

For more than 70 years, the National Association of Letter Carriers has been walking the walk. From front porches to union halls, America's letter carriers have delivered more than mail. They have delivered hope, progress, and millions of dollars to power MDA's mission.

It all started in 1952 when NALC became MDA's first national sponsor and officially named MDA its charity of choice. One year later, the union launched the groundbreaking Porch Light Brigade. Letter carriers volunteered to go door to door during Thanksgiving week to raise funds for families living with neuromuscular disease.

That spirit of service still defines the NALC partnership today. Year after year, members rally to raise funds, grow awareness, and strengthen communities. These efforts help drive research, support care teams, and give children and adults living with neuromuscular disease more independence and a voice.

When you support MDA through NALC, you are not just helping a cause. You are changing lives. You are fueling progress that lasts.
