Art Festivals Are Here!

Fall is here and the weather is perfect for outdoor art festivals. I hope you have an opportunity to enjoy the fresh air and come by my booth to say hello! See the November schedule below and enjoy a sneak preview of some of my new work.

New Artwork

This month, I'm highlighting "Shells For Jamie". It is a gratitude piece for my husband. One of his favorite things to do for me is to find tiny, intact shells when he is on a construction site. Whatever he finds, he puts in his pocket and keeps with him throughout the day until he returns home to unveil his found treasure. Over the years, we've created a "shell garden" on our back porch and every time I look at it, I am reminded that even small gestures of love and thoughtfulness make a big impact. I painted "Shells For Jamie" to show my appreciation for his thinking of me and to give our shell garden the attention that it deserves!
