

DANIEL M. TRINGOV - MY FAITH

In Memoriam of My Mother, Maria K. Tringova

“In God’s World, when Man Believes and goes after his Dreams, he is Always in the Middle of a Miracle... The Bravery to walk on the staircase one step at a time, without seeing all the steps ahead, is named Courage. Joined together with Belief, the Courage becomes FAITH. And the True Dreams in the form of Pure Miracles reside on The OTHER SIDE of FAITH.”

PRAISE THE LORD, AMEN

ON THE OTHER SIDE OF FAITH: A POETIC ESSAY

On the Edge of Miracles

In The Quiet Dawn of The Soul,

Where Dreams Stir and Faith Breathes,

A Person Steps Out—Uncertain, Yet Unafraid—

Into a World Shaped by The Divine.

To Believe, To Pursue What The Heart Knows is True,

Is To Walk Always in The Heart of a Miracle.

The Stairway of Courage

Each Step is Carved in Shadow and Light,
The Path Ahead Hidden by The Gentle Hand of Mystery.
To Climb, One Trembling Foot Before The Next,
Without The Promise of a Full View,
is The Very Definition of Courage.
Courage, When Wedded to Belief, Transforms—
It Is No Longer Just a Trembling Ascent,
But Becomes The Quiet, Enduring Force: FAITH.

Beyond the Threshold

True Dreams, Like Wildflowers in a Field Untouched,
Bloom on The Far Side of Faith.
It Is There, Beyond The Veil of Uncertainty,
That Miracles Wear Their Purest Form.
To Reach Them is Not To Conquer The Unknown,
But To Persist, To Trust The Unseen,
Knowing That Each Step, However Small,
Draws Us Nearer To Grace.

Final Benediction

PRAISE THE LORD, AMEN.
