January 2022 Monthly Sales & Service Tip

Remote Training Continues to be the Platform of Choice for Your People Development Process!

Greetings and Happy New Year to all Sales and Service Professionals!

The good news is that Remote Training is working and paying off for those who choose to continue their people development process. All of us at Butler are gearing up for a full schedule through June and wanted to release our Open seminar dates before we fill up.

You now have the security and convenience of training in the comfort of your home or office as Remote Training virtually eliminates the hassles of travel, lodging and food expenses.

People don't like disrupting their work week and leaving their families, especially now during these interesting times. Engage your people and tap their resources for 2022 to launch your strategic initiatives!!
