Meet Dr. Mar:

Following undergraduate studies at University of California in Irvine and graduate studies at California Polytechnic University in Pomona, Dr. Mar earned her DVM at Colorado State University. She completed her small animal internship at Cornell University Hospital for Animals in New York and her veterinary ophthalmology residency at Eye Care for Animals in Arizona.

Dr. Mar specializes in the medical and surgical management of animal eye diseases. She is particularly interested in determining the underlying cause of eye conditions and treating patients through the integration of medical, surgical, nutritional, and supportive therapies. She is dedicated to improving the quality of pets' lives through the maintenance of ocular health.

Dr. Mar also performs pre-breeding eye examinations for dogs.
