

Haley will be walking through two specific cases where internal control failures led to large frauds that cost companies hundreds of thousands of dollars. This will include internal control discussions that could have helped prevent and deter the frauds.