Realtors are on the go all the time. They have many admin tasks & spend most their time in their car. When I was in Real Estate I always needed an extra hand!

Contact a realtor and offer your services. It never hurts to ask!

SELL YOUR CRAFT Online

Can you sew, bead,
paint, or bake?

Have a creative itch? There are so many videos
online that can help you learn a new craft if you don't already have one. Online
can also offer so many options to sell your craft.
Who knows You
could be the next Martha Stewart.

Tik Tok, Instagram, & Etsy are just some of the places crafters are selling their homemade goods.

SELL USED CLOTHES Online

Do you have an eye
for fashion?

Sites like
Postmark,
Facebook Market Place, and even Instagram have given fashionista's a way to shop from the comfort of their couch. Most are ditching the fast fashion
world and
picking up gently
used clothing.

Second hand stores like Goodwill or Salvation Army are a great place to start. You could even offer to sell your friends clothes for a percentage of profit.

BECOME A Freelancer

Do you have a certificate in a skill or know your way around Canva?

Sites like Fiverr.com & upwork have created a space for people to hire freelancers to create logos, proofread presentations, or create voice overs for videos. The gigs are endless.

Browse the sites & see if you have a skill you could contract out.

BECOME A Teacher

Have something you can teach?

Sites like Fiverr.com give you a place to offer private lessons to anything from singing lessons
to chess lessons.
If you have a skill
you can teach,
you sell online
lessons.

I encourage you to look around fiverr.com. You might just have something you can teach after all.
