ORIGINS

In 1992, a group of concerned tattooists recognized the need to address health and safety issue with tattooing. As the popularity of tattooing grew, so did scrutiny from health officials and lawmaker, calling for consistent safety practices through the trade. The founding members created a tattooist driven organization to unite the trade and to educate all stakeholders on safety standards and best practices.

What We Don't Do...

- The APT does not write legislation or regulations
- The APT does not police tattooists or the tattoo trade, although the APT will assist in resolving complaints involving its members and respond appropriately to those falsely claiming membership in APT
- The APT does not license or certify tattooists
- The APT does not dictate tattooing techniques or aftercare procedures
- The APT does not involve in issues related to piercing, branding, scarification, micro-blading or other body modifications.

Who We Are...

The APT is a professional business league with an international membership base. Since 1992, we continue to be a nonprofit, voluntary alliance dedicated to promoting advances in tattooing health and safety and to disseminating that information. The APT is governed by an elected board of directors made up of tattoo professionals and trade members. The APT freely shares this information to help members, and, in turn, other tattoo artists, healthcare professionals, legislators, health inspectors and the public get the best and most up-to-date information on tattooing health and safety.
