Staging works - but its the designer talent and type and quality of curated furnishings that makes the difference -that's where we come in!

nice to meet you...

J. Allan & Paradise Home Staging was founded on the life-long friendship of Chris Paradis and Josh West. Encouraged and eager to start their own entrepreneurial endeavor, the pair networked with local realtors to gain traction in their home staging business. Chris cultivated over 35 years experience in design and creative merchandising, most recently working as the Regional Visual Manager for a national furniture chain. His experience in interior design partnered well with Josh's background in operations and logistical planning. As a Manager of Strategic Projects for a big box retailer, Josh joined Chris in "staging with a story". They provide premiere services to realtors, home owners, event planners, and seasonal clients in Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

Telling a design story is what drives us. Creating that story involves understanding what kind of buyer will want your home, creating the lifestyle they desire to live within your property.

That design story resonates into great offers for our clients.

how It works

1 book a home assessment

The home assessment is where we meet and measure so that our design team can get started on your home's design story.

2 review and sign proposal

Review, sign and pay your custom proposal to get the project started and secure your staging date.

3 design planning begins

Here's where the magic happens and we pull or procure the perfect items to tell your home's design story. Planning each room's layout for install day down to every detail.

4 install day

The home is "stage ready" and our movers and designers get to work on the spaces we agreed upon

5 de-stage day

Your home is sold, so we return once all contingencies have been met to remove our furnishings.

the difference...

price point appropriate design

Your buyer has an expectation of high-level furnishings, so we shop and install furnishings your discerning buyer will aspire to and love. We use a separate product line for flips that will fit the style of the home.

high reputation

Our distinguished design style sets us apart from our competitors. We invest in new, vintage, antique and custom furniture so that we're truly able to create the lifestyle of the buyer and match the character of your home. Buyers feel more "at home" with a collected look.

design is not inexpensive

We will never be the "cheapest stager" but capturing the the right look for your property and the most discerning buyers is critical to maximizing your ROI... that's our brand.

client experience

Full transparency through every phase of the staging project, we're here for you - from the first phone call to de-stage your experience will be the best in the business.

frequently asked questions

Why do I need to have my home staged?

Even if your house sells quickly in a good market, it doesn't mean it sold for the amount it would have sold for if it had been professionally staged. Remember that staged homes sell on a conservative average for 7%+ more in a good market.

Can't buyers use their imagination and look past my decor or empty rooms?

Only a mere 10% of home buyers can actually visualize the potential of a home. This is why vacant home staging is so critical! Buyers cannot visualize size and scale so furniture gives them a frame of reference.

Why can't I stage my own home?

Our training and years of experience allow us to use the right furnishings - to create proper traffic flow, the right focal points and force the best photography angles in each room to create the illusion of more space.

Over 95% of buyers view a home online before reaching out to their agent. If they don't like what they see - they can hide the home from showing up in their search results again.

For over 3 years, I have been working with Josh, Chris and the team at J.Allen Paradise Home Staging. My clients demand the best services and J.Allen delivers. They are responsive, courteous, professional, experienced, skilled and talented. They have a warehouse filled with all of the right furnishings and complementary pieces for any home they come across. I have calculated that homes staged have sold roughly 3% to 5% higher in price with 1/3 the days on market than homes without it. J.Allen allows buyers imaginations to run wild, see the space for what it is and most importantly allows the human connection to take place. Once buyers are emotionally invested in a property, they are willing to pay what it takes to win that property.

The only homes stagers I use and refer.
