$100 A Week & You Could Own An Investment Property

Welcome back to the next instalment in the IDentity Property Buyers Newsletter series. Today's chat is about how you could own and hold for the long term a quality investment property with as little as $100 per week. Don't get me wrong it is well and truly possible to do it with less, but I'm talking about low risk quality investment.

How do we do this you ask?

Well, we have identified areas and asset types strategically located that are set for quality gains and returns ahead. These well located areas are not reliant on a single industry economy and therefore are not high risk investments. In fact these areas have a diverse range of employment options and increasing levels of activity making it much lower risk.

So why only $100 / week?

Essentially we are after lower entry price points, picking the eyes out of well located regional centres and selecting quality assets currently under priced for what they are.

When making decisions based on data you ultimately take out feeling and emotion which gives you the best possible chance of selecting well and achieving exceptional results over time.

In order to figure all this out it takes time and significant effort. Many hours burning the midnight oils and plenty of on the ground leg work building that area knowledge and those important relationships.

At the end of the day we invest to make money and build financial wealth. So the strategy we target is exactly that, designed to deliver exceptional results personalised for our individual clients needs.

Let our professionals at IDentity Property Buyers help you avoid all those costly mistakes and provide you with a fantastic experience and an exceptional end result....
