Strengthen the Visual Impact of Your Business.

It all begins with a first impression, as with anything, a first impression will shape the initial set of emotions and concepts people will experience about your business.

For most, this impression is enough to make a difference in their decision to stop and take notice of you before they will stop and take notice of your competition.

Creative Arts, Leadership & Talent Academy

Client : Creative Arts, Leadership & Talent Academy
Software: Adobe Illustrator Designer: Danielle Smith

As the client's academy is for adults and youth, it was important that their anagram has a carefree and mature look. Various colors not only represent the varied offerings of the school, but also the unexpectedness of creativity and inner spirit of oneself.

Tri-County Black Nurses Association

Client : Tri-County Black Nurses Association (Davenport Consulting Group)

Software: Adobe Illustrator Designer: Danielle Smith

This logo re-design was a visual and literal interpretation of the new generation of this association, breaking from a bit from the older generation. However, to keep the balance of the past and future, the client still wanted to employ the use of traditional text. Though presented with various leaf options, the final decision was to use a bay leaf as a symbol of healing.

This client wants a very basic, traditional logo with a touch of “zing”. Still being very traditional to her core, I used a sans serif typeface to bring in a little bit of leniency, with the main text visual being a strong traditional typeface.

This product logo needed to be kept simple, yet memorable and eye-catching as it will be set against very colorful packing most of the time. As this is an amphibian/reptile tank décor company, I show, in a fun way, an instant understanding of the product's favorite subject matter combined with an easily acknowledged brand lettermark.

This is a trial logo for a start-up company. This client had vision whatsoever of what they wanted. In this comp, the number 9 and the letter C are combined to provide a lock. For this concept, I was really inspired to combine the concept with the name in a literal way to further emphasize the idea of “inter-locking” and in hope to create a subliminal remembrance.

The motto for VCA is, As the Twig is Bent, so the Tree Grows. I chose a simplified illustration style for their brand image to create an atmosphere that is associated with simplicity of youth and learning; I contrasted that with a very traditional letter setting. This provides a balance for their informational material to lean in the direction the situation requires.

Client : YMCA, Cannon Street | South Carolina (Davenport Consulting Group)

Software: Adobe InDesign, Adobe Illustrator Designer: Danielle Smith

This set of materials was designed for a fun southern fundraiser gathering. The request of the client was: fun, seersucker, unique. I illustrated these with the idea of strongly emphasizing both the male and female iconic seersucker apparel. The flourishes and text style represent summer casual at it's most relaxed.
