

March 2023 Art News & Updates

"Birds will give you a window, if you allow them. They will show you secrets from another world—fresh vision that, though it is avian, can accompany you home and alter your life. They will do this for you even if you don't know their names— though such knowing is a thoughtful gesture. They will do this for you if you watch them."

— Lyanda Lynn Haupt, Rare Encounters with Ordinary Birds

Featured Paintings
"When Harry met Sally" Diptych
Each piece is 16"x40" acrylic on canvas

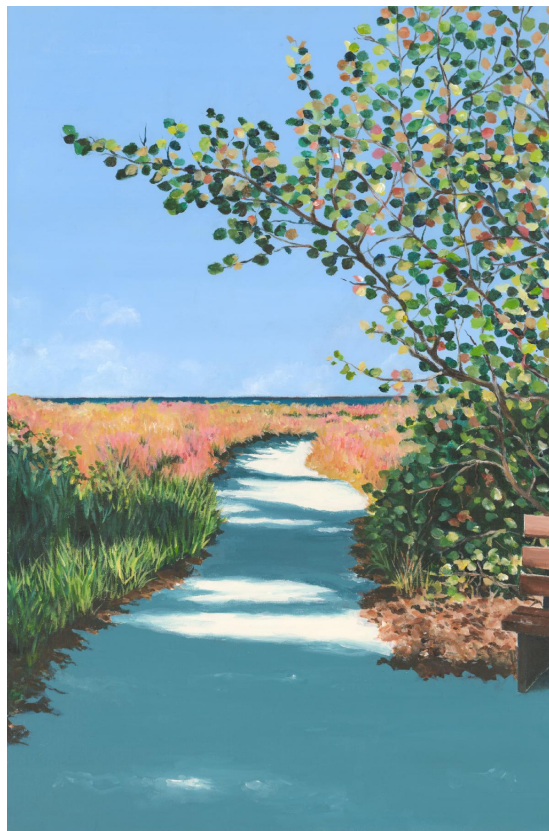

Birds are special creatures and they deserve to be revered. They are resourceful, resilient, and orderly. It's not surprising that birdwatching is a favorite pastime among many people; there is so much to be learned from them. I painted the snowy egret and blue heron watching each other from the safety of their perches, much like we study them. I placed them on dock pilings to give them height and to reflect their regal nature. The birds are looking at each other in the diptych, as if assessing and admiring one another and I thought about one of my favorite movies, "When Harry Met Sally."
