About Us

PackMax India Packaging Solutions, as a official entity, was registered in 2018 as a partnership firm by Ms. Janhavi Joglekar.

The idea behind forming PackMax India Packaging Solutions was to provide excellent quality, environmentally suitable & sustainable, customized packaging products for virtually all types of industries. Also, vision was to devise the packaging rates / offerings which can be easily affordable for startups / MSMEs even after maintaining good quality of the offered packaging products.

Earlier, Ms. Janhavi Joglekar handled the family firm (PrintWell Arts) since 2016. She got a handover of PrintWell Arts from her uncle (Mr. Namjoshi) who was diagnosed with cancer. PrintWell Arts was founded and run by her uncle since 1985, and Janhavi took her basic industry training from her uncle after she took the handover from him.

From this point, Janhavi never looked back and through her emmense efforts and selfless dedication towards achieving her targetted goals, she has year on year achieved the planned milestones. This year she is near to achieve the difficult target of making PackMax India Packaging Solutions a bank-debt free company in such a less amount of time.

Janhavi is an Msc (Physics) graduate with distinction with a few years of experience in the Software Development field and also has an experience in resource management domain before she got into the packaging field. During her college days itself she had decided that at some point of time in her career, she would be a successful women entrepreneur, for which she was whole heartedly supported by her family also.

Initially, she faced a lot of troubles and faced some losses as well, but she fought the difficult situations with an iron heart. She does not hesitate to accept and acknowledge that some of her initial decisions in the business went horribly wrong, but she laughs off and says "its all part of the game !"

She also says that the losses and the wrong decisions infact made her learn about successful business strategies the hard way and she is thankful to such situations for that !

Anyway that is the reason why today Janhavi is most confident about the best quality of products / services that PackMax India Packaging Solutions offers its esteemed customers !
