INFORMATION

SAFETY AT SEA: MOTION OF THE OCEAN

Your safety is our priority, therefore we would like to recommend some safety tips to avoid accidents. Hold handrails when moving up and down stairways, and use caution when passing through doors which can close suddenly due to the ship's motion. Be very careful with the air draft when your balcony door is open. During rough seas, please avoid open deck areas and wear flat-soled footwear when circulating around the vessel.

TOILET PLUMBING SYSTEM

The vacuum system we use on board differs from land based toilet systems and cannot process items other than the toilet paper provided by the ship. Please refrain from throwing anything else into the toilets throughout the vessel as this may cause damage to or block the vacuum system. Appropriate waste receptacles are located in all staterooms and throughout the vessel for your convenience.

CELEBRATION PACKAGES

Celebrating a special occasion this voyage? Bring a smile to the one you love and surprise them with a unique celebration package. Include anything from champagne, cakes and flowers to a mimosa breakfast in your stateroom and rose petals on the evening turn down. Enquire with the Guest Relations team today for the different options available and make this cruise one of those special memories you carry with you for a lifetime.

ST. KITTS, with dormant volcanoes, pink beaches and gorgeous green hills, is a beautiful backdrop to any Caribbean adventure. Founded in 1623 by both the French and the British, the island's deep colonial history is reflected in the abandoned fortresses, as well as its landscaped gardens, city squares and architectural details.

Basseterre (not to be confused with Basse-Terre, Guadeloupe), is the capital of the Federation of Saint Kitts and Nevis in the West Indies. Situated against the irresistible setting of St. Kitts' emerald green hills and punctuated by elegant Georgian architecture, Basseterre, is one of the best of the Caribbean's small capitals.

ANTIGUA was "discovered" by Christopher Columbus in 1493, but it took more than another century for the island to actually have a permanent colony. Sugar cane became the dominant force, with the first sugar plantation established in 1674. Even after emancipation in 1834, local residents had limited control over their economic freedom until 1939 and the advent of the island's trade union movement. Today St. John's is the epitome of Caribbean cosmopolitan, a home for high fashion, fine dining and the good life.

There's a grace and elegance to St. John's, the capital of Antigua that immediately makes visitors feel at home. Perhaps that's because this city of 31,000 brings such a well rounded menu of things to see and do. It's hard not to miss the welcoming spires of St. John's Cathedral, twice destroyed by earthquakes (in 1683 and 1745) but since then a rebuilt masterpiece and a testament to the fortitude of this island nation.

MARTINIQUE, renowned for the beauty of its beaches and vegetation, is one of the largest Caribbean islands. At about 425 square miles, it is roughly the size of Maui, and similar to that Hawaiian Island in its lush tropical flora. The mountainous terrain is also covered with acres of banana plantations, pineapple fields, and sugar cane.

Columbus first charted the island, but the French settled Martinique in 1635. Other than occasional British intrusions, the French have since retained the island.

BARBADOS, the easternmost island of the West Indies, combines beautiful beaches with ingenuous British charm to produce one of the Caribbean's most popular destinations. The west coast of the island is lined with over 10 miles of perfect white sand beaches with perfectly clear water. This is why this piece of paradise has been dubbed the "Platinum Coast".

Barbados is mostly a flat coral island, but there are rolling hills and many deep ridges and gullies, with an interesting distribution of flora and fauna. Within the Barbados coral core, there is a vast array of caves and underground lakes which provide an excellent supply of drinking water that is amongst the purest in the world. Geologically Barbados is unique, being actually two land masses that merged together over the years.
