147 members of Congress stood in opposition of blindly certifying the presidential election results last week. Now, they all are facing fierce financial backlash for their attempt to bring transparency to an election cycle plagued by doubt.

The number of companies imposing their own penalties on these lawmakers grew on Monday. The list now includes Ford, American Airlines and Google, who all said they will temporarily suspend all political donations to both Democrats and Republicans alike.

Additionally, Best Buy announced they were temporarily stopping their donations to Republican lawmakers. Energy company GE's donation suspension will last through the next election cycle before it will then consider requests for support on a "case-by-case basis." Chemical giant DOW announced it would withhold funds for select Republican lawmakers' entire terms in office, up to six years for those in the Senate.

While a majority of the retaliatory efforts are targeted and within the realm of political discourse, a few sanctions have encroached into personal territory.

On Monday, the PGA of America announced it was stripping the Trump National Golf Club in Bedminster of the 2022 PGA Championship, following a vote by its Board of Directors.

Hours later, the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St Andrews followed suit, saying it would not stage any championships at the Trump-owned Turnberry golf course in Scotland for the foreseeable future. In their reasoning, the golf club said they didn't want the current circumstances to overshadow the focus of the championship, namely the players and the course.

Turnberry, which President Trump purchased in 2014, has been the home of four previous open championships. A representative for the Trump Organization said it was “incredibly disappointed” with the PGA’s decision.

Homeland Security Committee Chair Rep. Bennie Thompson (D-Miss.) went so far as to say some Republicans, namely Sen. Ted Cruz (R-Texas) and Sen. Josh Hawley (R-Mo.), belong on the “no fly list.” Thompson said he was “not ashamed” of his suggestion to add the two Republicans to a list most notably full of terrorists and other national security threats.

The backlash didn’t stop with the lawmakers. A group of pro-Trump protesters were threatened by an American Airlines pilot who took issue with their attire. An unidentified passenger of the flight posted a video over the weekend, claiming the pilot, who can be heard threatening to remove passengers, was upset due to the group wearing MAGA hats.

Wow. I'm on a plane full of patriots flying from DC to Phoenix and we started chanting "USA" ...and the Captain came on said told us he'd drop us off in Kansas if he had to if we didn't obey their every single rule.

American Airlines is everything but American. @AmericanAir

— Mindy Robinson us (@iheartmindy) January 8, 2021

"This is the way it's gonna be. Um, it's a four-and-a-half-hour flight out to Phoenix," the pilot said over the plane's loudspeaker. "We'll put this plane down in the middle of Kansas and dump people off. I don't care, we will do that if that's what it takes. So behave, please."

American Airlines later released a statement regarding the incident, claiming the pilot's commands were not political, but simply an attempt to stress the importance of listening to the instructions of the crew members.

Despite the imposition of financial penalties, Republicans have already begun fundraising efforts for the midterms to show that lack of corporate support will not be detrimental to their goal of taking back Congress.

When the Republicans take power, these same companies will come lobbying and begging for favors, special treatment, and money. Right now they are trying to gain favor with the Democrats. a bad move. None of these favor with the Democrats...a bad move. None of these companies give a dang about what happened at the capitol. Politics as usual.

When will that be with one party rule and Socialism in place? Republican politicians are just as dirty and corrupt as Democrats. They all want Trump out of the way to get back to business as usual, raking in the dirty money.

There is too many republicans that only care about their job, and power, and not what happens to the country. We need to vote those republicans out.

Satan's children, that is all they know how to do. They think they are smart and know the facts. You can't know the facts, if you are always told the lies. I only pray these young Liberals learn very quickly who the enemy really is. Democrats pray on the young because they haven't lived long enough to be smart.

You seem defensive. You realize the Democrats are the dark money queens and kings right? I'm not saying some Republicans don't use dark money, obviously they do because they all stabbed us in the back and will pay heavily for their betrayal, but that is another topic for another day. Why would a billionaire need dirty money? He paid for his own campaign along with any donations he received. You must be young and naive lardheppus.

In Extraordinary Move, Joint Chiefs Publicly Affirm That Biden Will Be President

“As we have done throughout our history, the U.S. military will obey lawful orders from civilian leaders support civil authorities to protect lives and property, ensure public safety in accordance with the law, and remain fully committed to protecting and defending the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic,” the message sent out on Tuesday to all troops, reads.

“Any act to disrupt the Constitution process is not only against our traditions, values, and oath: it is against the law,” the message reads

The note comes almost one week af
the deadly assault on the U.S. Capit
by a group of Trump supporters seeking to prevent Biden’s victory in last year’s elections from being ratified.

The mob that stormed the Capitol contained at least one active-duty member of the military, as well as multiple veterans. Ashli Babbitt, wh was killed by Capitol police while attempting to break in to the Speaker’s gallery, was herself an Air Force veteran.

The message, signed by every member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, describes Jan. 6 as a “violent riot” a a “direct assault on the U.S. Congre the Capitol building, and our Constitutional process.”
