The Guess Corporation™

Good People. Good Business.

A Diversified Social Enterprise Company

It's All Good.

Good Purposes.

We believe that there are good people in the world. Sometimes those people are disadvantaged because of a disability, economic circumstance, family situation or criminal record. The Guess Corporation is a diversified social enterprise company that is dedicated to engaging in good businesses that provide opportunities to disadvantaged persons. Despite their background, they are still good people. We are committed to giving back to society – we donate 25% of our net profits to the two corporate foundations that we started, and those funds are set aside for investing into the lives of others. When you do business with us, you're supporting a company that is driven by its mission - not just by profits.

Good Businesses.

The Guess Corporation operates businesses that create good-paying jobs for disadvantaged persons and those who want to contribute their efforts to our mission. Our main businesses are: petroleum marketing, hospitality and food service distribution, residential/commercial construction and retail product marketing. These businesses function through our four subsidiaries: Guess Petroleum, Ltd., Guess Farms, Inc., The Guess Construction Company, Ltd. and The Guess Private Merchant Company, Ltd. We also acquire businesses that have growth potential and allow us to create jobs for those needing a second chance in life.

Good People.

Jerry D. Guess,
*Principal Founder,
Executive Vice-Chairman &
President*

At 23 years of age, our Principal Founder found himself on the way to federal prison. As a former inmate and convicted felon, he understands setbacks and the importance of second chances. Ten years later, he is leveraging his experiences to help others.

Willie L. Guess
*Co-Founder,
Executive Chairman*

Setbacks for one's child takes a toll on their parents too. Our Co-Founder and Executive Chairman visited his son, our Principal Founder, and supported him during the most difficult time of his life. Now, he is using those experiences to help his son help others.

Good Management.
