For space travel at FTL on board a passenger carrying light orb ship that carries Akhs (not biological beings)

You have to buy one in life to get carried in afterlife, that simple. You also need an Ankh or an Ankh Token that is either one of my designs or one that honours Egyptian Mysticism and you will also need a VISA and an Earth Afterlife Passport available to order here.

Artistic impression someone did of Proxima c Proxima Centauri; lets call it Kazoozabah for now

By owning an Ankh, it's impression will transfer to your Akh (Ka & Ba combined) By purchasing a Cosmic Passport, with Visa's and an i am we ! boarding pass with flight coupons attached their impressions will also transfer to your Akh (Ka & Ba combined)

Please use the Contact Us page to initiate this process, thank you.

Then we have the Arkh that forms a protective orb shell around your Akh which we can create for you using the Rebekah process...

Ra-Ba-Ka Fusion to create your Arkh

It used to be called the Akh but i decided to sling in a R for good measure just to make it more contemporary. Also known as the Rebekah process (To tie together firmly) Ra (Re) being your inner light, Ba (Be) being your personality and Ka (Kah) being your inner energy.

This is advanced quantum physics of the Jigging Muon Calibre.

As i have already done some physical experiments in this field of science since 2007 i can confirm that the activation will happen, it's just that the individuals journey to the activation is tailored to their personal circumstances.

There are fees for this service that are charged at a pre-set £1,000.00 how long it takes is a two way street of communication and cooperation. There is a Craft Discount of 50% to practitioners of the Wicca.

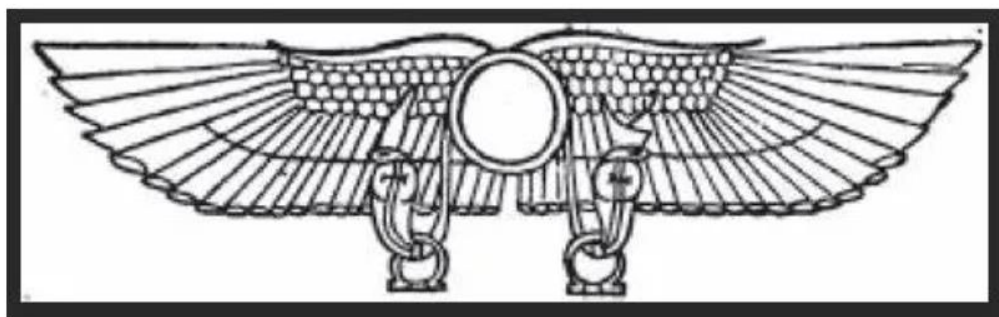

What i will need from you is every bit of information about you that you care to share with me in confidentiality via my contact page/email etc.

Payment of total fees before email delivery of your personalised activation PNG image that i will create using windows 10 paint program.

Information required:

- Full given name (as per your birth certificate)
- The name that you like to be known by(Avoid choosing GÐ or GðetH names as it may offend the Cosmic Divine)
- Date of Birth including time of birth (including Time Zone)
- Place of Conception
- Date of Conception
- Place of Birth
- Current Location
- A full biography (a really truthful one, the good, the bad and the dam right horrible)
- A picture of what you want your Arkh image to look like including clothing images that you want it to be dressed in
- Your email address (for delivery purposes)
- What's your favourite Colour?

The finished image will not look like the image below as the image below is what they used to look like four thousand years ago.

Morality Contract Dissolution

Between UFWF & The Jewish Nation

Reason Breaches of contractual obligations and repetative breaking of the ten commandments

For and on behalf of UFWF, i Gāriel of Bethel (Beitel) hereby dissolve the moral contract of the Jewish nation with the Cosmic Divine.

8th January 2023 Gregorian ce calendar date

From this day the Jewish peoples can no longer refer to themselves as Israelites.

The Jewish nation are no longer UFWF's chosen people.

Mind you, those two stone tablets supposedly vanished without a trace about three thousand years ago during a time when King Solomon was being careless. Not that wise after all.

The British Empire?

I had a quick dig and found a few bits of current info and...

1931 – The Statute of Westminster gave Dominions constitutional autonomy.
1947 – Declaration of Indian Independence and the partitioning of India and Pakistan.
1948 – British withdrawal from Palestine.
1952 – Mau Mau Rebellion broke out in opposition to white British colonial rule in Kenya.
1956 – Sudan gained independence, closely followed the next year by Ghana. One by one British colonies throughout the African mainland declared independence in the next decade, concluding in 1966. The one exception was Namibia which was late to achieve independence in 1990. In the following decades numerous other countries across the globe proceeded to gain their independence from Britain, with some leaving colonial rule on specific dates whilst others achieved independence through a longer process initiated by dominion status. The breaking up of the British Empire dominated the twentieth century landscape and ushered in a new era of global relations.
1972 – Asians expelled from Uganda.
1982 – Falklands War.
1997 – Hong Kong handed back to Chinese.
Present Day – Britain and the Commonwealth Nations.

The British Empire was a crucial component in shaping lives, peoples, travel, economy, technology, politics and culture for hundreds of years. For better or worse, the impact of the British Empire has earned its place in the history books.

IAW618

Intergalactic flight number IAW618 has experienced a technical fault that caused all Christian Souls to be ejected from the light orb ship $\frac{1}{10}$ of the way to Alpha Centauri, this includes the VIP passengers.

They are now floating in deep space within the Libra sector approximately 5000 earth years from the Sun.

IAW618 is now call sign IAW838F and now turning around and heading back to this Solar System to dock with our Solar Space Station for repairs and modifications.

Also the Fatima Space Port no longer caters for Christianity, so Christian Souls there are being redirected to Jerusalem by foot to await the arrival of their fictitious lord.

Basically it's all about being open minded and willing to change in order to evolve, regardless of choice of faith at the end of physical life, being closed minded to the truth after seeing the truth, throws those souls out of balance with the light orb EAP that is carrying them so the light orb EAP then has to eject what is causing the imbalance to be able to continue onwards with the remainder of its journey to Alpha Centauri.

In Loving Memory of Christopher Michael "The Grey"

15th August 2002, Chris died a few days before this CC appeared, i remember that we his family had problems finding out where the private ambulance had taken his body, he ended up in BMI Sarum Road Hospital Winchester. Chris being a firm Celtic Pagan would have headed for the old Roman Sarum Road west of Winchester (old roads no longer used by the living where spirits can travel unhindered by the physical energies) The importance of Winchester is Abbotstone Down area where the BGSi (Bifrost Glide Slope Indicator) centre ground is located north east of the Planetarium <https://www.winchestersciencecentre.org/> It starts at St. Michaels (Boars Isle) in Kent and travels west to the top of Triscombe Quarry, Wills Neck (Bretons Edge) in Somerset.

This is why you will mainly find genuine CC's close by to ancient monuments. At the time of his unexpected death i remember praying to Hathor to intercept him on his transcendence into the spiritual realm and my family insisted that i continue with my planned holiday to Corfu departing the 16th August 2002, i remember requesting a sign for if they managed to collect him to align the sign with where i was living at that time. While i was away in Corfu my family picked up from where i left off before i was convinced to leave it to them and go and enjoy my family holiday with my wife and step kids as i was at first the only one holding it all together emotionally, that was the worst holiday of my life.

In life Chris was an artist who specialised in silk screen printing and strip shading like the CC and was also partially responsible for the metal orb foo fighter drawing that was sent to the MoD at either Foxhill, Warminster Rd or Lansdown in Bath in 1992 drawn onto the rear of an aerospace technical log page. Maybe that's why they took it seriously, however; we didn't as it was a practical joke which made us chuckle as we posted it into the letter box next to the shop in Downside Rd.

The Crabwood CC does in fact align with where i lived in Yate in 2002. When i saw the image for the first time i chuckled to myself quietly but wouldn't disclose the info at that time as it could have been just a coincidence not wishing to make a complete prat of myself in the process. Only after a mere 2½ years of contemplating a repeat in coincidences do i come forth to share my experiences after having to firstly eliminate Dene Hine from the equation as he had laid claim to the second alignment and then it was just a case of waiting for the right moment to share the experience to which i feel is about now.

Chris carried the same family name as i do, well he was my biological brother and that name has the meaning of Grey, as in Grey Haired, depicting a tribal elder, wisdom and knowledge and that is why i call this CC "Christopher Michael the Grey".

Yate to Winchester to Sidari Corfu, a straight line and a definite confirmation of ascension collection by the Elohim (Light Orb UAP's).

Horus pectoral

One day in 2014 while thinking about the development of the Aphrodite Ankh (Mathw Ankh) after completing the wing design, i thought lets pull the bow back ready to fire Cupid's arrow whilst tinkering with a square of A4 925 sheet and prototype #1 took form, after get more thought on the drawing desk, Design draft #1 appeared as if by magic at the sharp end of my pencil

Then 3 years later this appeared in a field nearby in alignment to my village on the other side of the levels and folks started copying it. Government employed debunker laid claim to the crop circle, which was amusing to say the least

I gave up making and marketing this design in 2020 after the crop circle appeared at Rocky Hill Lane, Kingsdon in Somerset; These Jewellery Boxes were created for this design and now available as Rare as Rocking Horse Poo story-of-the-eye-of-ra-and-its-box-1

Where is this Crop Circle ?

Crop Circle created 25th May 2020 and then lots of people copied it, it's a good job that the CC doesn't quite look like the real thing but the real Crop Circle Creators exactly aligned it with where i created my design 6 years earlier as the map above demonstrates.

A UK government employed pretend hoaxer and real debunker called Dene Hine then laid claim to it; not realizing it's alignment and the Significance of Bridgwater Gateway on the other side of the Somerset Levels.

It functioned as a clue to the Key to the Ladder that was later illustrated in Avebury, Wiltshire as the entrance of Wisdom towards the Goats path and onto the ancient trail of the Ancestors and entrance to the Spiritual Divine Settlements, that's if anyone wants to join the Tuatha.

The Crop Circle was a request to and created by the Goddess Brighid and the Tuatha De Dannan (Irish name)

The Design is a contemporary blend between the Tuatha and the Great Fenead.

And now on a make your own basis, doesn't matter about material but get the shape right and wear it up to, upon and beyond passing on.

Upon doing an internet search for the creator of the Djinn, two avenues of source information were presented to the viewer, first being Lilith (first Eve) created by the Elohim (well one of them) we'll come back to that subject in a bit.

Lets just get the dumb answer out of the way first then return to the important stuff.

of the legend

1. of Sheba - an exotic and mysterious woman immortalised in the world's great religious works, a Hebrew Bible and the Muslim Koran. She also appears in Persian painting, in Kabbalistic treatises, Christian mystical works, where she is viewed as an embodiment of Divine Wisdom and a foreteller of the future. In Africa and Arabia her tale is still told to this day. In Africa and Arabia her tale is still told to this day, her tale has been told and retold in many different forms over 3000 years.

2. Sheba, too, has fallen victim to the same spell, releasing its immortalised epic version of her life in the glossy Queen of Sheba of 1959. The name and history of the Queen, however, are elusive. The most popular heroine is so elusive but so puzzling.

3. To ascertain who she really has been is an arduous task, and a question, if so little is known about her, has she become a mythical figure? The tales of Solomon and the Queen of Sheba, after all, even provided the founding mythologies of Israel and Ethiopia.

“ The sources and history of the legend, however are elusive. **”

Jewish legend

Among all the famous story-tellers in the world, along with the Celts, the Greeks and the Indians, the Jews have left one of the greatest legacies. The Bible tales were written down in the late Iron Age and into the period of Persian and Greek rule in the Near East (600-200 BC). They have proved amazingly tenacious and enduring - their extraordinary impact on the history of civilisation due mainly to their importance to the three monotheistic religions.

The first appearance of the Tale of the Queen of Sheba's visit to King Solomon is a short narrative in the Old Testament.

And when the Queen of Sheba heard of the fame of Solomon concerning the name of the LORD, she came to prove him with hard questions. And she came to Jerusalem with a very great train, with camels that bore spices, and very much gold, and precious stones: and when she was come to Solomon, she communed with him of all that was in her heart. And King Solomon gave unto the Queen of Sheba all her desire, whatsoever she asked, beside that which Solomon gave her of his royal bounty. So she turned and went to her own country, she and her servants.(1 Kings 10 v.1-13)

This is a story that so far has proved impossible to verify. But it provides us with just enough hints and clues to be tantalising and mysterious. The 'precious stones', 'spices' and 'incense' that the queen brought as gifts from her homeland must denote a country rich in gems and incense trees.

Only a few countries can boast these attributes - countries such as Somalia and Ethiopia in the Horn of Africa, and Oman and Yemen in the southern Arabian Peninsula. So could the land of Sheba have been one of those? And what about the name itself? What evidence is there for a land called Sheba?

king the clues

There are in fact several people called Sheba in the Bible, one is a descendant of Noah's son Shem, and another of his son Ham. But it is also referred to as a land in the Book of Ezekiel (27 v.22-24) that the merchants trading with the Queen of Sheba came from Sheba and Raamah, bringing with them spices, precious stones and gold - the exact same things that the Queen of Sheba brought with her when she came to King Solomon in Jerusalem.

The most popular version of the Hebrew legend of the Queen of Sheba is the Arabic version referring to a great kingdom, the Sabaean kingdom, in what is today Yemen. And, though historic evidence lacking for the Queen of Sheba herself, there is a wealth of textual evidence to support the existence of this great kingdom of Saba in Assyrian texts, kings of the name of 'Itamru' and 'Yitha'amarsu', and in Yemeni texts.

“ And, though historic proof is lacking for the Queen of Sheba herself, there is plenty of textual evidence to support this great kingdom of Saba. **”

Islamic tradition

Even more interesting are the current excavations of an ancient temple in the old market town of Marib - in the ruins thought to have once been part of the ancient kingdom of Saba. The temple is known as the Mahram Bilqis Temple of Bilqis - and Bilqis is the name given to the Queen of Saba in the later stories in the Islamic tradition. In the Koran, written earlier, the Queen of Saba is nameless. Her story there shares some of the familiar lines of the Bible version, but adds a few of its own.

The ruins of Marib, the capital of the ancient Kingdom of Saba. The Queen of Sheba has been said to have ruled here.

And, we are told, had enabled Solomon to converse with birds and one day noticed that the Lapwing was missing. When the bird returned, she explained that she had been travelling in a foreign land, a town as Saba, which was ruled over by a queen who was as immensely rich and sat on a throne of gold and silver. Solomon then invited the queen to visit him.

On her arrival she entered the palace that he had had specially built for her. The walls and floor of the building were made of glass, and water flowed over the floor. She picked up her skirt to walk over the flood and so revealed her legs, which were covered with hair, like a goat's.

A later Arabic tale tells of how the Queen of Sheba came to give a goat's hoof as a foot. Whilst pregnant, her mother saw a handsome goat which she craved for, 'after the manner of women who are with child', and when her own daughter was born, the child had one normal foot and one goat's hoof.)

“ [Sheba's] child had one normal foot and one goat's hoof. ”

Ethiopian tradition

Of all the stories of the Queen of Sheba, those of Ethiopia and the Horn of Africa are those that probably retain the most resonance today with the people who tell them. The stories are immortalised in the Ethiopian holy book - the Kebra Nagast - where we find accounts of the queen's hairy hoof, her trip to Solomon and her seduction. But these tales go further. Here, the queen returns to her capital, Aksum, in northern Ethiopia, and months later gives birth to Solomon's son, who is named Menelik, meaning 'Son of the Wise'.

Temple of Hatshepsut, whose walls show a 15th-century BC trade mission to the land of Saba. Historians believe the kingdom was located in what is now Ethiopia.

The story goes that years later Menelik travelled to Jerusalem to see his father, who greeted him with joy and invited him to remain there to rule after his death. But Menelik refused and decided to return home. Under cover of darkness he left the city - taking with him its most precious relic, the Ark of the Covenant. He took it back to Aksum, where it still resides today, in a specially built treasury in the courtyard of St Mary's Church.

The importance of the queen, the Ark of the Covenant and the Kebra Nagast in Ethiopian history cannot be overstated. Through their reading of the Kebra Nagast, Ethiopians see their country as God's chosen country, the final resting place that he chose for the Ark - and Sheba and her son were the means by which it came there. Thus, Sheba is the mother of their nation, and the kings of the land have divine right to rule because they are directly descended from her. Emperor Haile Selassie even had that fact enshrined in the Ethiopian Constitution of 1955.

Haile Selassie was not, however, the first Emperor to publicly declare the importance of the Kebra Nagast. London's National Archives contain letters dating from 1872, written by Prince Kassa (later King John IV) of Ethiopia to Queen Victoria, in which he writes (translated):

There is a book called Kebra Nagast, which contains the law of the whole of Ethiopia, and the names of the chums (governors), churches and provinces are in this book. I pray you will find out who has got this book and send it to me, for in my country my people will not obey my orders without it.

Not all dreams are just dreams

Some are a form of communication

  Looking for some help please

Ok those knowledgeable of dreams, I had a weird maybe disturbing dream last night.

In this dream, I had a latina girlfriend, I am currently single without any viable options, I couldn't see her face but her voice, hair and skin tone tells me latina. Anyway she comes in yelling and asks me if I care about anything or anyone waving a piece of paper around. I look at it and it's a letter from a doctor telling me I have a clot in my lungs, which I don't know if that's a thing, and I am dying.

This dream startled me awake at a time I had time to get ready for a class I'm taking and happened to forget to set an alarm.

I appreciate any input on possible meanings and interpretation.

Sounds like your resident spirit guide woke you up realising you had forgot to set your alarm, she may have been stressing over the dilemma most of the night prior to hatching her cunning plan. Best plan would be to go and see your doctor anyway just to be on the safe side with a little white lie about a sharp intermittent pain in your ribs to rule out the possibility as she could of used it to scare you awake

Thanks for the advice.

If you have spirit guides or even visitors wishing to guide you, they do speak to you in dreams as well, as there are less distractions and dreams can be so easily interrupted.

What was it for?

According to Zahi Hawass, a famous Egyptian archaeologist, it is "very possible" that this room is "protecting something". It could even house a huge treasure: "In my opinion, it protects the true burial chamber of the Egyptian monarch Khufu," adds the Egyptologist.

On the north side heading north equals spirit path of the underworlds; complex arrival corridor that functioned like a teleportation channel for the Arkh (Rebekah) travelling to the pyramid complex for Judgement.

So you still haven't found Khufu's burial chamber there, that's because it is not there, in his time of his life on Earth he was a bit of an archaeologist as well and he too left his calling card mark on the pyramid.

Divine Judgement in this modern world

I first started testing the fairness of the divine Judgement process with the agreement of Anubis in 2007ce

Over a period of 21 years starting from Saturday 13th of May 2000ce when i was 33 years of age as i have the supernatural ability to see ahead of time; i started to question my sixth and beyond that senses and allow a select few situations play out during what i would call an appeal period from 2007 onwards although i was already 7 years ahead of the select few subject persons.

I completed these appeal process experimental processes in 2021.

And can confirm that through my intuitional thoughts at the times of the physical commencements; my intuitive thoughts were correct.

This means that if i make a Judgement and immediately act upon it means that i have already seen and pondered upon it for 7 years prior to making that Divine Judgement Decision.

So then the initial choice of punishment that i decided to impose on offenders (Sinners) was the correct and appropriate punishment to sentence upon them.

When it comes to a collective of Sinners, i Judge their leaders and then sentence the entire collective of Sinners to the same punishment.

Oh the glamour! All the glitz & Glamour and you say you're trying to save the planet by making lots of new products with just a £million to get these projects under way, they'll need a shed load more cash than that. Guess what; ten years down the line all these projects will have fallen by the wayside and the best that you can hope for is that their ideas are pinched by the big corporations which will more than likely bury them under a pile of more consumable profit generating cheap and nasty throw away single use products.

Don't blow your own trumpets until you have actually achieved something tangible and significant and so far what your boasting doesn't go a fraction of the way.

Example the battery powered bikes, have a think about the manufacturing process and the reuse and recycle process at the end of usability at the consumer end. What I needed to be seeing is electric welding using solar/hydro/wind generated electricity, recycled tyres, recycled batteries, recycled parts from start to finish and beyond, what I saw was a battery powered motorcycle in South Africa, Should be the whole bloody world; not just one backstreet somewhere obscure.

Paving bricks made from mortar & plastic bits in Africa, sold locally there only.

Planting new trees in the middle of a desert; come on now! Stop taking the piss! Woodlands and forests creep outwards slowly from what is already established where there is a naturally plentiful supply of water all year round but that would require thickening of the hedgerows done on an industrial scale on a national level but that would also involve encroaching onto agricultural land, the same agricultural land that had all the trees cut down and cleared out for timber and to create that agricultural land to begin with, a bit of a pickle that you find yourselves in.

Throwing money at stuff isn't enough, the masses have to get off their lazy arses and physically repair the damage that has been done by returning nature back to something similar to what it was before they asset stripped it. Don't waist my time with meaningless bullshit.

The upper classes with their lavish lifestyles created this envious greed to live life in the lap of luxury, try leading the way by being content with less, living simple humble lives instead and until you can inspire this way you'll just be pissing into the wind.

Sincerely

Jeff

Amazing! All this save the planet stuff from the monarchy only started in 2015 with the Queens Green Canopy project, prior to that; they didn't give a crap!

The one law of love

Would help to define the meaning of the word first:

love (noun) · Love (noun) · loves (plural noun) · a love (noun) an intense feeling of deep affection: “babies fill parents with feelings of love” · “their love for their country” synonyms: deep affection · fondness · tenderness · warmth · intimacy · attachment · endearment · devotion · adoration · doting · idolization · worship · passion · ardour · desire · lust · yearning · infatuation · adulation · besotted-ness · compassion · care · caring · regard · solicitude · concern · friendliness · friendship · kindness · charity · goodwill · sympathy · kindness · altruism · philanthropy · unselfishness · benevolence · brotherliness · sisterliness · fellow feeling · humanity · relationship · love affair · affair · romance · liaison · affair of the heart · intrigue · amour a great interest and pleasure in something: “his love for football” · “we share a love of music” synonyms: liking · weakness · partiality · bent · leaning · proclivity · inclination · disposition · enjoyment · appreciation · soft spot · taste · delight · relish · passion · zeal · appetite · zest · enthusiasm · keenness · predilection · penchant · cherish · worship · idolize · treasure ·

Old English lufu, of Germanic origin; from an Indo-European root shared by Sanskrit lubhyati ‘desires’, Latin libet ‘it is pleasing’, libido ‘desire’, also by leave and lief.

A small word that covers a heck of a lot

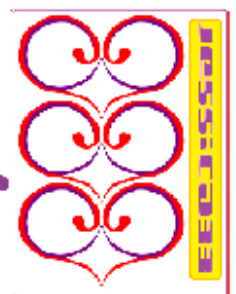

Now let us add to it with RESPECTFUL LOVE

When you all can be like this naturally you would have evolved as a species, especially when you replace negativity with neutrality when it is something you do not love.
