DAY 7 - DEPARTURE

EDINBURGH

Scotland's capital city of Edinburgh is one of the most popular tourist destinations in Europe and visited by millions of people every year. Home to many of Scotland's best museums, and famous historical sights.

Learn about the history of the Scottish Royal Family with tours of Edinburgh Castle, built nearly 1000 years ago, and the Royal Mile, a medieval street which was previously the bode of Scottish nobility and now an attractive luxury shopping destination. Edinburgh is also home to some of the world's best private whisky collections open for tastings.

Edinburgh has a wonderful selection of 5-star hotels boasting traditional Scottish hospitality, and luxury rooms. From the opulence of the Waldorf or Balmoral to the incredible spa of the Sheraton. It has something to offer everyone.

INVERNESS

Inverness is a romantic and quaint city transporting you back in time. Must see attractions include Inverness Castle, the city's beautiful River Ness, and Scotland's largest bookshop - Leakey's - which inspired Harry Potter author J.K Rowling's vision of Hogwarts' Library.

Beyond the city, Inverness is the perfect base to explore the Highlands. The region is home to much of Scotland's world famous scenery which has inspired countless books and movies for generations. Visit the legendary Loch Ness and many more locations. With incredible coastlines, wild expanses, rugged mountains, secluded islands, rushing rivers, and rich woodlands, the Highlands will take your breath away.

With 47 distilleries spread across the region, the Highlands is Scotland's largest whisky producing area. In addition, stunning hikes, ice climbing, skiing, snowboarding, kayaking, camping and more - mean that there is something for everyone to enjoy in the north of Scotland.

SKYE

The Isle of Skye is one of the most stunning places on Earth. With sweeping views of mountainous landscapes, windswept moors, dramatic coastlines, ancient ruins, quaint villages, friendly locals, unpredictable weather and more sheep than people, the island is a world of its own that hasn't changed much in the last several hundred years.

Skye is home to majestic geological features, such as the Old Man of Storr, the Quiraing (pictured) with its incredible rock formations, and the Cuillin which hosts the world famous fairy pools. Skye's varied habitats also mean you'll have a chance to see amazing animals such as otters, dolphins, golden eagles, white-tailed sea eagles and puffins on a Scottish wildlife tour.

Skye is a truly magical place. The largest of the Inner Hebrides, the island has countless ways to enchant you, with its mountain ranges, miles of dramatic coastline and captivating history. The only hard part is fitting everything into one trip!

GLENCOE

No description can re-create the impact of seeing Glencoe for the first time. It has long been one of the most loved and historic places in Scotland.

It's known equally for its awe-inspiring views and sorrowful past – it is a place of history, wildlife, adventure and myth. The mountains were formed through violent volcanic eruptions, and then sculpted by massive glaciers.

Glencoe was the site of the infamous government-sanctioned killing of members of the MacDonald clan by the British Army, on 13 February 1692. One of the precursors to the beginning of the Jacobite rebellion.

In addition to its stunning beauty, Glencoe hosts several museums for tourists. The Visitor Centre has a film narrated by Game of Thrones actor Rory McCann telling the story of the massacre, while the Folk Museum has interactive displays recreating the ancient Highlanders' way of life before modernisation swept through the region.

GLASGOW

Glasgow is the largest city in Scotland situated on the River Clyde, it is home to a large amount of Scotland's cultural and historical treasures.

The West End of Glasgow in particular is a cultural haven home to the Gallery of Modern Art (GoMa), The Hunterian, Kelvingrove Art Gallery, the Glasgow School of Art - widely considered to be one of the leading art institutions in Europe - and the Museum of Scottish Judaism. Glasgow also hosts the family friendly Museum of Science, and Museum of Transport.

Glasgow has much more to discover, with one of the biggest and most bustling nightlife scenes in Britain. Glasgow is also the economic capital of Scotland and is a global sporting capital with world renowned football teams Celtic and Rangers based in the city, alongside the national football stadium. In the evening visitors can find a wealth of comedy shows, live music, and other events to suit every taste.
