What's New?

Success Story

Katie

Katie was amid a housing crisis. She was on the brink of homelessness after learning that she had to vacate her home within short notice and had a small window of time to move into a new apartment. To her relief, she was approved for an apartment and would be able to transition on the same day that she had to leave her current home. The timing worked out in her favor and things were coming together smoothly except one very important component was missing – the full security deposit. She would not have been able to move forward without it. With only a few days to find additional support, she reached out to Rahab’s Hope in a panic, fearful that she would not be able to come up with the remaining security deposit that she desperately needed to prevent homelessness. Rahab’s Hope was able to process her application within three days and hand deliver a $425 payment to her landlord to expedite the process. Katie was now ready to move into her newly renovated apartment.

Rahab’s Hope was instrumental in connecting her with HopeWorx who provided free furniture, a truck and two movers for a small fee. We also pitched in by helping Katie transport her household items to the new home and shared a list of community resources such as financial literacy training, toiletries, and utility support programs. After 6 months, we followed-up with Katie and she reported that she had remained in her home and even started a cleaning company called Leamy Clean. Nine months later (March 2023), she shared plans of enrolling back into college and is looking into new employment opportunities.

“I am enrolling in the fall at Temple University for Psychology with a Minor in Neuroscience. My goal is to build a career in mental health. My mission is to learn how to give tools to survivors of trauma so they can reclaim their lives and realize their dreams and purpose.”

We are ecstatic about Katie’s success!

Outreach

Speaking at King of Prussia Church of Christ

On March 26th, Rahab’s Hope was invited to discuss our program services and community impact with the congregation at King of Prussia Church of Christ. We are thankful for the warm welcome, their readiness to serve the community and the congregants that have decided to support us as donors and volunteers.
