

By: Nathan Mendenhall

Nuclear Crisis: China and Kazakhstan Cut Off the World

Tensions are rising in the South Asia region as China gives Kazakhstan incentives to supply them with their supplies of uranium. The whole world is terrified as rumors spread of China building nuclear warheads with this newfound supply of uranium. The countries of the Pacific Islands are especially scared because of their past experience with nuclear testing in the area.

The delegates are conflicted whether to take up arms or stay peaceful. The US and Türkiye were arguing about whether they should invade or stay passive by cutting off trade with China. The US stressed that the only way to deal with this is by invading Kazakhstan and cutting off China's uranium supply from Kazakhstan. Türkiye says that by cutting off trade from the world with China will quickly deplete their resources. This depletion of resources will prevent China from being able to purchase more uranium. Most countries are backing Türkiye, saying that they need to band together against the threat of China. Russia agrees with the US and states that cutting off trade with them will not solve the problem in time to prevent nuclear warfare. Russia poses the question, "Why would China be purchasing so much uranium from Kazakhstan if not to start nuclear war? We need to act fast." These opposing views led to heated debate amongst the delegates.

"Aggression is not the answer, we have to band together and collect more uranium that China can get"
-Thailand

Japan recognizes that China has broken the NPT (Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons), and seeks to strengthen these treaties. Türkiye believes that we need to globalize uranium exports and cut off China from trading with the world, leading to the prevention of China from having the resources to purchase more uranium. The US and Russia believe that the only way to protect the world is with force. This force will not be on China, for that would cause nuclear warfare, but on Kazakhstan. They want to invade Kazakhstan and stop them from giving China any more Uranium.

CRISIS UPDATE

Breaking news reaches the delegates as Kazakhstan and China cut off ties with the rest of the world. It is found that Kazakhstan has been supporting China with uranium. China has been building nuclear warheads with this uranium in islands that surround the main land. Trade with other countries has completely halted and countries around the world are wondering how they are going to sustain themselves.

"To truly get rid of nuclear weapons, we need to strengthen our treaties with China"
-Japan

By: Jack Honigblum

Terrorist Organization “KTP” Strikes Tuvalu

In an intense debate between many UN countries, the topic of the KTP terrorist was discussed. Recently, the KTP attacked the country of Tuvalu. KTP is an anonymous terrorist organization, which no one in the room knew anything about.

The KTP used AI drones to attack Tuvalu. These drones were found on the grounds of Tuvalu. The drones were found with no markings or fingerprints at all. The council discussed how Tuvalu might need militia aid to prevent this from happening again. Some countries decided that it would be better to have offense rather than defense. Countries like Turkey stated that the best offense is defense. Other countries such as Russia, stated that we need to focus on the next attack rather than what has already happened. During the Nuclear Crisis Council Meeting, Belarus said they wanted to help the pacific area, such as Japan and Tuvalu, by sending militia aid.

“We have every right
to be terrified right
now”
-Bongbong Marcos

The intense quote comes from the Prime Minister of the Philippines, Who stated that the KTP could strike at any given moment. The KTP could do this since they have powerful nuclear weapons and complete secrecy from the rest of the world. Their ultimate goal is to take over the world. But, if they destroy the world there would be no world to take over. Also, Tuvalu requested money to build military bases in Tuvalu. They were turned down by a vote in the Nuclear Crisis Council. Tuvalu and the United Kingdom were frustrated at each other. Tuvalu claimed they need protection since they are technically a U.K. Territory. The U.K. clearly disagrees with Tuvalu, which sparked intense debate.

CRISIS UPDATE

Breaking news, the KTP terrorist organization brutally attacked Osaka, Japan by dropping a nuclear bomb from a plane. This attack resulted in 50,000 casualties. The plane shocked millions with its writing, which said, “KTP WON’T STOP,” on the side of the plane. The KTP base has been found in Cebu City, Philippines. Their base was found and trashed, with one person who is in the custody of the International Criminal Court. The head of KTP left a message which was found untrackable.

“They could be anywhere and everywhere all at once”
-Luiz Silva