

Jamal Redding, CPA, MSA

Jamal Redding is a Managing Director with JC Jones Advisory Services, an Atlantix Partners Company. He has been with the firm for over a decade and heads the Atlanta office. Jamal has extensive experience in internal audit and internal controls, business process reengineering, and Sarbanes Oxley (SOX) compliance and readiness efforts. Jamal is an active Certified Public Accountant (CPA), serves on the Executive Board of the Atlanta IIA, and holds a Master of Science in Accountancy from the University of Notre Dame. Over time, Jamal has added value to his local, national, and international clients by furthering their understanding and application of the Internal Audit Standards.

Jamal began his career with the Cleveland Ohio office of Ernst & Young (EY). During his tenure within the Assurance group at EY, he performed a plethora of audit activities, and specialized in Single Audits (formerly known as A-133 audits). Prior to joining JC Jones, Jamal gained unique experience working in global internal audit for Bausch & Lomb, which afforded him the opportunity to travel the globe while serving the company's stakeholders.
