Media coverage & annual plan

From the desk of secretary...

I am delighted to present Annual Report of Jharkhand Mahila Uthana of year 2024-25. This year, we focused on the holistic development of our target community. While our programs catered to individuals of all ages, our primary focus remained on children, adolescent girls, women, and marginalized groups.

Our efforts were directed toward addressing critical issues such as preventing domestic violence, combating atrocities, tackling gender inequality, curbing child abuse, and eradicating child marriages. We also worked tirelessly to foster leadership, empower communities, enhance livelihoods, and ensure the safety and protection of our target groups. One of the significant highlights of this year's work was our commitment to eliminating child labour in our society..

We prioritized educating women and adolescent girls about various government programs and initiatives, encouraging development, empowerment, leadership, and informed decision-making. Through regular interactions and meetings with beneficiaries, we aimed to strengthen the capabilities of adolescent girls and women.

On the livelihood front, we utilized local resources, particularly forest products, to promote sustainable income generation. Protecting forests and conserving the environment remained integral to our mission.

None of this would have been possible without the generous support of our donors, individual contributors, and compassionate friends who believed in our work. We extend our heartfelt gratitude to them. I would also like to thank our cooperative board members, dedicated staff, and community leaders for their unwavering support and guidance, which has been instrumental in helping us pursue our vision and mission.

Neelam Besra ,Secretary
Jharkhand Mahila Uthana

I feel proud that in the year 2024-25, Jharkhand Mahila Uthana Sanstha worked strongly at the village level for the rights of women, girls, and poor families. The organization did important work on issues like child marriage, domestic violence, child labour, and inequality between men and women. It also helped women take part in Panchayat and Gram Sabha meetings, become leaders, and earn a better living.

I thank all the donors, team members, and community people who supported this journey.

Fulkumari Tigga , President
Jharkhand Mahila Uthana

WHO WE ARE

Jharkhand Mahila Uthan was established on 24th June 2002 by a group of like-minded individuals. The organization's main office is located in the remote village of Lara, Churchu, in Hazaribagh, Jharkhand. Jharkhand Mahila Uthan has consistently worked towards achieving its goals and objectives, turning the aspirations of marginalized communities into tangible realities and accomplishments.

Our approach and management style have always been characterized by effective leadership, innovation, and participation. Over the years, the organization has grown not only in size but also in its capacity to handle a wide range of activities. Since its inception, Jharkhand Mahila Uthan has focused on empowering tribal communities, women, adolescents, self-help groups (SHGs), selected community leaders, elected women representatives, Dalit, and backward communities. The organization's key thematic areas of intervention include leadership development, education, health, and livelihood promotion.

Jharkhand Mahila Uthan operates through a convergence model, fostering linkages among services and interventions to leverage the strengths of key stakeholders. This approach ensures effective target achievement and the long-term sustainability of its activities.

Vision

The organization wants to create such a society where an exploitation-free, egalitarian society is established and people can live a just and dignified life

Mission

To empower marginalized communities for their all-round development, to preserve their identity and cultural values and to access their rights.

OUR PROGRAM

"Child Marriage Prevention Program"

A child marriage and forced marriage prevention program is being carried out with 500 adolescent girls across 21 revenue villages of 4 panchayats in Churchu block of Hazaribagh district. Under this campaign, regular weekly, fortnightly, and monthly meetings are organized with the adolescent girls. Additionally, meetings are held with parents and other family members to deeply explain the harmful effects of child marriage. Through this process, leadership skills are being developed among the girls. They are beginning to understand their rights, advocate within their families and communities, and take on decision-making roles. Many girls are now associated with the organization as volunteers and are receiving training through external platforms. Through football competitions, these adolescent girls are raising their voices against conservative, patriarchal mindsets, gender-based violence, and discrimination, and are spreading awareness on these issues within their peer groups.

Football Tournament with Adolescent Girls

A football tournament was organized with adolescent girls, not merely as a sports competition, but as a means to promote their holistic development, boost self-confidence, and nurture leadership skills. This event also aimed to challenge the deep-rooted conservative mindset in society that believes girls cannot play football.

Through this tournament, a strong message was conveyed — that girls can not only participate in sports like football but also excel and bring pride to their communities. Adolescent girls from various villages in the region formed teams and actively participated, showcasing outstanding performances and clearly demonstrating to society that daughters are not behind in any field.

One-Day Training with Religious Leaders on Child Marriage Prevention

On January 30, 2025, a one-day training program on child marriage prevention was organized at Konar Village Extension, Lara, Hazaribagh, with the participation of 30 religious leaders from various communities (including Pandits, Maulvis, Fathers, Pahans, Manjhi Hadams, and Aguwas). The program began with a lamp-lighting ceremony and a warm welcome to the participants.

Neelam Besra, Secretary of the organization, introduced the institution's work and highlighted the seriousness of the issue of child marriage. Trainer Naresh Manjhi explained the definition of child marriage, its causes, harmful consequences, and relevant laws. He emphasized that, according to Indian law, the marriage of a girl under 18 and a boy under 21 is illegal and a punishable offense. The religious leaders actively shared their experiences and expressed their commitment to spreading awareness through religious platforms. They also discussed strategies to convey anti-child marriage messages through places of worship, schools, and community meetings, and to promote the use of Childline 1098.

The training aimed not only to inform but to inspire collective action for social change. At the conclusion, all participants pledged to work together to prevent child marriage in their communities.

Nukkad Natak Campaign under Child Marriage Prevention Awareness program

Under its Child Marriage Prevention Awareness Campaign, Jharkhand Mahila Uthan organized street plays in 15 selected villages. These plays were performed by adolescent girls' groups who had received prior training on the subject.

Each play was conducted in open public spaces such as village squares, panchayat buildings, school premises, and weekly markets, attracting large gatherings of villagers. The central themes of the campaign included the harms of child marriage—such as early pregnancy, health complications, disruption in education, domestic violence, and legal consequences. Through the performances, messages were conveyed about how girls can become self-reliant through education and how marrying at the right age can lead to a better life.

The impact of the campaign was visible: the local communities became more aware of the negative consequences of child marriage, and the adolescent girls demonstrated confidence and leadership. In many places, the plays sparked conversations among villagers about the need to stop child marriage. This clearly showed that art and dialogue can be powerful tools for initiating meaningful social change.

Training on Sexual and Reproductive Health and Rights (SRHR) with Adolescent Girls

On 28th September 2024, a one-day training program on Sexual and Reproductive Health and Rights (SRHR) was organized at Konar Village, Dumur, with the participation of 65 adolescent girls.

The objective of the training was to raise awareness among adolescent girls about their bodies, health, sexuality, and reproductive rights. The training covered important topics such as menstrual hygiene, bodily autonomy, the risks of early pregnancy, information about sexually transmitted infections (STIs), the importance of consent, and the right to make informed decisions. The training was conducted in a participatory manner, using open discussions, games, group activities, and visual materials to ensure that the girls could engage comfortably and express themselves freely. The environment was designed to be safe and supportive, allowing the girls to ask questions without hesitation and share their experiences openly. This training played a vital role in boosting the confidence of adolescent girls, enhancing their understanding of SRHR, and empowering them to make informed decisions about their health and well-being.

Training with Adolescent Boys under the Child Marriage Prevention Program

On 12 April and 15 May, 2019 & 21 November 2024, two training sessions were conducted with a total of 178 adolescent boys under the Child Marriage Prevention Program. The aim of this training was to make boys aware of the harms of child marriage, related laws, and the issue of gender discrimination in society.

During the sessions, topics like the Prohibition of Child Marriage Act 2006, gender discrimination, traditional ideas of masculinity, the concept of equality, and consent' were discussed. These topics were explored through open conversations, games, and case studies so that the boys could easily understand and participate freely.

The boys shared that topics like child marriage are usually not discussed openly. But through this training, they got a chance to express themselves and learn. Many of them said they now realize that marrying at an early age not only affects their lives but also puts the burden of responsibilities on them too soon.

Meeting with Stakeholders

On 8th June and 21st December 2024, a special meeting and training session on child marriage prevention was organized in three panchayats of Churchu block. Key grassroots stakeholders such as panchayat representatives, Sahiyas, Sevikas, and teachers participated in the training.

The purpose of this training was to ensure that all local-level actors become well-informed and sensitive about the harms of child marriage, the laws related to it (such as the Prohibition of Child Marriage Act, 2006), and effective prevention strategies.

The training was made interactive and engaging through discussions, group work, role plays, and real-life examples. Participants shared their experiences and highlighted the family, social, and economic reasons behind child marriages still taking place in their villages.

Everyone agreed that they would not stay silent on this issue and would intervene in time to prevent such cases.

Sahiyas and Sevikas mentioned that they are already working on adolescent girls' health and nutrition, and will now include child marriage prevention in their efforts.

This meeting not only spread awareness but also sent a strong message — that panchayat representatives, teachers, and community workers can come together to prevent child marriage and bring positive change in the villages.

16-Day Campaign – 2024

From 25th November to 10th December 2024, Jharkhand Mahila Utthan Sanstha organized awareness programs in various villages of Churchu block under the 16 Days of Activism campaign. The objective of this campaign was to bring attention to issues such as gender discrimination, violence, child marriage, and to amplify the voices of marginalized communities.

25th November 2024 – Village Lothe:

An awareness meeting was conducted with adolescent girls and women in village Lothe. The participants included widows, single women, women with disabilities, ward members, Anganwadi workers, and ASHAs. The discussion focused on the objectives of the campaign, gender-based violence, discrimination, and child marriage. Former child brides and adolescent girls were encouraged to participate in a football tournament to build their confidence and challenge gender inequalities in society.

26th November 2024 – Village Jamdiha:

A similar awareness meeting was held in village Jamdiha, attended by adolescent girls, women, widows, single women, women with disabilities, Anganwadi workers, ASHAs, and ward members. Discussions centered around child marriage, violence, and gender discrimination. Football was presented as a symbolic and powerful tool to challenge societal norms and inequalities.

29th November 2024 – Press Conference (Lara):

A press conference was organized at the organization's campus in village Lara with journalists from Hazaribagh district and Churchu block. The event focused on sharing the objectives of the 16 Days of Activism campaign, highlighting how women around the world organize workshops, rallies, seminars, and protests during this period to raise their demands. The organization shared its commitment to bringing the voices of women with disabilities, widows, single women, adolescent girls, and former child brides to policymakers by involving them directly in this campaign.

5th December 2024 – District-Level Workshop (Jan Vikas Kendra, Hazaribagh):

A workshop was organized to bring forward the voices of former child brides and marginalized communities. The need for a feminist perspective in community discussions was emphasized. This platform enabled women to share their personal experiences and speak about their rights and challenges.

10th December 2024 – Block-Level Football Tournament:

The campaign concluded with a block-level football tournament organized for former child brides in Churchu block. The aim of the tournament was to challenge gender-based violence, discrimination, and inequality through the medium of sport. Six teams of former child brides from different villages of Churchu block participated. The top three teams were awarded and recognized for their participation. The event symbolized the message that every girl and woman deserves equal rights in all spheres of life.

To strengthen local self-governance and connect marginalized families with government schemes.

Under the "Strengthening Local Self-Governance and Connecting Marginalized Families with Government Schemes" program implemented by Jharkhand Mahila Utthan Sanstha, active work is being carried out in eight villages across two panchayats of Churchu block, Hazaribagh district. In each village, a Citizen Forum of 50 women has been formed, and 5 women leaders have been selected from each forum, making a total of 50 active women leaders working at the panchayat level. Through these forums, women are spreading awareness about various government schemes (such as MGNREGA, pensions, PDS, Ayushman Bharat, etc.) and helping marginalized families access these benefits. The leaders assist community members with filling out forms, preparing documents, and monitoring the implementation of schemes. They also play an active role in incorporating proposals from Gram Sabhas, Mahila Sabhas, and Bal Sabhas into the Gram Panchayat Development Plan (GPDP). In addition, the women leaders have received training on fundamental rights, women's safety laws, the Panchayati Raj system, and leadership development. These leaders are now serving as a strong link between the panchayat and the community, playing a crucial role in driving meaningful grassroots change.

Women's Leadership and Rights-Based Training Program

Under the initiative of Jharkhand Mahila Uthan Sanstha, a three-phase Leadership Development and Rights-Based Training Program was organized for women leaders and elected women representatives from eight villages of Bahera and Chanaro panchayats. The training sessions were conducted on 16th December 2024 at Charhi Vivah Bhavan, 28th January 2025 at Chanaro Panchayat Bhavan, and the final phase in February 2025. Over 70 women participated in total, including Citizen Forum leaders from each village and elected representatives at the panchayat level.

The objective of this training was to equip women with a comprehensive understanding of local self-governance, leadership skills, government schemes, fundamental rights, and women's safety laws—enabling them to gain better access to entitlements and become empowered and self-reliant decision-makers.

One-Day Training for Panchayat Representatives and Stakeholders

On 29th March 2025, a one-day training program was organized in two batches at the Panchayat Bhavan in Bahera and Chanaro, with participation from a total of 45 panchayat representatives and local stakeholders. The primary objective of the training was to develop a comprehensive understanding of the Gram Panchayat Development Plan (GPDP) process, identify existing challenges, and strengthen the roles of panchayat representatives.

During the training sessions, discussions were held on the status of integrating proposals received from Gram Sabha, the final GPDP. Participants shared that although plans are often finalized at the panchayat level, implementation is sometimes hindered due to delays in uploading them on the e-Gram Swaraj portal. Key issues identified included lack of technical knowledge, difficulty in operating the portal, and poor inter-departmental communication.

Through group discussions, it emerged that if panchayat representatives actively participate, follow up in a timely manner, and monitor plan execution, the GPDP can be made more effective at the grassroots level. It was also resolved that by organizing Gram Sabhas in a structured manner, prioritizing the proposed schemes, and ensuring their timely upload to the portal, the overall quality of panchayat-level development work can be significantly improved.

MGNREGA, Social Security Schemes, and Participatory Gram Panchayat Development Planning Campaign

In the eight selected villages of the project area, Gram Sabhas, Mahila Sabhas, and Bal Sabhas were organized to strengthen and make the implementation of MGNREGA, social security schemes, and the Gram Panchayat Development Plan (GPDP) more inclusive and participatory. The primary objective of these meetings was to listen to the grassroots needs, suggestions, and issues of the villages and incorporate them into the Panchayat's development planning. These meetings witnessed the active participation of Panchayat Mukhiyas, Ward Members, Citizen Forum leaders, women, adolescents, and other local community members in large numbers.

In the Gram Sabha, Citizen Forum leaders and Panchayat representatives raised issues related to MGNREGA, pensions, housing, water supply, and other essential services.

In the Mahila Sabha, women brought up concerns such as domestic violence, lack of health services, nutrition, absence of toilets, and lack of access to information about schemes.

In the Bal Sabha, children and adolescents discussed school dropouts, quality of education, lack of sports facilities, absence of toilets, and child marriage.

In each meeting, a collective list of the village's key problems and needs was prepared. These insights were incorporated into the Panchayat's GPDP document, making the planning process more grounded, participatory, and equitable.

Key Achievements

- Successfully established 8 Citizen Forums across 8 villages, involving 400 women as active members.
- Conducted social, resource, and exclusion mapping in all 8 villages through community-led participatory activities, enabling a clear understanding of each village's current situation.
- Provided leadership and capacity-building training to 40 Citizen Forum leaders on topics such as leadership development and key government schemes including MGNREGA, Public Distribution System (PDS), and Social Security Schemes.
- Under the Gram Panchayat Development Plan (GPDP) process, Mahila Sabhas, Bal Sabhas, and Gram Sabhas were organized in all 8 villages with the support of the Panchayat, resulting in up to 50% increased participation of women and children in the Gram Sabha meetings.
- Established coordination with Panchayat representatives to ensure the inclusion of Citizen Forum members in the GPDP planning process, enabling them to raise and address village-level issues directly.
- Surveyed the status of social security schemes in over 1,500 households across 8 villages to assess coverage and gaps.
- Facilitated access to government schemes for over 260 families by providing them with accurate information on MGNREGA, PDS, pensions, and other social security entitlements.
- Linked 5 eligible beneficiaries to well construction schemes under MGNREGA, ensuring tangible support for rural livelihoods.

International Women's Day

On March 10, 2025, on the occasion of International Women's Day, a sports competition for women was organized at Lara Sports Ground, Churchu under the banner of Jharkhand Mahila Utthan Sanstha. The event began with the ceremonial lighting of the lamp by the Zilla Parishad member, Block Head, organization secretary, and other panchayat representatives.

A women's football tournament was held during the event, in which teams from Laute, Chanaro, Gobardaha, and Fusri participated. Fusri emerged as the winner, while Chanaro secured the runner-up position. In addition to football, exciting competitions such as the 100-meter race, balloon burst race, and musical chair race were also conducted. Women participated with great enthusiasm and thoroughly enjoyed the activities.

Winners were awarded and honored with prizes. This event proved to be a meaningful initiative to encourage women's confidence, participation, and empowerment.

National Girl Child Day

On January 23, 2025, under the banner of Jharkhand Mahila Utthan Sanstha, a special program was organized at Extension Village, Dumur to celebrate National Girl Child Day. The adolescent girls from the village participated in the event with great enthusiasm. The day began with an interactive discussion on the rights of girls and the significance of National Girl Child Day. Following this, various sports competitions were conducted, including races, musical chairs, and other group activities. These games helped the girls build confidence, teamwork, and physical fitness.

A theme-based drawing competition was also held, where the girls creatively expressed their thoughts on important issues such as child marriage, education, gender equality, and child rights through their artwork. The objective of the program was to raise awareness among adolescent girls about their rights, provide a platform to showcase their talents, and encourage self-confidence and leadership. The event created a positive and inspiring environment where the girls freely shared their thoughts and emotions.

Ambedkar Jayanti Celebrated with Rural Women and Girls

On the occasion of Dr. Bhimrao Ambedkar's birth anniversary, awareness programs were organized by Jharkhand Mahila Uthan Sanstha in four villages of Churchu block with women and adolescent girls. The program began with offering floral tribute to Dr. Ambedkar's photo.

The organization's team members and participants were informed about Dr. Ambedkar's life, his struggles, and his important role in the making of the Indian Constitution. It was shared that Babasaheb fought against untouchability, discrimination, and inequality, and strengthened the values of equality, education, and justice in society.

All participants took a pledge to follow Dr. Ambedkar's thoughts and work for social justice and equality. This initiative by the organization has been a significant step towards connecting the rural community, especially women, with constitutional rights and values.

Income generation Program

Under the income generation program, a special training session was organized in village Lara to promote livelihood empowerment and poultry farming among women. The main objective of the training was to make rural women self-reliant through small-scale poultry farming. During the program, experts provided detailed information on various aspects of poultry farming such as feeding methods, proper nutrition, disease identification, regular vaccination, and the construction and maintenance of clean and safe poultry shelters. Additionally, discussions were held on market linkages, pricing for eggs and chickens, and establishing connections with local businesses.

At the end of the training, 100 selected women were provided with 4 hens and roosters each to help them start poultry farming on a small scale. This initiative is expected to support them in taking their first step toward self-employment. The enthusiastic participation and interest shown by the women clearly indicate the need and effectiveness of such livelihood-based programs in rural areas.

Climate Change

Under the Climate Change Program, awareness meetings were organized in 20 villages under the jurisdiction of Churchu Block, facilitated by Jharkhand Mahila Utthan Sanstha. The objective of these meetings was to raise awareness among rural communities—especially men, women, and farming families—about the causes, impacts, and possible solutions related to climate change. During the sessions, participants were informed about how human activities such as setting forest fires, deforestation, excessive pollution, and changes in traditional farming methods are contributing to irregular climate patterns, increased temperatures, disrupted rainfall cycles, and growing water scarcity.

The meetings included group discussions with local villagers, poster exhibitions, and video presentations to explore local strategies for combating climate change. Topics such as tree plantation, rainwater harvesting, organic farming, and forest conservation were thoroughly discussed. Women also shared their personal experiences on how changing weather patterns have affected agriculture and their livelihoods. These awareness meetings played a vital role in fostering environmental consciousness within the community and motivated people to take proactive steps at the local level. The organization remains committed to strengthening rural participation on climate change issues through continued efforts and similar programs in the future.
