

Therapeutic Tanks

Volunteer Program

You're someone who sees the great sacrifice our veterans have made and understands what it means to give back. You are a leader, ambitious and passionate in everything you do, and we want you on our team.

Being a volunteer for Therapeutic Tanks goes beyond providing an aquarium service. As a Tank Commander you will have the privilege of working with some of the finest members of the US armed forces.

What Is a Tank Commander?

While Therapeutic Tanks greatly appreciates and uses all donations, an individual or organization must volunteer their services in full earn the title "Tank Commander."

We love receiving donations in the form of corals and fish, however, we only ask that you volunteer your time. Therapeutic Tanks pays for all equipment and livestock. The roll of the tank commander is to form a relationship with the individual or family, and ensure the aquarium stays in good health. Our RedSea aquariums are user friendly systems. Our Tank commanders donate on average 1 hour a month of their time.

Benefits of being a Tank Commander.

Therapeutic Tanks has formed strong relationships with SOCOM's Warrior Care Program, Bulk Reef Supply, Red Sea, The Clearwater Marine Aquarium, and various store fronts across the nation. Align yourself with a reefing Organization committed to giving back. As a tank commander you will receive promotion through our various relationships and media networks. You will also be given credit at our public speaking opportunities including MACNA.

Each Tank Commander will also receive a certificate of service, 2 free shirts, and a Therapeutic Tanks challenge coin. Individuals or organizations will be awarded a plaque celebrating each year successful service.

Volunteering does not qualify as a tax exempt service, however, there are many itemized deduction opportunities available

- Gas or mileage
- Food and drink consumed on the job
- Livestock, water, or any other equipment/chemicals used
- Job related cellular use
