

Online Exhibition Call for Entry

To celebrate NRG National Park Service's Wildflower Weekend, Beckley Art Center and Beckley Camera Club are calling for original artwork inspired by the blooming wildflowers of West Virginia. Submit your artwork to be included in a special online art exhibition.

Flowers are known to have endless amounts of interpretations and meanings. We are excited to create this opportunity for our wonderful and talented Arts community to show your artwork to a growing audience of over 2,600 followers. Submission is free.

We strongly encourage you to continue practice social distancing while finding your subjects of inspiration. Venture into your own backyard, choose a sparsely populated park or trail, or use the following online resources to create blooming WV wildflowers.

NOTE: This event was originally planned as a Wildflower Art Field Trip, with a coordinating exhibition of the work created on the trip; however, to keep within the bounds of public safety and social distancing, we have re-envisioned the parameters of these events.

Submission Deadline: April 27, Exhibition Opening: May 1

Submission Requirements

Submissions for this exhibition must be sent to the Exhibition Committee at services@beckleyartcenter.com. Artists may submit up to six (6) photographs in any media.

To submit, digital images of each entry should be attached and sent by email on or before the submission deadline. If you need advice on photographing artwork, please let us know.

Images must be .JPEG format in at least 300 dpi. Image files must be titled "Lastname_Title" for each piece.

All artist's work(s) will be selected for the exhibition if said work meets the theme.

Inclusion of artwork is at the sole discretion of the BAC Exhibition Committee.
