Profile

Creative producer and litigation support recruiter with 10+ years delivering marketing and content across entertainment and brand sectors. Rigorous expert sourcing and vetting for patent litigation with project management combined with hands on creative direction in photography and video. Published and commissioned by recognized outlets and brands.

In addition to my technical skills as a creative producer, I have access to a vast network of professionals that I have built over the years via project management. This network lends itself to projects such as event planning, content creation for social media and publications, film production and much more.

Employment History
