Be the Difference.

DARING AUDIENCES TO BE THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN WHAT IS AND WHAT IS POSSIBLE

LEADERSHIP – Lessons from the real world. Whether leading a flight or four F/A-18 Hornets on a tactical mission off the aircraft carrier, or an A320 filled with passengers and crew, effective “No Excuses” leadership is crucial to safety and success. Chris’ message empowers everyone to tap into their own leadership potential – regardless of their rank, position or title – inspiring them to realize the positive difference they can make.

COMMUNICATION – Miscommunication can mean disaster in aviation. Chris has spent his career teaching fighter pilots and airline captains the crucial skills of effective communication.

SAFETY – Flying on a commercial airliner today is far safer than driving, riding a bus, or just walking down the street. This phenomenal record is the result of diligent focus and intentional effort. Chris delivers transformational safety training by sharing the secret of this mindset.

TEAMWORK – Aviation requires the ability to quickly form an effective team with multiple members to complete a myriad of complex tasks. Chris shares the strategies that will enable your teams to perform at the highest level.

HUMAN FACTORS – Human failure and mistakes result in untold losses every year – financial loss, damaged reputation, loss of trust, personal injuries, even loss of life. For over forty years the aviation industry focused on the development and instruction of specific skills and methods (known as Crew Resource Management or CRM) to enhance human performance. Chris shares how these same skills can be applied to maximize team performance in any field.

The training ground

Launching off the front of the aircraft carrier – fired like a bullet into the pitch-black night. Landing on the back of the ship, the deck pitching up and down with a scant few feet of clearance between the aircraft and the blunt steel back end of the ship; hitting at over 150 mph and slamming to a stop in less than 2 seconds.

Lives are on the line. Precision is a must. Teamwork is vital. Failure is not an option.

The skills learned

There is a unique combination of mindset, leadership skills, and performance secrets – “The Human Factor” – that creates success in the exacting world of military and commercial aviation - where there is zero-tolerance for failure.

From flying off the deck of a U.S. Navy aircraft carrier in the F/A-18 Hornet to major airline Airbus A320 Captain, instructor and check airman, Chris has gained over 30 years of real-world experience on what it takes to survive and thrive at the pinnacle of the dynamic and demanding world of aviation.

The lessons shared

Chris shares the leadership and teamwork skills that allow teams to perform at the highest level. He inspires people to believe that no matter the position they hold, they can make an impact. They can be the difference between what is – and what is possible. Delivering his message with power, humor and passion, he challenges audiences to personal action to develop the potential in others and to achieve the best in themselves.

Who would benefit from Chris's message: any organization that has people working together to accomplish a goal. In other words – everyone! Your audience will gain tremendous insight, a new perspective, and practical tools and that they can start using TODAY to positively impact the workplace and the world.
