

From its beginning in 1983, J & H Mfg. LLC has grown to become a leader in the domestic production of bars. J&H produces high quality bars of most all types for the construction, mining, industrial, and hardware industries. If it is a steel bar used for digging, prying, wrecking, nail pulling, tamping or hole alignment, it is available from J&H. Historically, most J&H Mfg. products have been privately labeled for other hand tool companies or sold direct to the U.S. Government. Recently, J&H has begun to offer products to major wholesalers and distributors as well. The following brochure will show some of the products available. Finishing and packaging is left out intentionally and is generally customized to customers' needs. Prices can be quoted once finishing/package requirements are known.
