To know thyself is the beginning of wisdom

SOCRATIC CONSULTANCY

The Socratic difference

Socratic Coaching is used either as an independent approach or in the form of partial interventions in the context of established coaching techniques. It complements the more psychologically-shaped techniques and adds a practical-philosophical foundation to them. This kind of coaching and consulting is being established primarily in 'learning' organizations and enterprises to develop long-term and long-running orientation of action.

Socratic Consultancy defined

Mission - Socratic Consultancy provides business intelligence based solutions with a Socratic Method framework targeted to define, narrate, and convey meaning for its clients.

Vision - Socratic Consultancy will be the most trusted independent consulting agency in the marketplace.

Values - Belief. Goodwill. Trust.

Problems to solve

1

Not being self-aware... are you aware of your strengths, weaknesses, culture and your purpose as an organization? Know your why...

Static in the firm's development with little to no agility in the market... are you not hitting your growth goals? Navigate within your meaning...

3

Absence of a clearly defined identity as a firm and not knowing your place in the market... are you confused about how best to sell your product or service? Develop your narrative...

No long-term vision... are you struggling with finding a way to stake your place in the market sustainably for the long-term? Build a sustainable future...

MaaS (Meaning-as-a-Service) Consulting offers a holistic solution

The Socratic approach to questioning is based on the practice of disciplined, thoughtful dialogue. Socrates, the early Greek philosopher/teacher, believed that disciplined practice of thoughtful questioning enabled the student to examine ideas logically and to determine the validity of those ideas. In this technique, the teacher professes ignorance of the topic in order to engage in dialogue with the students. With this “acting dumb,” the student develops the fullest possible knowledge about the topic. In being open to new thoughts, one gains the highest likelihood of success - similar to the thought that one who casts a wider net has better chance to catch a fish than one with a single rod.

Know thyself

01

This goes glove-in-glove with knowing your “why.” What is your purpose as an organization? What do you want to accomplish in the marketplace?

Client Implications:

In knowing thyself, once accomplished, allows for increased agility in the market because you will now have more time to spend in leveraging your resources more efficiently. The amount of time wasted on getting a firm on the same page is a disability and not a competitive advantage.

Meaning metrics

Socratic dialogue and project management only at the first approximation are incomparable concepts. An analysis of their relationship is conducted in a broad sense - as a matter of integrating philosophical practice into management. Philosophical dialogue and project management are compatible concepts, the intersection of which established the focus on problem solving. With this in mind, the Socratic dialogue is defined as the kind of philosophical consulting used in the organization to advance management and leadership development. Socratic dialogue has fundamental opportunities in promoting the critical and creative potential of the group's members into competent leaders.

Meaning gives you a competitive advantage

5%

83% of organizations say it is important to develop leaders at all levels, but only 5% have fully implemented development at all levels.

Foster an open culture of self-accountable leaders

36%

36% of organizations say their leadership development practices are still below average or poor.

Know thy future by defining thy present and past

71%

More money is spent on leadership development than any other area of corporate training, yet 71% of organizations do not feel their leaders are able to lead their organization into the future.

Client Implications:

A central illustration of a man with brown hair, a beard, and red-rimmed glasses, wearing a dark blue suit and a yellow tie. He is sitting in a meditative lotus position with his legs crossed. He has eight arms, each holding a different icon representing various business and technology concepts. The icons include: a magnifying glass over a bar chart, a document with a red ribbon, a lightbulb, a calendar, a person icon, a clock, an envelope, a gear, a code symbol (), a wrench, a paintbrush, and a pen. The background is a solid blue color.

Narrate effectively

03

Define your firm's narrative - this is formulated after defining your "why" and resources. Conceive your narrative, express your story effectively enough through media so that there is as little chance of disintegration of the message as possible before the receiver accepts a perceived parallel record of your narrative.

Client Implications:

Just like NASA or SpaceX sets up Thermal Protection Systems as a barrier that protects a spacecraft during the searing heat of atmospheric reentry - ensuring that your message is received in a relatable way from the target audience is a matter of dire success or failure.

Be sustainable

04

Align your goals with SDGs to ensure longevity in the marketplace. Study the movements of world leaders and strategically position your team for long-term success in the marketplace.

Client Implications:

If this is the way the world is heading, especially in such a tight-knit global economy, then it is best to be an early mover and lead the movement for a better and more sustainable world!

SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT GOALS

Leadership

Inspired by his late mentor, Dr. G.L. Forward, a Professor of Managerial and Organizational Communication at Point Loma Nazarene University and a Management Consultant - Ian developed a passion for helping people through consultation. As Dr. Forward used to say, "The best leaders make leaders of those around them." Keeping this spirit of thought alive, albeit close to a decade later - Ian decided to launch Socratic Consultancy.

With nearly a decade of leadership experience in the real estate, financial services, education, public sector, and blockchain verticals, close to a decade experience of selling to Fortune 500 firms, and a Master of Science in Management from Minot State University - Ian is excited to help Socratic Consultancy partner-clients define meaning in their businesses and to assist them in finding their "why."
