AREA OVERVIEW

MORENO VALLEY

Moreno Valley is a city in Riverside County, California, United States, and is part of the Riverside–San Bernardino–Ontario metropolitan area. It is the second-largest city in Riverside County by population and one of the Inland Empire's population centers. Moreno Valley is also part of the greater Los Angeles area in Riverside County (Inland Empire), positioned between Los Angeles, San Diego, and major desert/Arizona routes—making it a strong logistics and residential hub

Moreno Valley is approximately 65 mile from Los Angeles, 85 miles from San Diego, 40 miles from Anaheim and 10-15 miles from Riverside

According to the United States Census Bureau, the city has a total area of 51.5 square miles, of which, 51.3 square miles of it is land and 0.2 square miles of it is water.

Moreno Valley is located at a geographic crossroad. To the east lies the San Gorgonio Pass and Coachella Valley; to the south are Lake Perris, Perris, and the San Jacinto Mountains; to the north are the San Bernardino Valley and San Bernardino Mountains. To the west lies neighboring Riverside. It is relatively close to Ontario International Airport.

The city derived its name from the small community of Moreno, which became part of the city of Moreno Valley when the city was incorporated in 1984. Frank E. Brown, one of the founders of the community of Moreno in 1882, declined to have the town named after him, but to honor him, the town was named Moreno, Spanish for brown.

March Air Reserve Base: In November 2008, DHL announced it was leaving the U.S. market and would shut its operation associated with March Air Field in January 2009.
