OUR PHILOSOPHY

Maslow's Hierarchy of Needs Pyramid in a preschool environment with emphasis on developing the multiple intelligences of a child

Nourishment: Rosemount International Preschool has very dynamic and interactive setup which promotes movement. Children are free to move about the classroom at will in a structured and controlled environment. Activities of practical life provide opportunities to develop both and Gross and Fine motor skills and movement in a caring and secure environment.

Safety: The classroom and materials at Rosemount International are aesthetically designed, simple, interesting and accessible to all children. Tidiness and Order is the rule. The environment is organized to allow the child to feel safe and secure, knowing his or her world is in order. The psychological and physical safety of the child is the paramount objective of the school before anything else

Development: The learning in Rosemount International is grounded in play and meaning making. Our child-centered learning focuses on developing their ability to Listen, Narrate, Reflect and Express their own Views, Vocabulary and Concepts building their Intellectual capacity.

Value Impartation: Children learn to develop friendships through lessons in Grace and Courtesy by being helpful, Polite and Kind to others.

Self-Actualization: Maria Montessori said "No one can be free unless he/she is independent". (The Absorbent Mind). By helping a child to develop independence and autonomy, the school helps the child reach self-actualization of his/her full potential as a fully functioning member of society.

GOALS

UNIQUENESS OF CURRICULUM

Teaching aids, dramatic play, toys and games, art expression and reading exploration

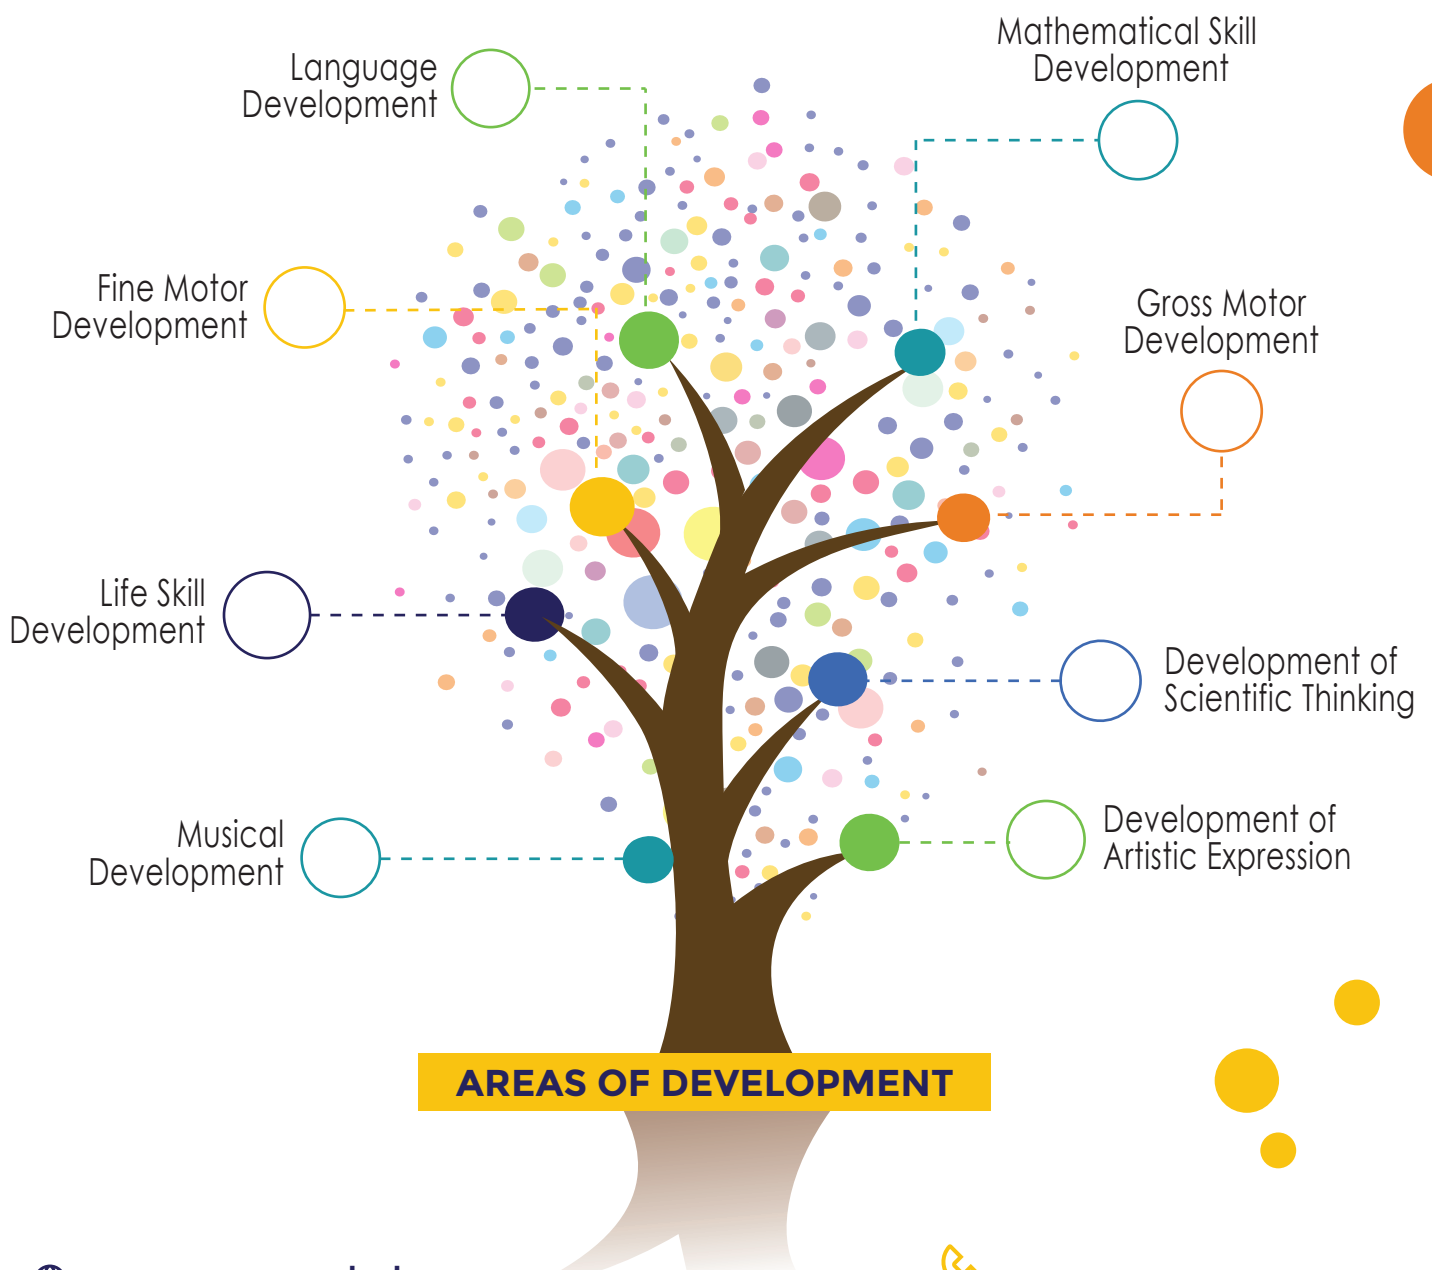

METHODOLOGY - IGNITE

Rosemount employs a curriculum methodology called IGNITE, which is a combination of early education that integrates Montessori, Skill Based Learning, Experiential Education (EXE), Swedish Early Education Concepts built on a foundation of Maslow's hierarchy of human needs in a preschool environment.

AREAS OF DEVELOPEMENT

The areas of development are thoroughly researched and well conceptualized to deliver knowledge in a structured form. The curriculum is a fully integrated model mounted on the powerful delivery platform - STEM (abbreviated as Science, Technology, and Engineering & Mathematics) which uses technology as a core tool to inspire.

TECHNOLOGY IN THE CLASSROOM MEANS

- No more one-size-fits-all approach to education
- Lessons personalized to students' needs
- A teacher can track progress of individual students in real time
- Teacher can focus on the student who is struggling while others work at their own pace
- Students are no longer passive learners, but have an active role in the classroom
- Children are able to make choices, source information, use it effectively and present it impactfully
- The Teacher, ever present as coach and facilitator to set goals, and provide guidelines and resources, but is no longer center of attention as the sole dispenser of information.
