One day a hungry fox saw a crow sitting on a tree, with a piece of cheese in his beak.

I must trick that bird and get the cheese.

What a beautiful bird you are! I am sure you have a very sweet voice, too. Won't you sing a song for me?

The foolish crow felt so proud of himself, that he opened his beak to sing. Down fell the cheese, and the clever fox ate it up and ran away, laughing to himself.

Moral : Foolish pride always has a fall.
