November Demonstrator

Michael Anderson

Tri-State Woodturners
An official AAW chapter

Michael has been working with wood for many years, but started woodturning in late 2021. As soon as the power hit his lathe for the first time, Michael was hooked--since then, his table saw has primarily served as an extra workbench to hold his turning tools. Woodturning has afforded Michael a creative outlet and an opportunity to work with amazing materials from around the world. Michael primarily alternates between turning closed form bowls and sculptural pieces, and usually works with hardwood species sourced from the southeastern United States. When appropriate he showcases the natural characteristics of wood, but many of Michael's pieces are embellished after the turning is complete. He finds satisfaction in visual and tactile surface treatments and is intrigued with the variety of techniques available to alter the appearance of wood. Whatever the end goal, form is paramount, and Michael's enjoyment of the process is what keeps him motivated for the next project.

At the last minute Michael jumped in and saved the day. Our scheduled demonstrator had to cancel at the last minute. Doug made one phone call and Michael said sure I love to show everyone how to make a Hawaiian Calabash bowl.

It seems like doctor offices constantly want me to fill out the same form I filled out the year before. Usually several pages.

I've noticed several members like filling out the TSW membership form as much as I like doing that at the doctor's office.

Solution: At the Christmas Party someone will have all the info on a sheet. PLEASE just look it over and see if there are any changes. Give that person the corrections if any. DONE! - That's pretty simple isn't it?

If we have a membership form for you previously, it will be available for you to confirm your information.

New members need to complete the Membership Form but I will try to keep it on file so they only do it once.

Why do we keep this info? Some companies require this for discounts they offer plus it helps us keep in touch with you.

Thank You!
