

DISSOLUTION IS THE SOLUTION.

It is time for us to exercise the power of sovereignty that we have waisted and sold under the guise spurious elections over the years.

As Ango Abdullah said in a summary in his various write up, "This Amalgam isn't working", therefore it has to be dissolved.

A peaceful dissolution is the next recourse. This imperfectly amalgamated Yoruba Group of Kingdoms, The Caliphates, Emirates, Nations, The Ibo republican states and other smaller Nations have gone through continuous blood letting, distrust, insincerity and false pretences at unity.

What unity? We have all in various degrees suffered. Nothing binds us together, no common ancestral origin, language, culture, way of life, dress, food preparation, and governance before the creation of the Amalgam by the Europeans.

The British took hold of the lower reaches of Rivers Niger and Benue and aptly called it Nigeria and French likewise the dry upper reaches of the river Niger, was called "Niger" in French.

The name Nigeria was first used in an article published in the Times of London on January 8, 1897, by Flora Shaw the girlfriend of Frederick Lugard. The name came in handy as this was towards the close of the diplomatic battle between Britain and France over their claims of territories in West Africa.

Thus, the incongruous creation of protectorates in the north and south resulted in the Amalgam, a British trading post and sphere of influence. It is not working, we are collectively delaying our individual progress and development.

We will all be better off dissolved so that each will work within their new countries according to their wishes, pace, vision and dreams of a future. The call is for dissolution through a referendum...
