Jamie Amos is a Senior Manager in the Consulting Practice at Forvis Mazars. With more than 25 years of experience, including internal audit, fraud prevention and detection, risk management, financial management, project management, and higher education. He focuses on helping organizations thrive to reach their highest potential. Before joining Forvis Mazars, Jamie worked for the City of Atlanta for many years, including in the Internal Audit department, and currently works as a part-time professor at Georgia State University. He obtained his Bachelor of Business Administration degree from Jackson State University in Finance, his MBA from Kennesaw State University, and went on to obtain his PhD from Hampton University in Virginia in Accounting and Finance. Additionally, he obtained a certification in Creativity & Design Thinking from Stanford University. Jamie is also a Certified Fraud Examiner and a Certified Project Management Professional.