THE EAST COURSE

The East Course was specifically designed with championship golf in mind. Measuring 7,138 yards from the gold tees, this is a formidable test of golf. The East was the chosen course for the 1993 and 1994 European Open and has subsequently paid host to five European Challenge Tour events and four PGA European Tour qualifying schools between 1994 and 1997, plus numerous other high profile golf tournaments.

Well bunkered greens and fairways on the front nine lull you into a false sense of security for the challenging back nine which contains arguably one of the best stretch of finishing holes in golf.

East course – Par 4, 17th hole

THE WEST COURSE

Formally known as "The Members Course", the West is often regarded as the more scenic but is certainly tighter and more undulating. Surprisingly at 7,154 yards it is slightly longer than the East.

The West boasts no fewer than four signature holes. The 12th is a demanding par five without out of bounds either side of the drive, followed by a difficult second shot with water on the right and trees on the left, culminating in a plateau green guarded by a severe pot bunker and water around half the perimeter of the green. Standing on the 16th tee looking at the par three green, no more than 100 yards away, looks easy. Beware! The 17th is another demanding par five. The 18th, in the opinion of many is one of the most underrated finishing holes you could find. From the tee an accurate drive is essential on to a tree-lined fairway, followed by a shot into a heavily guarded green with the backdrop of the magnificent Clubhouse beyond.
