions 70x55x22cm USD 7,000 - 9,000

Through the series of works "Cosmoflora" the artist immerses himself in the study of alternative worlds and their flora. Futuristic forms of space plants, taking the "earthly" form of metallic matter, are depicted in Kulikov's sculptures. Creating the world of flora, the artist invites the viewer to endow this world with fauna, to inhabit it with alien creatures, to imagine his own universe from the original points of reference. The viewer's imagination as a malleable matter merges with the heavyweight structure of metal and gives it life.

120: Steel Sculpture Series of sculptures "Corn" by Denis Kulikov, 2021. Dimensions 38x34x23cm USD 7,000 - 9,000

Through the series of works "Cosmoflora" the artist immerses himself in the study of alternative worlds and their flora. 121: Steel Sculpture "Self-Contemplation" by Alexander Dedov, 2021. Dimensions 187x55x50cm USD 37,000 - 40,000

Through an impersonal image of a child holding a small fish, Alexander Dedov interprets the relationship between man and nature. Observing a fragile creature, whose life can be interrupted by an awkward movement or intentionally, a person, observes and knows himself. By owning and disposing of someone else's life, he gets a false sense of divine power. Using the example of the dissected body of a dolphin, the sculptor shows the process of deformation of nature by a person who seeks to transform it in his interests. The dolphin is a symbolic representation of water, nature, and the surrounding world. The artist created an image of the feet submerged in water, hiding them outside the space of the sculpture. Through this image, Alexander Dedov compares a person to a tree that is rooted deep underground. Water is interpreted by Dedov as the source of life on earth and at the same time as one of the elements of destructive natural elements. It can create life natural elements. It can create life and regenerate it, but it can also destroy all living things. The sculpture symbolizes the hierarchy and cyclical relationship of man with nature, as well as their continuous mutual influence. An aggressive or childishly frivolous, irresponsible invasion of humanity into the realm of nature can cause a tragic and irreversible spontaneous reaction. Every person and, in particular, every child has a choice on which their future depends: to show an act of power and take the fish for themselves, playing with it until it runs out of life force, or to let it go back into the water, allowing nature to coexist harmoniously with us and in ourselves.

The main Japanese force at Milne Bay had evacuated the area in the days before and Calvert's patrol was part of an exercise to clear the area of any enemy soldiers left behind. Coming upon a party of five Japanese soldiers in a native hut they opened fire. Calvert killed an officer and wounded another man. The others fled into the jungle, one hiding in a nearby bush which Calvert fired into, killing the man. When the area was secure the Australians souvenired items from the hut. Calvert picked up this flag along with a sword, some notes and other material. They then burnt the hut and returned to camp. Calvert was born in Manchester, United Kingdom, in 1910 and enlisted for service in Townsville, Queensland, in March 1940. He was discharged in December 1943.

175: River Styx Dali Style Lithograph

USD 75 - 150

A "River Styx Dali Style Lithograph" a lithographic print created in the style of the famous surrealist artist Salvador Dalí. The River Styx is a mythological river in Greek mythology that separates the world of the living from the underworld. A lithograph is a printmaking technique where the artist draws directly onto a stone or metal plate with a greasy crayon or ink. The image is then transferred onto paper. In the context of a "Dali Style" lithograph, you can expect to see surreal and dreamlike imagery characteristic of Dalí's work, such as melting clocks, distorted figures, and fantastical landscapes. Dalí was known for his meticulous attention to detail and use of symbolism, so a lithograph in his style might incorporate these elements to create a visually striking and thought-provoking artwork.
