

DAVID AND MARTHA HEIN AGRICULTURE SCHOLARSHIP

Farmington, CT has long been an agricultural town and the Hein family has been part of that for the last 200 years. David and Martha Hein, long time Farmington residents and Farmington High School sweethearts, were involved in the farming of the land until 2019. In 2019 David Hein was injured and has been unable to continue farming. The farming torch was passed to Jennifer Villa, owner of Farmington Farm Truck in October of 2020 and she now owns and runs the farm. Jennifer Villa, also a long time Farmington resident, wanted to recognize and honor the agricultural contributions of David and Martha Hein while also supporting and encouraging Farmington students choosing an agriculturally related career path. In 2020, funded by sales of a commemorative ornament, the last of the Hein Farm popping corn and a donation from The Farmington Farm Truck at Hein Farm, the David and Martha Hein Agriculture Scholarship was created. A fund was established for an annual agriculture scholarship to be awarded to a Farmington High School student interested in pursuing agriculture, or a related field, as a career.
