

Women in Life Sciences April Summit – Coaching

Book Your Complimentary 30-Minute Coaching Session by selecting your preferred coach and time from the availability at the links below.

Coaching sessions will be held from April 15 – April 30 and spots are limited.

Coaching can be an incredibly powerful experience, even in just 30 minutes. That said, to get the most out of it, it's important to be clear on your topic, why it's important to you right now, and what a good outcome would be at the end of the 30 minutes together.

We invite you to visit the link here to learn more about 30-minute coaching.

Amy D. Stephens

Amy D. Stephens is a leadership advisor and executive coach who helps leaders and teams move forward when the path isn't clear—whether that's navigating change, making high-stakes decisions, or improving how they work together.

With over 25 years of experience in tech and highly regulated environments, she understands the realities leaders face: competing priorities, risk, and constant pressure to deliver. She is the founder of Arif Consulting and the author of Practicing Bravery with MOXIE, and is known for her practical, human-centered approach to leading through complexity.

Scheduling Link: <https://arifconsultingllc.as.me/leadershipsummitfree>

Kelly Schmidt, ACC

Kelly Schmidt is an executive coach and leadership partner who helps leaders and teams navigate the “What now?” moments of change. With 20+ years in life sciences leading tech-enabled transformations, she's led reorgs, rebuilt teams, shifted cultures, and experienced the personal impact that comes with organizational change. Kelly helps leaders regain their footing and teams rebuild momentum using practical micro-moves that make progress possible again.

Scheduling Link: <https://calendly.com/njkellyschmidt/ldr-smt-30>

Women in Life Sciences – April Summit Coaching

Marielle A. Hajducko, MBA, PCC

Marielle Hajducko brings over 20 years of Biotech leadership experience to guiding high-performing teams in Life Sciences and technology-driven industries. She partners with emerging leaders to C-suite executives to help them break through isolation, build strategic influence, and lead with confidence and authenticity through coaching, facilitation and data-driven insights.

Scheduling link: <https://calendly.com/coach-marielle/summit-coaching>

Rachel Miller, MD

Dr. Rachel Miller is a board-certified OB/GYN, certified executive coach, and leadership strategist. She is the founder of Pocket Bridges, a physician-led advisory firm that houses a curated network of actively practicing physicians who partner with companies, executive teams, investors, and organizations navigating the intersection of healthcare and business.

Dr. Miller brings a dual lens to her coaching and advisory work: clinical rigor paired with systems-level strategic thinking. She helps leaders translate evidence, risk, and lived clinical experience into decisions they can defend, whether they're scaling a product, entering a regulated market, building a team that needs to get healthcare right, or navigating the leadership challenges that come with high-stakes environments.

Scheduling link: <https://calendly.com/pocketbridges-miller/womens-leadership-summit>

Alexis Halkovic, PhD, ACC

Alexis Halkovic, PhD is a social psychologist and leadership coach who works with values-driven leaders navigating major transitions — in their organizations, their careers, or their sense of direction. She brings a systems perspective to leadership, with particular attention to how culture, conflict, and power shape decision-making. Before coaching, Alexis spent a decade in operations leadership at Goldman Sachs. She holds a PhD in Critical Social Psychology from CUNY Graduate Center and is an ICF-certified coach. Her sessions are direct, grounded in research, and focused on helping leaders move forward with clarity — not just confidence.

Scheduling link: <https://tidycal.com/alexishalkovic/30-minute-coaching-session>