

JARON BRANDON

For CA State Senate District 4

Senate District 4 is my home, and I've watched our Valley and rural communities change over the years. I've seen working families struggle daily: the teacher who can't afford to live where she works, the young couple saving years for a down payment, and the small business owner worried about downtown crime. These aren't abstract policy issues to me – they're real challenges facing people I grew up with, and they deserve someone who will fight for practical solutions, not political talking points.

Safe communities are the foundation of everything we're building together. I believe we can support law enforcement while investing in crime prevention – youth mentorship, mental health services, and community partnerships. I've volunteered with local youth programs for years and seen how positive outlets and strong role models change trajectories.

The housing crisis is squeezing families at every income level and threatening our community's character. We need representatives who will tackle this head-on, working with developers, planning commissions, and community groups to create affordable housing without sacrificing quality of life. This means supporting first-time homebuyer programs and ensuring essential workers like teachers and firefighters can afford to live where they serve.

Most importantly, our community deserves common-sense leadership that puts people before politics. I've brought different groups together to solve problems – working on campaigns for candidates from both parties, helping businesses navigate regulations and working on critical issues like fire insurance.

In the legislature, I'll listen first, find common ground, and always ask how policies affect real

- Jaron Brandon

A Democrat Who's Already Won in Deep Red California

Jaron's home Supervisorial District in Tuolumne County is nearly two to one Republican. Jaron has won this district twice – including with 59.4 percent in 2020 where he defeated the two-term Republican incumbent by nearly 20 points in a head to head match up. Jaron was safely reelected in 2024 without a runoff, taking 57.5 percent of the vote in the March Primary.

Jaron won these races with a commitment to bread and butter issues in his rural community. Jaron is committed to representing the families and businesses of his District as they call for lower costs, more housing, better roads and important reforms to fire insurance.

About Jaron Brandon

Born and raised in the Sierra foothills, Jaron Brandon grew up working alongside his dad in their small family business, learning early what it means to serve your community, do what you love, and earn your place with hard work. That foothill grit and hometown pride continue to shape his vision for a better future for all.

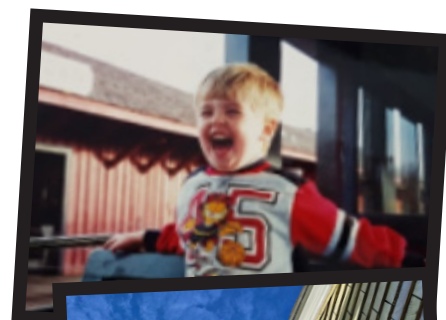

Jaron's commitment to public service began young; organizing, advocating, and eventually earning a degree from UC Merced, the first in his family to receive a 4-year degree. He was an elected student leader fighting tuition hikes, a proud College Democrats organizer, and interned in offices for both Democrats and Republicans.

At just 27, Jaron ran against a two-term Republican incumbent for Tuolumne County Supervisor, and won by 20 points to become the youngest sitting County Supervisor in California.

In office, he's led with "steel-toed" leadership: no-nonsense, hands-on, and rooted in the values of working people. From roads to public safety, housing and homelessness, wildfire and opioid addiction, he's never been afraid to take on the most difficult issues for his community and produce results.

Now, he's running for State Senate because our district deserves a leader who puts people before politics and progress before party lines. A leader with innovative solutions and integrity to do what he says. Jaron is focused on what really matters: stewarding our natural water and forest resources, expanding jobs and housing for working class people, investing in rural healthcare, protecting and celebrating our agricultural heritage, aggressively protecting our public safety, and reducing the risk, and cost, of wildfires and fire insurance.

Jaron knows California can lead the world and take care of its own, and he's ready to prove it.
