Tim Cartmell Lives in a Glass House—Voters, Don't Buy His Blame Game!

EDMONTON, AB – Tony Caterina, Edmonton's only fiscally responsible candidate for mayor on October 20, 2025, blasts Tim Cartmell's 10 PM Monday night video—a 1:47 blame game where he trashes every other councillor for the last four years of bad leadership and Edmonton's current mess. Link: <https://tinyurl.com/TimsGlassHouse>

Hello, Tim! You were part of the last 4-years of high tax increases and big spending without any aggressive videos or press stunts against what was happening. In fact, out of 12 BIG spending decisions the last four years—annual tax hikes and capital expenditure budgets—you voted YES 11 times and NO once. That one NO? It came in December, last minute before the final tax increase was passed, but you still said YES to the 4-year, $3.8 billion capital expenditure budget.

Yes, we get it—you were busy raising a record $458+ in just 60 days to close out 2024 for your "Better Edmonton" tough-on-spending, fire-them-all 2025 campaign. (Disclosure Attached)

During your silence on criticism the last 4-years, you voted 88.7% the same as Mayor Sohi, according to a Postmedia story. Link: <https://tinyurl.com/887SameVotes>.

Now it's all "their" fault? Very interesting.

Tim, quoting from your late Monday night video: "You know what you gotta do on Oct. 20th. You gotta vote for someone else. You know the person you don't want."

Surprise Tim, I agree with you 100%!

Voters "gotta" vote for someone else on October 20, 2025. They know the person—or people—they don't want. And that INCLUDES YOU, sir and current sitting councillor Andrew Knack too!

Voters, it's clear: "Better NOT Edmonton," or you'll keep getting the same old year-round overspending with high tax hikes every spring. Our long-term debt? That is a whopping $5.7 billion—that's roughly $5,700 for every Edmontonian, not just taxpayers. And that shocking number keeps growing. Council's ignoring the capital project overruns heading to City Hall in the next 12 months—a very important subject no one's talking about.

Tim, as a professional engineer, you know your glass house won't hold up to your blame game. Sitting councillors and the mayor are not just going to sit back in silence. Are they? Councillor Cartmell already looked bad last week; now he's attacking all his colleagues on council for the mess. What do they have to say in response?

As mayor, I would motion to kill Bylaw 20001, slash waste, and fix what's broken—unlike these two current sitting councillors running for mayor.

I AM NOT THE OTHER GUYS—vote Tony Caterina for mayor!

I'm NOT the Other Guys!
